BOOST IN TAXES FOR RELIEF NOW IN LEGISLATURE

Raise in Sales and Gas Levies Likely.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Four bills that would give the state an additional revenue of 36 millions annually for unemployment relief by increasing the sales and gasoline taxes and enlarging the scope of the former were introduced in the house tonight. They were sent to second reading.

Under those measures the present 2 per cent sales tax would be increased to 3 per cent, the 3 cent gasoline tax would be raised to 4 cents, and utilities selling gas, water, and electric energy, whether publicly or privately owned, and some eighty other occupations not now included would be brought under the sales tax.

A fifth bill appropriates 7½ millions to carry the Illinois emergency relief commission until July 1. Bills similar to these five will be introduced in the senate tomorrow, and it is expected that more bills will follow.

Up to Legislators Now.

Submission of the bills throws the whole problem of raising the amount dictated by Washington as the state's share of the relief burden onto the floors of both houses of the general assembly. That procedure was agreed upon at the conclusion this afternoon of a five hour conference—the third held in a week—between Gov. Horner and the executive committees of both houses.

In those conferences no agreement could be reached on a tax program. But notwithstanding that lack of formal approval, several of the Democratic leaders privately expressed the opinion that at the windup the bills adopted would be those increasing the sales and gasoline taxes and bringing the utilities under the former.

Immediately on introduction of the bills several house Republicans leaped to their feet demanding to know whether their measures providing for changes in the administration of relief would be advanced with the tax bills. They indicated that the money raising bills would have hard sledding unless the other bills were considered concurrently.

Wants Methods Changed.

Earlier in the day Senator Earl B. Searcy [Rep., Springfield] had suggested in the conference that the relief administration methods should be changed while the tax measures are before the legislators.

"Whatever bill is passed to raise this money will need Republican votes in the house to obtain the 102 majority needed for emergency legislation," Senator Searcy said. "It is possible that after these Republican votes have been given the relief administration would be reorganized in the best interests of the Democratic party."

The bills are to be considered in the committee of the whole, and it is expected that they will take precedence over all other matters. The state has appropriated 9 millions as its share of relief funds until April 15, but if new money is to be coming in by that time the bills should be passed by March 15.

From those taxes proposed today it is estimated approximately 40 millions revenue would be forthcoming. But as an indication that the search for other methods of raising the required revenue have not been abandoned a committee was appointed today to determine if there is a sufficient amount of the gasoline tax unpledged to care for relief or to finance a bond issue.

Proposes New System.

In the line of changing the form of relief administration, Representative William W. Powers [Dem., Chicago] introduced a bill creating a setup similar to the selective draft boards of 1917.

Under this bill the governor would appoint a board of relief in each county. In cities of over 30,000 population there would be a relief board in each ward, and in the wards an additional board for each thirty thousand persons in excess of the first thirty thousand. The board would consist of three persons, of which not more than two would be of the same political party and one would be a licensed physician.

These boards would have complete authority over the administration of relief in their localities. They would get their funds from the present relief commission, which would stay in existence merely as the agency to which the local boards would report.

In another direction were two bills presented by Representative Searle. One would provide a tax upon gross incomes to replace real and personal property taxes and the other would abolish the sales tax entirely.

NEW DEAL LOSES WEIRTON STEEL INJUNCTION SUIT

Section 7-A Is Held Invalid.

Wilmington, Del., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Judge John P. Nields, in the federal District court of Delaware, today held that section 7-A (the collective bargaining section) of the national industrial recovery act is unconstitutional and void when applied to companies not engaged in interstate commerce, as congress has power to regulate business of an interstate nature only.

He also ruled that the company union, or employé representation plan of collective bargaining, is legal under the recovery act.

These findings were handed down in a decision which dismissed the government's suit against the Weirton Steel company of Weirton, W. Va., and denied the government's plea for an injunction to restrain the company from interference with its employés' selection of representatives for collective bargaining.

No Interference Proved.

The court held that interference had not been proved, and that the company union at Weirton was free of intimidation, domination, and control by the management. It also found that the Weirton elections for coöperative bargaining representatives in 1933 were legal.

The suit, hard fought in prolonged court proceedings, was regarded as an important test of the New Deal's labor policy. Consequently the court's decision was received as a victory for the proponents of the company union and as a defeat for the Roosevelt administration and for organized labor.

Government officials indicated an appeal would be taken to the United States Supreme court for a final verdict on the constitutionality of section 7-A. It also was hinted new legislation would be introduced in congress in an effort to overcome the constitutional issue.

Hits Section 7-A.

Judge Nields held that the Weirton Steel company was not engaged in interstate commerce despite the government's contention to the contrary. Pointing out that the United States Supreme court had decided in a number of cases that the commerce clause of the constitution cannot be construed to permit congress to regulate the entire industrial life of the nation, he said that the government under section 7-A and the codes is attempting to do just what the Supreme court has condemned.

The constitution does not give congress the power to regulate manufacture, he went on, and the Supreme court cases to this effect "must stand until the constitution is amended."

He held that the application of these cases to the Weirton issues was "quite certain." Raw materials brought into the Weirton plants never were shipped into interstate commerce, he continued. The finished products shipped out, he explained, were entirely different from the raw materials shipped in.

Cites High Court Rule.

"If the defendant's manufacturing plant and operation are to be regarded as instruments for the interstate movement of goods," he went on, "it follows that practically all of the manufacturing industry of the United States would be brought within the control of the federal government. Such result has received the unqualified condemnation of the Supreme court."

The fact that Weirton is a subsidiary of the National Steel corporation, which is engaged in interstate commerce, does not change the status of Weirton, according to Judge Nields.

The court dismissed the suggestion that recurrent hard times might justify the suspension of constitutional limitations as one that "borders on the fantastic and merits no serious consideration."

Upholds Company Union.

Holding that the "relations between the defendant and its employés do not affect interstate commerce," Judge Nields said that a relationship satisfactory to both management and workers was an essential feature to the success of a manufacturing enterprise, and that the court would not disturb a satisfactory relationship, which he held existed under the Weirton plan of employé representation.

He said the Weirton plans embodied "the twentieth century American theory" of such relationship as dependent upon "mutual interest and good will," as opposed to the "tradi-

TRAINING FOR THE BIG FIGHT?

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Wiley Post's brush with death in his substratosphere flight last week was caused by a deliberate plot, according to the Los Angeles Times.

Emery dust was poured into the supercharger of his famous round the world plane, Winnie Mae, before he took off on the attempted flight to New York. The flight ended soon after its start, with Post setting the plane down, without wheels, on the Mojave desert.

"The details came to light from sources of unquestionable authority," the Times story says, "yet there is no explanation for the cold-hearted attempt to send the flyer crashing to his doom."

Notices Engine Trouble.

Frictionizing dust was put into the No. 1 supercharger of the plane, and, had it not been for Post's remarkable sensitiveness to airplane engines, the flight probably would have had a tragic end.

Almost five miles above the earth, shortly after he had struck out for New York, Post set the supercharger functioning. He quickly realized something was amiss. Thinking that an oil line was broken and knowing that the motor would heat up, he turned the plane around, shut off the power, and glided to earth.

Although he did not make his suspicions publicly known, it was learned that the ship was turned over to motor experts for examination of its Pratt-Whitney Wasp 450 horse power motor.

Engine Is Dismantled.

The engine was dismantled and it was found that the walls of the cylinders had been roughened by the grinding effect of the dust.

The result of this action, as the substance wore away the surface of the cylinder walls, was a steady loss of compression and a profligate spattering of oil.

Post and his associates were understood to have hesitated about asking an official inquiry, because they felt there was some perplexity as to what crime, if any, had been committed.

Girl Singer, Flung 30 Feet to Stage, Critically Hurt

New York, Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Flung nearly thirty feet to the stage of the Radio City Music hall while more than a thousand persons in the audience watched, Miss Beatrice Joyce, 23 year old singer, was in a critical condition tonight. Miss Joyce was making her appearance in the finale when she was thrown from a small gondola, decorated to resemble a large bluebird, in which she was swung over the heads of the rest of the cast.

The wings were of canvas and were attached to his arms. He also had a canvas web sewed between his overall legs. Thus attired he did three loops, several sharp banks, and some gliding. It was all over in a minute and a quarter, while he slowly counted 75. Then he opened his parachute, some 10,000 feet lower than the altitude from which he jumped, and landed safely.

Sohn, a Lansing, Mich., parachute jumper who specializes in delayed drops, said without the "bat wings" it would have taken him only 30 seconds to fall the 10,000 feet. He plans to experiment again tomorrow.

"I am sure that I could have glided a mile or more laterally if I had concentrated my efforts on that," he said. "It was cold and I was in a hurry to get to the ground."

START WRECKING OF SKY RIDE AT FAIR TOMORROW

Demolition of the Sky Ride on the grounds of A Century of Progress Exposition will begin tomorrow morning when the ten cars which carried passengers between the two towers will be wrecked. The cars, each of which weighs 6,200 pounds, will be dropped on the west bank of the lagoon.

According to R. A. Goldman of the concern of Barker, Goldman & Lubin, which is dismantling the Fair buildings, the iron overhead cable from the west tower of the Sky Ride will be severed about ten yards from the tower. The cars will then be sent out from this tower and will crash to earth at the point where the cable has been cut.

Mr. Goldman also explained the probable method by which the 628 foot towers will be destroyed about April 15. The base of the west tower will be undermined and the weight of the 650,000 pounds of cable connecting it with the east tower across the lagoon will cause it to fall eastward. The base of the east tower will then be undermined on the east side, causing it also to fall in that direction.

Wallace Sees 4 Pct. Rise in Living Costs

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Housewives can look forward to having another four cents knocked off the purchasing power of their dollars before 1935 is over, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace predicted today.

Based on Statistics.

Living costs during this year will jump 3 or 4 per cent over those prevailing last year, Secretary Wallace estimated. His prediction was based on statistical studies conducted by Louis Bean, one of his price experts.

Food prices, booming faster than any others, will be 12 per cent higher than last year before 1935 closes, according to Secretary Wallace. Meat prices will lead all others by jumping almost 32 per cent. Dairy products, Mr. Wallace said, will be another type of food which will rise rapidly in value, especially during the first half of the year.

Admits AAA Responsibility.

AAA restriction of farm production is responsible for a part of the price increase, he admitted, but the drouth of last summer has also jacked up prices by reducing supplies. Drouth, according to the agriculture secretary, was an especially potent factor in the meat shortage.

Despite their past and prospective gains, food prices will still be the lowest item in the total cost of living, Secretary Wallace argued. Fuel, lighting, household furnishing, clothes, and housing, although not likely to rise much in cost in the future, never suffered the collapse of food prices, he said.

TORRENTIAL RAIN IN HONOLULU; 4 DIE, 4 MISSING

HONOLULU, P. I., Feb. 27.—(AP)—With four known dead and at least four others missing in a torrential rainstorm National Guard units were called out tonight to prevent looting in evacuated areas in the lowlands of Honolulu.

Four persons were known to have drowned in the village of Waiawa, 20 miles from the city, and four others were missing along River street in Honolulu's picturesque Chinatown, where firemen and volunteers swam through water 10 feet deep to warn residents to flee to higher ground.

The storm, accompanied by huge hailstones three inches in diameter, struck at 6:30 p. m. [midnight, eastern standard time], coming on the heels of three days of steady downpour.

Shortly before 9 p. m. Col. Perry Smooth, adjutant general, called the National Guard following conferences with the police.

All the forces of the detective bureau and the state's attorney's police force were turned yesterday to halting the reign of terrorism that has grown up since the Chicago Coal Teamsters' union, local 704, called its strike on Feb. 11 in an effort to obtain pay raises.

The order to wage stern war on the terrorists was given by State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, who expressed his dissatisfaction forcibly when he learned that two more nonstriking drivers had been shot yesterday. The total of drivers shot in the strike now stands at six.

Following the prosecutor's command, the police raided two headquarters of the union and seized twenty-five men, all of whom were taken to the detective bureau and questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty and Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan.

Leaders of Union Seized.

Among those arrested were Milton Booth Jr., president of the union; John Evans, secretary-treasurer, and Edward McDermott, business agent.

All declared firmly that they knew nothing about the shootings. Booth said the organization was poorly off and that there was no money available even to pay his own salary. Capt. Daniel Gilbert also quoted Booth as stating that the number of men on strike was only 125 and that his sole reward for heading the union was $10 a week paid him by Michael Galvin, chief of all the teamsters' and chauffeurs' unions in Chicago, outside the American Federation of Labor fold.

Squads Hunt for Galvin.

Mr. Dougherty, Capt. Gilbert and Chief Sullivan all were anxious to find and question Galvin. His headquarters at 809 West Madison street was one of the places raided and eight of the men held last night were found there. Galvin, however, was missing, and so were Marcus [Studdy] Looney, and Sam Alex, officials of the excavators' union and his close associates.

Records of the Galvin group were seized, but these were found to be of a routine nature. An effort is to be made today to open two locked safes which, it is suspected, may contain more important writings.

The second raid was made on the offices of the Chicago Truck Drivers' union at 934 West Madison street. The police had received information that an automobile from which coal drivers were fired on had been seen to stop there earlier in the day.

Gunmen Defy Police.

It is known that the state's attorney and the police as well are greatly irked by the fact that, although 700 policemen have been regularly assigned to the guarding of trucks on which coal is now being delivered in Chicago and suburbs, terrorists representing few more than 100 strikers have been able to carry on their campaign of gunplay.

They have even developed a special technique for the job. Apparently well versed in the use of firearms, they have aimed always at the legs of the drivers, none of whom has been struck in the body or the head.

Most of the investigators believe that the gunmen are experienced men serving for hire, considering it unlikely that coal heavers would be able to

STORY OF HUGE INSURANCE PLOT AMAZES COURT

Prison for Baiata; Halt Barry Trial.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

Details of the amazing scheme whereby Joseph Baiata, former banker and ex-convict, and a group of associates planned to seize and loot the $13,000,000 treasury of the Abraham Lincoln Life Insurance company of Springfield, Ill., were told yesterday before Judge Michael Feinberg in the Criminal court. Baiata was sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary after he told his story.

The sentencing of Baiata came after the trial of David Henry [Long Count] Barry, prize fight referee, and Abraham Karatz, former St. Paul lawyer, was halted suddenly by the severe illness of Attorney W. W. Smith, counsel for Barry. A mistrial had to be declared, but the case will be retried.

In testimony he gave after his plea of guilty Baiata spared neither Barry nor Karatz from blame in the conspiracy, which started with the theft by a bank clerk of small checks from the Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank. The shortage finally totaled $54,000. Barry and Karatz were being tried for their part in this embezzlement in the case which was halted by Attorney Smith's illness yesterday.

Says Barry Knew All.

Although Baiata did not say that Barry was in on the scheme to loot the life insurance company, he said Barry had full knowledge of the juggling of accounts at the bank by Otto Van Derck, the 23 year old clerk who did the embezzling. This scheme "Mr. Barry concurred in," Baiata told the judge at the outset of his story.

The chubby, almost bald defendant told of the alertness of Ernest Palmer, state insurance commissioner, who thwarted the scheme to seize the insurance company by buying control with funds stolen from the bank. Baiata was unusually polite in addressing the judge and gave the appearance of the talkative barber which he was before he entered into the tavern business with Barry at 112 West Madison street.

Baiata said he was promised no immunity and he was expecting no consideration for his plea of guilty. He wanted, he said, to atone as much as possible for the trouble he had caused the young bank clerk.

Tells of Previous Convictions.

He told the judge that he was convicted in 1922 in the federal courts in Boston, Mass., and served three years in Atlanta penitentiary.

Prior to his conviction for manipulating funds of a national bank, Baiata said he was owner and chairman of the board of the First National bank of Warren, Mass., a chain of 7 other banks and an insurance company. After he gave his personal history, Judge Feinberg asked him if he desired to tell of the facts in the case.

"I would be delighted to do so, your honor," said the defendant, making a sweeping bow to the judge.

Baiata first detailed the start of the conspiracy whereby the bank clerk juggled short checks so that improvements could be financed in the tavern after Barry came in as a partner. Then he plunged into the deal to seize the insurance company.

How Plot Progressed.

"We made contact with Harney B. Hill [former president of the insurance company, who committed suicide after the exposure] through a man who formerly worked for my insurance company in the east," testified Baiata. "Hill and his associates held the controling interest in the life insurance company and Karatz thought he could get control through using his friend, Gustav Lindquist."

Lindquist was former insurance commissioner of Minnesota and is at present a fugitive from a conspiracy indictment growing out of the insurance deal.

"The company had earnings of from $150,000 to $200,000 a year, a very attractive situation your honor," continued Baiata. "We could get possession for $400,000."

Ties Karatz to Scheme.

In order that Van Derck might have a free hand at the bank to hold out a $25,000 worthless check that was to be used as a down payment, Karatz lured the head bookkeeper to a nearby hotel, where he offered him a lucrative job in the insurance company, Baiata testified. When the bookkeeper returned to the Amalgamated bank the juggling had been accomplished.

"About this time, your honor, a blunder, and what a blunder it was, was made," Baiata continued. "As a result they could not get away with anything. The insurance commissioner should not have been notified."

The judge asked Baiata to explain and he asserted that the specific mistake was in letting Mr. Palmer know that the controling stock of the insurance company had changed hands. The plan, he said, was to keep this fact quiet. It was agreed to by Hill, the witness declared.

Forged Securities Ready.

"How were Mr. Hill and his associates to be paid the balance on the $400,000? Was it to be stolen from the Amalgamated through this same system?" asked the judge.

"No, your honor; the boy [Van Derck] would not have stood for that. He had about reached his limit. The plan was to loot the good securities from the vault of the insurance company and replace them with forged securities.

"But, your honor," continued Baiata, making another flourishing bow, "the insurance commissioner put an examiner into the insurance company. He padlocked the vaults and, your honor, what a padlock he put on those vaults!"

Baiata said that arrangements already had been made to have $600,000 worth of forged bonds printed within a few days after the insurance deal was started.

Only forged bonds were to be used at first, to allow the conspirators to get their hands on some securities quickly. These would have been turned into cash to complete the insurance deal and to make good the peculations of Van Derck at the bank. The ultimate plan, however, was to use the insurance company portfolio as a dumping ground for "hot" [stolen] securities. Assistant State's Attorneys Thomas Dodd Healy and C. Vernon Thompson halted Baiata when he started to tell this phase of the case, because of investigations now being made, but let him go on with his other revelations.

How Plan Collapsed.

"Even after the padlock was put on the vaults, your honor, Mr. Karatz got $80,000 worth of bonds from the insurance company to put up on the purchase of an Indianapolis bank," continued Baiata. "The plan was to get the money from the bank to make the rest of the payments. The exposure came too soon to allow the deal to go through."

Baiata told Judge Feinberg that the bonds taken from the insurance company which has thousands of policy smuggled out through Hill. However, he said, he did not know how the bonds were maneuvered out of the insurance company while it was under the watchful eye of the agent of the insurance commissioner. The bonds were returned hurriedly to the portfolio of the insurance company and the bank purchase was dropped when Van Derck made his confession.

Judge Feinberg Amazed.

"This has been a revelation to this court," said Judge Feinberg after hearing Baiata's story. "It is unthinkable that such a situation could exist where men of the type of Baiata could possibly get control of an insurance company, which has thousands of policy holders. It was an uncanny scheme whereby these men stole the money for the down payment and then intended to walk into the vaults of the insurance company and extract enough securities to pay the retiring president and his associates for control of the company.

"A memorial should be written of record in this court on the alertness of the insurance commissioner who stopped this scheme."

"Others involved may not want to tell the truth about their parts, but I do," said Baiata, who earlier in the session had caused a laugh when he told the judge that the suit which Karatz was wearing in court was bought with stolen money.

NOL PROS THEFT CHARGE AGAINST BERWYN JUDGE

A charge of receiving stolen property against Justice of the Peace Charles F. Seeman Jr. of Berwyn was nol prossed by Justice of the Peace Chan C. Foster of Palos Park yesterday.

The property, found in Seeman's home at 2512 Scoville avenue, Berwyn, consisted of two tires and a battery stolen from parked automobiles. Justice of the Peace Seeman pleaded that he had bought them from his nephew, Robert Parker, 16 years old, 7525 West 62d place, Argo, for $10 several weeks ago, on the representation that they were from the automobile of a friend.

Parker and four other youths, arrested several days ago, admitted the thefts. Larceny charges against Parker and Edward Daliege, 23 years old, 7530 West 63d street, Argo, were nol prossed. Walter Schwartz, 20 years old, 7525 West 62d place, Argo; Charles Schwingle, 19, of 5341 73d avenue, Summit, and Roger Klasek, 17, of 5523 South Nottingham avenue, were placed on probation for six months.

BARON, SPARED IN NAZI BEHEADINGS, REPORTED FREED

WARSAW, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A rumor circulated in the capital tonight that Baron George Sosnowski, recently sentenced to life imprisonment in Berlin in connection with the espionage case for which two women were beheaded, had returned to Poland. Polish officials and the official news agency, however, were unable to confirm it. It was said in reliable quarters that, although it seems likely that Sosnowski would be exchanged for a German spy held here, it was improbable the exchange had been completed so quickly, or, if so, that he would be in the capital.

handle firearms so well without long practice.

But the police are confident also that the strike cannot go along much further and that the campaign of terrorism is being intensified in a last desperate effort to avoid defeat. Undercurrents of rumors hape it that Booth's men have been deserting the cause in large numbers and are ready to join the Coal Drivers, Helpers, and Handlers' union, which is affiliated with the A. F. of L.

The first shooting yesterday was that of George Segall, 34 years old, 2841 Cermak road, fired on as he was driving a truck at 18th street and Western avenue. He was struck in the left thigh. The second victim was Fred Hoffenkamp, 28 years old, 6021 South Kolmar avenue. He was shot in front of 1325 West 47th street.

In each instance the assailants, with fast automobiles, drove away after the shooting. Chief of Detectives Sullivan said that his men had orders, in the event they could spot any of the terrorists, to shoot and kill them.

Victims to View Suspects.

Advised by Assistant State's Attorney Dougherty, the chief said all those arrested yesterday would be held all night and that the victims of the shootings would be given an opportunity to identify them as terrorists.

"We are satisfied," he said, "that most of these men belong to the rank and file and have no knowledge of the shootings. But there may be some among them who can be spotted. We, as policemen, have no interest in the strike or the demands made by the union. But we are determined that this shooting must stop, even if we have to assign more than 700 men to the task."

Some of the investigators held that the strike had proved a boomerang to the Galvin-Looney-Booth lineup; that many of their once faithful members had been alienated by its seeming lack of success. They pointed out that whereas the group once controled eighteen prosperous unions it now has only four, none of which is functioning smoothly.

SON IS BORN TO 75 YEAR OLD BRITISH BARONET

LONDON, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Sir Walter Gilbey, noted 75 year old British sportsman, announced tonight the birth of a son to his second wife, whom he married in 1934.

The aged baronet was quite excited about it.

"Name? I don't know yet what we will name him," he said. "Been too busy to think about it."

WEIRTON CASE PERILS WHOLE NRA STRUCTURE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—The entire NRA program is unconstitutional and dead if the Supreme court upholds the decision which Federal Judge John P. Nields handed down at Wilmington, Del., today in the Weirton case.

This was the tacit admission of all New Dealers here. Judge Nields' ruling that manufacturing is not, in itself, interstate commerce and, therefore, not subject to federal regulation will, if sustained by the Supreme court, make the entire code program unconstitutional, they confessed.

New Dealer Expects Reversal.

Realizing the implied danger to NRA, Blackwell Smith, acting general counsel of the recovery administration, today issued a statement attacking Judge Nields' decision. But in his statement Mr. Smith himself admitted the seriousness of the court's threat to NRA. Mr. Smith professed to have "no doubt" that the Supreme court would reverse the decision.

Other observers were less optimistic than Mr. Smith and predicted a Supreme court decision upholding Judge Nields and practically abolishing NRA.

Mr. Smith, following the New Deal custom of attacking "hostile" judges, criticized this position of Judge Nields as based on "outmoded" jurisprudence.

"As to the position taken by the court on constitutionality of federal control of matters involving manufacturing, the decision, as reported to me, seems clearly to be based on an outmoded theory of constitutional law," Mr. Smith declared.

Manufacturers Rejoice.

While Mr. Smith sought to defend the entire NRA, manufacturers and business men rejoiced, union leaders objected, and radical legislators threatened because the Weirton decision, although striking only indirectly at the entire NRA, smashed directly at the famous section 7-A, guaranteeing collective bargaining to laborers.

"This decision will promote rational employment relations," said James A. Emery, general counsel of the National Association of Manufacturers.

"It sounds the death knell of the fundamental fallacies underlying the pending 30 hour week bill, the Guffey coal bill, and the Wagner labor disputes bill. It revives constitutional government."

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, on the other hand, objected that "labor cannot accept the decision" as final and charged that it is "based upon either a misunderstanding or a misinterpretation of the facts."

Members of congress, led by Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democratic leader in the senate, pointed out the decision was not final and chorused that "sentiment in congress overwhelmingly supports the provisions of section 7-A."

ILLINOIS HOUSE RAPS MEXICO IN CHURCH CASE

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Condemnation of the Mexican government for a "studied campaign against freedom of religion, freedom of the press, the right of assembly and the freedom of education," was voted tonight—40 to 21—by the Illinois house of representatives.

That joint resolution, which now goes to the senate for consideration, was introduced by Representative Joseph H. Davis [Dem., Murphysboro].

It placed the house on record as condemning the tactics of the Mexican officials and provides that copies of the resolution, when, as and if passed, be sent to President Roosevelt, Secretary of State Hull, and the Illinois members of congress.

Bessie Opas' Ex-Husband Held for Trafic Offense

Marion Opas, 39 years old, 5114 South Racine avenue, a garage owner, was arrested last night after his automobile collided with another driven by Edward Haussen, 1033 North Harding avenue, at Van Buren street and Ashland avenue. Opas was charged with driving while intoxicated and passing a stop light. He is the former husband of Mrs. Bessie Opas, who was found guilty of a conspiracy to murder him and sentenced in 1933 to one to five years in Dwight prison. She was later awarded a divorce.

TRIAL IS DELAYED

EMBLEN INVOKES TECHNICALITIES TO AVOID TRIAL

Arthur Emblen, who confessed he was hired by Irving Weitzman to kill Eli Daiches, invoked two technicalities yesterday in seeking his discharge from a murder conspiracy indictment. Emblen failed to carry out the contract to kill Daiches, and Weitzman was convicted of murder last Saturday for hiring another man who arranged the killing.

Attorney William Scott Stewart, who entered the case dramatically two weeks ago at the time Emblen was called to the stand in Weitzman's trial and who advised Emblen not to testify, asked Judge Harry B. Miller of the Criminal court yesterday to quash the Emblen indictment on the ground that it was based solely upon his own testimony before the grand jury. He also declared Emblen was entitled to a discharge because of delays in bringing him to trial. Judge Miller set March 8 for arguments.

Arguments on a motion for a new trial for Weitzman, which were to have been heard today, were delayed yesterday until March 8. If he does not gain a new trial he will be sentenced to life imprisonment.

LOUISIANA HOUSE ENJOYS DISPLAY OF 'HOOEY BOMB'

Baton, Rouge, La., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Fun was poked at Senator Huey P. Long tonight in the Louisiana house of representatives over the bomb recently reported found in the senator's Washington mail.

Representative Rupert Peyton, consistent foe of the dictator, claimed the floor on personal privilege, holding a package wrapped in brown paper.

"I just received this in the mail," he facetiously remarked. "It's a bomb. I found this note in it, which reads, 'We will kill you to pieces, beware, beware! Signed J. P. Morgan and Standard Oil.'"

The house laughed heartily. Long was standing on one side of the chamber and took the gibe good humoredly.

'UPSIDE-DOWN' GIRL EXAMINED BY SPECIALIST

Fall River, Mass., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Dr. Philemon E. Truesdale, the celebrated surgeon in whose hands lie the hopes of Alyce Jane McHenry, 10, that she won't have an upside down stomach much longer, arrived at her bedside tonight, looked at her X-rays, and said he would do what he could.

Dr. Truesdale wouldn't predict the outcome of the operation nor would he say definitly how long it would take or when it would be performed.

Dr. Truesdale is a specialist in the operation by which it is hoped Alyce will be rid of the attacks of intense pain and intestinal stoppage which have afflicted her since birth.

FEDERAL JUDGE ENJOINS U. S. ON COAL CODE

35 Kentucky Operators Granted Writs.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Federal Judge Charles I. Dawson today granted 35 western Kentucky coal operators a writ preventing the government from enforcing the bituminous coal code of the NRA. He ruled that coal mining is an intrastate business and beyond the regulatory power of congress.

JUDGE DAWSON.

"The citizens of this country have the right to conduct their business without unconstitutional interference or regulation by governmental authority," he asserted in giving his ruling.

Reaffirms NRA Stand.

The judge reaffirmed his previous conclusion that the national recovery act as applied to the mining of coal is unconstitutional. He had granted the operators a temporary injunction and held the code invalid, but the case was remanded by the Circuit Court of Appeals for finding of fact as to irreparable injury.

The government's contention that gains from the coal code should be offset against losses was branded by Judge Dawson as a fallacious form of calculation.

"When the government unconstitutionally interferes with the right of a citizen to do business in his own way," he said, "that interference constitutes an injury to the property rights of the citizen.

Describes Property Injury.

"If that interference takes the form of exacting payment of wages in excess of what the citizen is willing to pay, to the extent of increased wages this citizen has been injured in his property rights.

"Surely, in such a situation the government cannot justify its action by demonstrating that the increased wages are more than absorbed by increased profits flowing to the citizen as the result of operating his business under the illegal regulation thereof by the government.

"If such is the law, then a benevolent despotism at Washington can take charge of all business in this country, regulating wages and hours of service and all the other elements thereof and the citizen would have no redress unless he could demonstrate that operation under government supervision would result in a loss to him which otherwise would not have been sustained."

Holds Controvery Judicial.

The judge held that the controversy was entirely judicial, pointing out that the operators never have acknowledged the authority of the administrative agencies. He ruled out the contention that the operators had not exhausted their administrative remedies.

"The question here is of the constitutional power of the national government to deal with the subject of hours and wages in coal mining," he declared, "I know of no tribunal under our system of laws empowered to pass upon this question except the courts."

Referring to the contention that the suit was against the United States government, Judge Dawson said in his opinion that contention is "so utterly without merit as to call for little, if any, attention."

U. S. Plans Appeal.

The government indicated that it planned an immediate appeal from the ruling, as is usual in these cases.

No immediate comment was forthcoming from NRA or justice department officials in Washington on the case, but John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers' union, offered a few remarks.

"The injunction against the soft coal code reflects the Bourbon attitude that congress can regulate practices but has no authority to protect labor," he said. "The decision justifies congress' consideration of the Guffey stabilization bill at this session."

NEW DEAL LOSES IN WEIRTON STEEL INJUNCTION SUIT

Pointing out that the company union representatives had functioned efficiently and adjusted many grievances, Judge Nields said that they had been "fearless and independent" in all controversies with the management.

"It is perfectly apparent," the court said, "that the employés of the defendant have worked out a systematic procedure for adjusting their grievances and complaints with the management."

Judge Nields further found that "in all respects, it [the company union] complies with the provisions of section 7-A of the NIRA."

Besides settling a large majority of disputes, in favor of the employés Judge Nields pointed out, the company union had obtained a 10 per cent wage increase for the men in March, 1934.

Government Hits Plan.

The government had argued that the Weirton company thwarted efforts of its workers for free and uncoerced collective bargaining and that the company union was perpetuated to deprive the employés of their lawful rights with respect to collective bargaining.

"During the summer of 1933," Judge Nields commented, "the [company union] committee of 49 workers functioned effectively and adjusted many grievances. Harmonious relations prevailed. Within a fortnight seeds of discord were planted. Organized labor took notice of the Weirton situation."

The judge charged that the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers, an A. F. of L. affiliate, procured membership among the Weirton workers "in the main by misrepresentation and extravagant promises."

Scores Steel Union.

He condemned a circular of the Amalgamated as false and misleading and said there was no warant for the Amalgamated branding as a "slacker" a man who refused to join a labor organization.

Judge Nields further rapped the A. F. of L. Amalgamated association:

"Misrepresentation, threats of closed shops, and increase in initiation fees thoroughly is borne out by a great preponderance of the evidence."

He held that union recognition, the object of the Weirton strike in 1933, generally meant a closed shop.

Further, he cited testimony that only 183 Weirton employés were eligible to vote in Amalgamated elections in 1934 and asserted it was "absurd" that officers chosen by 183 employés should represent all the Weirton employés.

The court saw no objection to the company paying to the workers' representatives $25 a month under the company union plan, saying there was no evidence that any one had been influenced by this extra compensation. Judge Nields also differed with the government regarding the payment by the company of $6,000 for printing ballots and posters for the union. The government regarded this as intimidation.

Judge Nields found that the Weirton plan of employé representation was modeled after one which had been in operation for 15 years among 70,000 employés of the Bethlehem Steel company.

It was "significant," he continued, that the testimony at the trial showed there was "practically no opposition" to the Bethlehem plan when it was adopted and put into effect at Weirton.

The National Labor board, he added, had no legal jurisdiction "when it purported to assume jurisdiction" over the Weirton strike.

"It is appropriate to observe that when the National Labor board purported to assume jurisdiction over the strike at the defendant's plants, it had not been created by an act of congress or even by formal executive order," he said.

In declaring that section 7-A as applied to the Weirton case is unconstitutional, the question still is undecided as to whether it would be constitutional as applied to a company engaged in interstate commerce.

PRIMARIES OVER, MAYORALTY RACE SETTLES TO A JOG

Campaign Without Bands Is in Prospect.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Another campaign like the one that preceded the Tuesday primaries—one without massmeetings, brass bands, or fireworks—is in prospect for Chicago for the period winding up with the city election on April 2.

Mayor Kelly has already said that he will not campaign to an extent that will interfere with his city duties or the safety campaign which he is pressing vigorously. His advisers have told him that the best kind of a campaign for him is to continue piling up the sort of record which was so emphatically indorsed on Tuesday.

Now come the Republicans with an admission that they have no intention of opening organization headquarters, of having the city central committee take charge of the election campaign, or even of arranging a systematic schedule of ward meetings.

Wetten Plans Dixie Trip.

The party nominee, Emil C. Wetten, plans to go south on Saturday with the intention of spending next week in a climate more kindly to his physical condition than recent Chicago weather has been.

"That will leave three weeks before the election," Mr. Wetten said, "and we have found that our best campaigns are those that have been just about three weeks in length. The voters do not want a long drawn out campaign. When we do start we shall put up an aggressive fight."

"What about headquarters?" he was asked. "Since there are no organization headquarters, will you open your own?"

"That is under consideration along with other questions," he replied. "All of those things will work themselves out."

G. O. P. Leader Also Going South.

That the Republican central committee has no intention of taking the lead in the campaign was disclosed by Ald. Oscar Nelson, chairman of the city organization.

"My health also requires me to go south," he said. "I shall probably be away until about a week before the election. In the meantime, if there is any real need for a meeting of the committee, Edward F. Moore, the secretary, will be authorized to call it."

Ald. Nelson, like a large number of the Republican ward committeemen, lost all patience with Mr. Wetten before primary day. It is reported that in the presence of other leaders Nelson told the present nominee that he was a "faker" in his statements in reference to campaign funds being ready for use on short notice.

Ward Leaders Listless.

Many members of the organization are said to hold the same attitude as Chairman Nelson and some of them have said they will not even call meetings of their ward organizations unless Mr. Wetten asks for an opportunity to address them.

Their position lent some color to reports that a number of committeemen supported Wetten on Tuesday merely to aid the city administration by effecting an election situation that would split the Republican vote, or certain parts of it, between Wetten and Newton Jenkins, the candidate of the self-christened "third party."

Leaders of both old parties said they were sure, in view of the difficulties encountered by Jenkins in accumulating 66,000 signatures on his nominating petition after months of campaigning, that the "third party" will not even come close to tying the Republican vote in the election. In other words, they say it has been christened properly as the "third party."

Predict 490,000 Total for Kelly.

Democratic headquarters, which received its own reports of the primary vote by precincts, said the official count—all figures up to this time have been police returns—will show Mayor Kelly's total vote close to the mark of 490,000 indicated for him by early tests Tuesday night.

The total vote cast on Tuesday—the actual number of ballots voted as differentiated from the sum of the votes for various candidates—was 697,112. Of these the Democrats cast 567,355 and the Republicans 129,757. The total was 46.93 per cent of the registered vote of the city, an extremely heavy poll in view of the snowy weather, the lack of aldermanic contests in sixteen wards, and the absence of any real contest for the Democratic mayoralty nomination.

RUTH ST. DENIS' DANCE IN CHURCH HIT BY ATTORNEY

New York, Feb. 27.—[Special.]—James E. Bennet, attorney, and a former elder in the Fort Washington Presbyterian church, protested today to the presbytery of New York against the so-called "religious dance" which Miss Ruth St. Denis gave last Sunday afternoon in the Park Avenue Presbyterian church. He called it an "attack on the purity of the church." The protest was in the form of an open letter addressed to the Rev. Dr. Maitland Bartlett, stated clerk of the presbytery.

Miss St. Denis gave an interpretation of the psalms entitled "When I Meditate on Thee in the Night Watches" in the chancel. She wore a black robe and a white robe beneath. The only visible color was the carmine on her lips, on her fingernails, and on the toenails of her bare feet.

The Rev. Edmund Melville Wylie, pastor of the church, questioned this evening said:

"I have no answer to make. If Mr. Bennet has not seen Miss St. Denis he cannot judge of her interpretive work.

"In the first place it was not a dance, and in the second place, Miss St. Denis has a real message."

SOLDIER GUARD KILLS HIMSELF IN BANK OF ENGLAND

Old Joke of London Becomes Tragedy.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 27.—Every night since 1780 soldiers have guarded the Bank of England. Their job is one of the standing jokes of London. They have nothing to do but tramp up and down. They are there simply because the officials forgot to withdraw the guard after the bank was threatened by a mob during the Gordon riots of 1780.

This morning, for the first time in living memory, the soldiers really had something to do. The joke became a tragedy. A shot rang out from the gloomy vaults of the bank at 4:30 a. m. Fear of a raid by bandits was the thought that ran through the minds of all the guards.

Soldier Found Slain.

A sergeant and several soldiers ran to the bullion room from where the shot came. They found Private James Baker, 20 and unmarried, lying on the floor with his head and bearskin hat in a pool of blood. His bayonet lay a yard or two away.

The full guard—an officer, two sergeants, a drummer and 29 men, minus Baker—was called out and every vault searched.

First examination of Baker's wound indicated it was probably self-inflicted. One of the five cartridges issued to all the soldiers was missing from Baker's pouch and the shell was found in his rifle, which had been fired. It was assumed he removed the bayonet so that the muzzle would touch his head and then deliberately shot himself.

Dies in Hospital.

The ambulance was delayed because of the necessity of examining the credentials of its attendants before they were admitted to the bank. Baker died soon afterward in the hospital.

His comrades in the prince of Wales' own company were unable to account for his death. They said he appeared happy, always dancing and singing, and was considered the life of the company.

In return for the guard the bank gives the officer champagne and a good supper every night. The privates have the privilege of riding home in the subway if it is raining and the officer must pay for this out of his own pocket. The soldiers rode home this morning.

DEATH OF YOUTH ENDS MOTHER'S 17 YEAR VIGIL

The lonely vigil of Mrs. Sylvia Emark Kennedy, which began seventeen years ago when her son, Lawrence Robert Kennedy, was born, ended yesterday with his death in her home at 680 West Kennedy road, Lake Forest.

Only twice in all these long years did Mrs. Kennedy, who is now 54, leave the house. Once she went for an hour to arrange a loan on a farm she owned. The other time was to attend the funeral of her husband, Lawrence, who ded at the age of 71 in 1924.

Her son was afflicted at birth and she considered it her duty to remain with him and give him personal care. Mrs. Kennedy shunned her neighbors and all social contacts, she explained, partly to avoid attracting attention to the son, fearing that the authorities might require that he be given institutional care. Since the death of her husband, who was a farmer, relatives had seen that supplies were regularly delivered to the house.

After Mrs. Kennedy had told her story to Coroner John L. Taylor of Lake county, to Chief of Police Frank Tiffany of Lake Forest, and to Assistant State's Attorney Okel Fuqua, the coroner issued a death certificate stating that the son died of heart disease.

Husband Replies to Wife's Suit with One of His Own

Judge Philip Finnegan of the Circuit court yesterday granted Henry Peterson, 49 years old, 4149 West North avenue, permission to file a cross bill to his wife's suit for separate maintenance. Peterson, a trucking contractor, asserted that he married Mrs. Louise Schene Peterson, 33 years old, 1526 North Spaulding avenue, in Waukegan after a drinking bout and that they lived together less than twenty-four hours. The wife's suit was filed several weeks ago.

Charges Desertion

Miss Coe Glade of the Chicago Civic Opera company yesterday obtained a divorce here from Arthur J. Thompson of Astoria, N. Y., in the court of Superior Judge Rudolph F. Desort. Miss Glade charged desertion. She asked and received the right to resume her maiden name under which she is known in the opera world, but sought no alimony. The suit was uncontested.

The divorce proceedings for the first time brought to light Miss Glade's marriage on Sept. 27, 1933. According to her testimony the ceremony took place in Astoria. She said: "My marriage lasted one hour. At the end of that time I left Astoria and returned to Chicago. My husband was to follow me, but he never came here."

Miss Glade gave her age as 32 years and said she lived at 229 Lake Shore drive. Her testimony was corroborated by Miss Lorraine Deane of 1138 Lake Shore drive. Thompson was not identified further.

There was some doubt for a short time following the divorce hearing that Miss Glade was the opera star. Her attorney, Fred Geier, told reporters: "O, no, it's not the opera Glade. It's just a little waitress." The doubt, however, was cleared up by Judge Desort, who said he was informed by Miss Glade's lawyer that she was connected with the opera.

CRUISE CROWD'S LIQUOR HELD UP IN TAX DISPUTE

New York, Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Angry protests went up on pier 58, North river, today when several hundred passengers returning from a cruise on the liner Columbia were told that armloads of liquor they brought back would cost them full duty, except for one bottle per person.

While the Columbia was on its cruise the United States Customs court here had ruled that returning voyagers might bring in, duty free, up to $100 worth of any merchandise, liquor included.

Customs officers, however, declined to abide by the decision until the treasury department at Washington made a ruling, which it did late today, accepting the court ruling allowing $100 duty free. Passengers who still were on the pier when the ruling came got the difference back.

The treasury hopes to be able to impose the domestic tax on liquor so brought in duty free.

CORONER'S JURY STUDIES DEATH OF STATLER HEIRESS

Pinehurst, N. C., Feb. 27.—(AP)—A coroner's jury today delved into the death of Mrs. H. Bradley Davidson Jr., 22 year old heiress of E. M. Statler, hotel operator, but after a secret session recessed until tomorrow without announcing a verdict.

Mrs. Davidson, a bride of less than two months, was found unconscious in the driver's seat of her car in her garage about 9 a. m. today.

Dr. M. W. Marr, who attributed the death to carbon monoxide poisoning, said he and hospital attendants worked two hours in a futile effort to revive her.

Consider Suicide Theory.

Richard P. Davidson of Pinehurst, her brother-in-law, said a servant found Mrs. Davidson under the steering wheel of her car in the garage. The motor was silent, and her body lay half out of the car. The garage door was closed.

It was learned the coroner's jury considered a suicide theory, but testimony tended to indicate the death was accidental.

Mr. and Mrs. Davidson attended a dance with their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Champaigne of New York, last night at the Pinehurst Country club. They returned home early in the morning.

Members of the household said Mrs. Davidson arose before any one else, supposedly to fill an early golf engagement.

They said she probably intended to take an early morning drive before going to the golf course. This, they said, was not unusual, as she frequently complained of being unable to sleep.

Married in January.

Mrs. Davidson, one of several children adopted by the hotel owner, was graduated from Radcliffe college in the class of 1933. She was married last Jan. 3. Her husband, 19 years her senior, is a member of a prominent Washington, D. C., family.

After funeral services here tomorrow her body will be sent to Mount Kisco, N. Y., for burial.

BILL WOULD BAR LIQUOR SALES IN 'SCHOOL' STORES

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago] introduced a bill in the senate today which is designed to prohibit the sale of liquor in stores that have school children for customers. He said that the measure has the support and approval of Mayor Kelly of Chicago.

The bill would deny a liquor license to stores and other places of business where a majority of the customers are children of school age. Liquor licenses would be denied to stores where the principal business is the sale of school supplies and lunches to school children.

Three bills introduced by Senator Mark A. Penick [Dem. Quincy] would abolish the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, and set up a state board of public welfare consisting of the director of finance, state auditor, state treasurer and six members appointed by the governor.

The board would administer the money furnished by the state and federal government. It would cooperate with the county, township and municipal agencies charged with poor relief, which would be asked to contribute to the cost of furnishing relief.

A NEW DEALER IS ABOUT TO BE EMBARRASSED

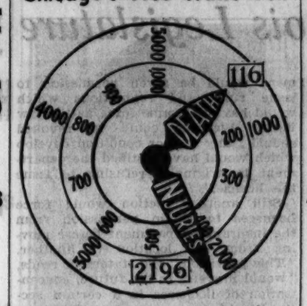
Greenville, Tex., Feb. 27.—(AP)—J. F. Nichols, Home Owners Loan corporation administrator here, is convinced some one in the agriculture department is a little rusty on the subject of processing cotton.

Negotiating for two cotton gin operators for a federal loan, Nichols received a letter stating the government "would not lend money on gins or any other distillery for the manufacture of intoxicants."

Nichols said he was writing again to explain that a cotton gin processes raw cotton and that if the men wanted to distill liquor they wouldn't approach the government, since they are citizens of one the driest counties in a dry state.

AVOIDABLE

Chicago's 1935 Trafic Toll



Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile accidents are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

WIFE OF TEACHER IN HAMMOND DIES OF AUTO INJURIES

Mrs. Albert Paschen, 32 years old, 516 Florence avenue, Hammond, died yesterday at the Argos hospital in Rochester, Ind., of injuries incurred Feb. 21 in an automobile accident north of Rochester. Her husband, an instructor in the Hammond Technical High school, and two of their five daughters were injured.

Stephen Welsh, 72 years old, 536 Grant place, died last night in Martha Washington hospital. He was injured last Sunday by the automobile of Alphonse Windey, 33 years old, 6133 Kenmore avenue, at Waveland and Western avenues. The accident could not have occurred on an elevated highway, police pointed out.

The death of Welsh raised the Cook county trafic death toll for this year to 142. Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 116 persons had been killed within the Chicago city limits this year and 2,196 had been injured.

Frank J. Schaeffer, 41 years old, 7409 River Grove avenue, River Grove, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when a truck he was driving was struck by a Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific train which was crossing Clinton avenue on its way to the Union station. Ralph Fumo, 3223 Flournoy street, the crossing watchman, said Schaeffer drove under the gates as they were being lowered.

ATLANTIC CITY BECOMES TRAP FOR CRIMINALS

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Stung by criticism over the sensational escape Jan. 20 of Alvin Karpis, "public enemy No. 1," and Harry Campbell, Atlantic City, is arranging to bottle up any future fleeing criminals.

Two lookout towers once used for downtown trafic control are being moved to the drawbridges of Absecon and Albany Avenue boulevards. Direct telephones to the city hall and large gongs will make it possible to warn the bridgetenders to open the spans, cutting off escape from this island, while the towers will give police vantage points to pick out an approaching bandit car and riddle it with lead. The bridgetenders had not been told that Karpis and Campbell were fleeing, so the bridges were not ready for use.

Bids were called for today for six machine guns and three tear gas guns. Bulletproof vests and an additional radio car also are planned. The governor of New Jersey and members of the chamber of commerce will confer Friday and Saturday over police and crime affairs.

FONTAINEBLEAU, France, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Jean Charles Millet, grandson of J. F. Millet, who painted "The Angelus," today was sentenced to six months in prison and fined 500 francs for faking "old masters" and selling them at the prices genuine replicas would bring.

[A franc is worth 6.6 cents.]

Must Pay Victim $7,970.

In addition, Millet and Cazot were ordered to pay 120,000 francs [$7,970] to M. Michaud, who brought about their arrest by complaining that a picture he had bought from them as a genuine Millet was a fake.

Millet admitted to the court, during the trial last month, that his canvases, "signed" by Corot, Pissaro, Manet, and Monet, had never been near the easels of those artists, but protested in defense of his activities that his pictures were for the export trade only.

"The so-called American and British experts," he testified, "know nothing about art. They buy only pictures with pedigrees, but have not the slightest notion whether they are genuine or not. All you have to do is ask a fabulous price."

Galleries Are Duped.

Millet said that he and his partner had sold 60 canvases to a great London gallery.

It came out, however, that the great London gallery lost nothing in the transactions, for it sold nearly all the pictures it had innocently purchased from the plotters. One picture, "The Binders," now believed false, brought 1,500,000 francs and another 111,000 francs.

CITY, ILLINOIS AND U. S. PUSH LIQUOR INQUIRY

Investigation of liquor law violators went ahead on three fronts yesterday as city, state, and federal agencies coöperated in a drive to tighten revenue laws and abolish bootleggers.

Agents of the Illinois liquor commission arrested two men in a cottage at 1251 Dixon street and confiscated a quantity of unstamped moonshine. This was the first arrest made by the commission, according to Joseph De La Cour, the secretary. The men are being held by the Racine avenue police and will be turned over to the federal government.

Fifty squads of two men each, one policeman and a federal agent, started out yesterday to canvass all of the city's 8,661 taverns. The government men, who are from the federal alcohol tax unit, are interested in discovering any violation of the government revenue laws. The policeman will investigate to learn if each saloonkeeper has the proper city licenses. Two months will be required to make the survey.

HERE THEY ARE: CHICAGO'S MINT JULEP COLONELS

With 9 Admirals and 3 Generals Thrown In.

Two hundred and seventy-five Chicagoans have been appointed colonels, admirals, or generals on the staf of Gov. Ruby Laffoon of Kentucky during his three years in office. This was disclosed during a survey within the last few days to determine the reaction of these "soldiers [and sailors] without portfolio" to the crime situation in Covington, Ky.

Organized gambling and vice in Covington, protected by a lenient political group and attracting hordes of underworld characters to the region, was brought to light during the recent difficulties of Canadian prosecutors in convicting David Meisner for the kidnaping of John Labatt, wealthy London, Ont., brewer, and in the effort to extradite Kingdon Peter Murray from Covington for the same crime.

But Colonels Aren't Interested.

Most of the Kentucky colonels, admirals, and generals in Chicago when asked what they thought of Covington conditions, admitted they did not take their commissions seriously, and said Kentucky affairs were no concern of theirs.

These inquiries served to emphasize the fact that the military title industry of Kentucky has flourished as never before during the time Gov. Laffoon has held office. Seldom does a day pass, it was learned, when he does not become lavish with the titles at his disposal and create a large quota of colonels. Sometimes he wanders into the higher brackets and a general or admiral of the staf blooms where a civilian stood before.

Nine Chicagoans have received the commission of admiral, three have been designated generals, and 263 hold colonelcies on the staf.

Even a Colonel Can Be Bewildered.

Many of these appointees have been interviewed and many of them expressed bewilderment at just why they hold the titles and just what they are going to do with them.

Their comments could be classified about as follows:

1. "I guess one of my associates happened to be in Kentucky and it seemed a good idea at the time to have me made a colonel."

2. "I knew a fellow once, who knew another fellow, who once saw the governor at a Kentucky Derby. And so I am a colonel."

3. "I have relatives in Kentucky, who thought a colonelcy would be a nice birthday present for me. I'd trade the commission for a mint julep."

4. "The commission came in the mail one day and it looked so pretty, that I haven't the heart to return it. Besides, it would require a three cent stamp to mail it back."

5. "My colonelcy is a World's Fair souvenir. If we had a Fair every year, Gov. Laffoon could just read the telephone book into the legislature's minutes."

An Admiral for Every Water.

Among the Kentucky admirals in Chicago is William M. Dewey, manager of the Edgewater Beach hotel. He is the admiral of Lake Michigan and can walk to the window any time and survey his waters.

John A. Bennan, 4815 Ellis avenue, an electrical manufacturer, is admiral of Simpson creek. He described the creek as being a "fine body of water" 30 miles from Louisville.

A. H. Derbyshire, 1027 East 46th street, and Perry M. Fenton, 2361 East 70th street, both officials of marine insurance companies, are admirals. Derbyshire is admiral of the department of inland marine and Fenton is admiral of inland waterways.

Even Admirals Without Domain.

Ralph A. L. Bogan is admiral of the waters of the Ohio river. He could not be found last night, but was believed to be "out with the fleet."

Harvey D. Holtzclaw is admiral of Wolf Pen creek. Neither the admiral nor his creek could be located.

W. E. Snyder, just a plain admiral without any domain, was another whose whereabouts could not be learned.

The three generals are P. F. Brautigan, 8116 Langley avenue, a broker and commander of the First district of the American Legion in Chicago; Ernest A. Henne, 2440 Lakeview avenue, an official of the Fidelity-Phoenix Fire Insurance company, and Byron B. Jolley. Gen. Jolley's address and civilian business could not be learned.

Bills to Reduce Cost of Small Loans Are Introduced in Illinois Legislature

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Reforms and new teeth in the Illinois small loan law, including interest rate reductions and strict supervision of the loan industry, were provided in measures introduced in the general assembly late today. They were introduced at the request of Ernest Palmer, state superintendent of insurance.

Harold G. Ward, in the senate, and Joseph L. Rategan, in the house, presented the bill. It is based on what is known as the fifth draft of the Russell Sage Foundation small loan law. Indiana, Wisconsin, Kentucky, and Iowa, as well as several of the eastern states already have enacted it. It has twelve provisions, each, according to Ward and Rategan, being in the interest of the borrowing public.

In a joint statement the sponsors reviewed the history of small loan legislation, recalling that the present law was enacted during the Lowden administration in 1917 after newspaper crusades and the work of civic organizations had called attention to loan sharks who were charging monthly interest rates of from 10 to 20 per cent.

Wants Added Features.

The Russell Sage Foundation, aided by the press and others obtained passage of the present law. Supt. Palmer believes it has worked well, he said today, but needs modernization.

Of major importance among the new provisions was that providing the rate reductions. The present law permits a charge of 3½ per cent on loans up to $30. The Ward-Rategan bill would reduce this to 2½ per month on loans in excess of $100—namely, on the second and third $100 of a $300 loan. The present rate of 3½ per cent would continue to apply on the first $100.

"Such a reduction," the sponsors' statement read, "would amount to 30 per cent on two-thirds of the amounts which loan companies are permitted to lend. In 1933 there were 294,000 loans made to Illinois families by the licensed small loan companies of this state, 131,000 or 44 per cent of those loans were for more than $100 each and would have benefited from the rate reduction contemplated in the new bill."

Easy to Get Licenses.

At present, according to Ward and Rategan, any one can obtain a license to make loans. Their bill would give the department the right to say who may enter the business and how they shall conduct themselves.

Other changes include a mandatory provision forcing leaders to accept advance payments from a borrower, thus reducing interest costs. The licensee is not so required at present. The section permitting licensees to take a mortgage on real estate as security for loans is also repealed.

In the matter of wage assignments, the new bill would prohibit lenders from collecting more than 25 per cent of borrowers' wages when the borrower is in default. The present law permits collection of 50 per cent of wages.

Provide For Supervision.

Policing powers would be granted to the insurance department by the Ward-Rategan bill in that the department would be given permission to issue rules and regulations which would have the same force as the law itself. Licenses could be revoked should "any fact or condition develop which would have justified the department in originally refusing to issue the license."

Still another section would force licensees to obtain permission from the insurance department before moving from one location to another. "This provision," the statement reads, "would prevent, in the future, concentration of licensees in a certain section."

"Such concentration, in the past, has resulted in overlending to borrowers which is almost invariably followed by harsh collection methods."

Calling attention to several bills now in the assembly which would cut the small loan interest rate to 1 or 2 per cent, the statement declared that New York state a few years ago had a small loan law with an interest rate of 2¼ per cent per month. Legitimate loan companies, it was said, could not operate at that figure.

Say Loan Sharkery Grew.

Illegal lending or loan sharkery flourished there and the rates were then increased to 3 per cent on the first $150 and 2½ on the balance.

The statement also quotes O. H. Moberly, Missouri commissioner of finance, as saying the 2½ per cent rate in that state has proved inadequate and that a higher rate would eliminate "unlicensed lenders who still charge from 10 to 20 per cent per month."

In the senate the small loan bill will be heard in judiciary committee; in the house by the industrial affairs committee.

INDIA SELF-RULE BILL ROLLS ON THROUGH HOUSE

Britain Ignores Slap by Native Princes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 27.—Despite the monkey wrench which the princes of India tossed into the machinery, the British government steam roller continued to crush the opposition of the diehard Tories to the India bill tonight. Three more clauses of the complicated measure, designed to give India a more autonomous form of government, were passed.

The diehard Tories, led by Winston Churchill, had sought to block advancement of the bill by employing a resolution passed recently by the princes of India in which they declared the measure in its present form is not acceptable to them. Churchill argued vigorously that it would be farcical to continue the debate in such circumstances.

Hoare Denies Parley Planned.

The government opposition, however, was snowed under by a vote of 283 to 89.

It was reported this morning that the government is seeking a conference in London with the princes in an effort to patch up the differences. Sir Samuel Hoare, secretary of state for India, was understood to have reached representatives of the princes by telephone.

During debate today, Sir Samuel issued an emphatic denial that any such proposal for a conference had been made.

Admits Decision Surprised Him.

The secretary of India furthermore denied that the princes' resolution formed a pronouncement against the general program of the autonomy bill. He admitted the decision caused him great surprise but said he is confident it was chiefly due to a misunderstanding of the drafting of the complicated measure.

Sir Samuel was backed up by the Liberal, Sir Isaac Foot, who twitted Churchill and his supporters as "mischief makers" and attacked Lord Rothermere, newspaper magnate, for sending the message printed in the Daily Mail congratulating the princes on their "bold and decided action" against the bill. He described the message as "the letter of a megalomaniac which should be condemned by all public spirited people."

Meloy, 29 years old, is a graduate of Washington and Jefferson college and a member of the Racquet and the Saddle and Cycle clubs.

The bride, 27 years old, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Allen of Racine, Wis. Three firemen were overcome by smoke as more than 150 men fought the flames.

GIVE UP SEARCH FOR STORM SWEPT SHIP; CREW OF 28 MISSING

LONDON, England, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A roaring gale that crippled many ships in the Atlantic tonight apparently had sent the 3,259 ton British freighter Blairgowrie, with her crew of 28 to the bottom.

As other battered vessels crept into port or fought to ride out the storm's fury, three ships which spent nearly ten hours searching for the Blairgowrie reported thy could find no trace of her.

A terse message from Commander Oscar Scharf of the S. S. Europa said "we searched all night in company with the S. S. American Banker and the S. S. Bloomersdyk without success. At 11 a. m. G. M. T. today the three rescuing ships discontinued their search as hopeless and proceeded for their destinations."

INDICT 3 IN STATE CAPITAL FOR GAS TAX FRAUD HERE

Indictments accusing three Chicagoans of embezzling funds from the state by failing to pay gasoline taxes they collected on sales made through the Commercial Oil company, 4600 Ferdinand street, were returned last night by the Sangamon county grand jury in Springfield.

The men were said to have been employés or officials of the company. They were Guy Van Schaick, Oliver W. Fitts, and James Donlevy. Van Schaick's alleged embezzlement was placed at $5,626 in the true bills and that of the others at $3,513 each.

According to the prosecutors, the men were arrested in Chicago several weeks ago and are free on bonds. On Feb. 3 Chicago police were asked to search for a James E. Donlevy, 44 years old, who vanished after leaving his home at 4202 West Monroe street on Feb. 1 with a state highway policeman. His wife at that time said Donlevy left the employment of the Commercial Oil company two years ago after being questioned by the attorney general's office in a controversy over the gasoline sales.

COMMONS TO AIR JAMES WALKER'S STATUS IN BRITAIN

LONDON, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The government will be asked to give the house of commons the facts concerning the status of James J. Walker, former New York mayor, as an unregistered alien in England. This was announced tonight.

Valentine L. McEntee, Labor member from Walthamstow, gave notice that he was filing a question asking Sir John Gilmour, home secretary, to inform the commons whether Walker has been registered as an alien since his arrival and whether or not the government proposes to take any action.

Annulment of her marriage in Yuma, Ariz., on Feb. 13 to Michael Kildischeff is sought in a bill filed in the Superior court yesterday by Helen Gloria Albert Kildischeff, former Northwestern university student and daughter of Benjamin A. Albert, 3400 Sheridan road, president of the Cleaners, Dyers, and Pressers' union. She charges her husband falsely represented himself as a Russian prince and that she learned a week after their marriage that he had another wife in Syracuse, N. Y.

Grand Haven, Mich., Feb. 27.—(AP)—The United States coast guard cutter Escanaba put out for Chicago tonight taking 20 members of her crew to the marine hospital there to be treated for throat infections. Dr. Morton Levin, city health officer, said all were cases of "ordinary sore throats."

VOTE TO RETAIN ANNUITY CLAUSE IN SECURITY BILL

House Group's Study of Act Nears End.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Overriding protests of insurance companies, the house ways and means committee voted 12 to 6 today against elimination of voluntary annuities from the social security bill and neared tentative completion of its work on the bill.

The schedule was to have the much revised bill ready for presentation to President Roosevelt shortly after he returns to the capital tomorrow. Then it would be given final committee consideration and presented to the house some time next week.

See Early Senate Action.

Early committee action at the senate end of the capitol also was indicated. Chairman Harrison of the senate finance committee said his committee would begin consideration of the bill as soon as the house ways and means committee completes rewriting it, without waiting for action by the house.

Under the voluntary annuity section of the social security bill, as approved today, any individual could buy bonds—"annuity certificates"—from the treasury.

Would Mature at 65.

When he reached 65 years of age the certificates would mature, and he could be paid off in a lump sum or in monthly instalments not to exceed $100 a month until he got back all he had paid in plus 3 per cent interest. If he died before all the certificates had been bought back, his original investment plus the 3 per cent interest, compounded annually, would go to his heirs.

Protests had been made that such a system would offer unfair competition with private insurance companies, since these necessarily must have a bigger overhead.

Furthermore, committeemen argued that putting the federal government into the annuity business would not only let it compete with private companies, but that if such a system was to be set up it should be left to the states.

Most other plans in the security bill do leave broad discretion to the states, but they would have no control over or interest in the voluntary annuities.

Against the "competition" idea was advanced the contention that the federal system, since it would pay a maximum of $100 a month, would extend insurance against old age poverty to a class not now covered by existing insurance companies.

COMMON LAW MARRIAGE WINS POINT IN COURT

Judge Opens Way to Test It in Estate Fight.

A ruling yesterday by Probate Judge John F. O'Connell opened the way for the presentation of legal proof of a common law marriage as a basis for a claim against an estate, despite the fact that common law marriages are void in Illinois.

MRS. DOROTHY M. RIPLEY.

The case involves the petition of Mrs. Dorothy Manaige Ripley, 44 years old, 40 East Oak street, who claims dower in the $600,000 estate of Herbert Ripley, wealthy contractor, as his common law wife. Ripley died on June 21, 1933, in Chicago. Mrs. Ripley contends that he was a resident of Wisconsin when the alleged common law marriage took place. Wisconsin recognizes such a marriage as legal.

Seeks to Break Will.

Mrs. Ripley also has on file in the Circuit court a suit to break Ripley's will, which left her $3,000, an automobile, and the furnishings of his summer home at Mukwonago, Wis. In the will, which left most of the estate to Ripley's sister, Mrs. Mabel Zoellner of Los Angeles, Mrs. Ripley was referred to as "my dear friend Dorothy who has resided many years in my home."

Judge O'Connell yesterday instructed attorneys for Mrs. Ripley and the estate to draw up an order finding that Ripley's residence was Wisconsin at the time the alleged marriage contract was made. In the order will also be the court's ruling that Ripley's residence at the time of his death was Illinois.

Judge O'Connell deferred entering the order until his final ruling on the motion of the estate to dismiss Mrs. Ripley's petition on the ground that Ripley was never a resident of any state but Illinois. The estate is represented by Attorney Franklin E. Vaughan.

Wed in Miami, She Says.

Mrs. Ripley says that she and the contractor were married in a common law ceremony performed by a friend in Miami, Fla., in 1930. With the court's decision that Wisconsin was Ripley's legal residence at this time, there is only one point remaining to be established by Mrs. Ripley's attorneys, Samuel Berke and Meyer Gladstone. This is the actual proof of such a marriage.

Such proof is often highly technical, lawyers explained. By law it must be established that the couple not only lived together, but that their intention in doing so was to live as man and wife. A mere agreement to marry without a legal ceremony is not sufficient. Neither is the act of living together. Both elements must be proved by evidence. Illinois has refused to recognize such marriages largely because of the difficulty of proof and the opportunity for fraud, attorneys said.

ICKES' PROGRAM TO RECLAIM LAND SCORED IN HOUSE

Hit by New Yorker as Economic Crime.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—A scathing attack on Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes for his huge land reclamation projects in the face of over production was launched in the house today by Representative Francis D. Culkin [Rep., N. Y.].

Culkin charged that the program, politically inspired, was a "horrible economic crime against America and the farmer." Congressmen from the western states defended their projects and declared the new production would not upset the farmers' market.

Quotes Ickes' "Titles."

In his remarks Culkin referred sarcastically to Ickes as "Honest Harold," "The Wonder Worker," and the "alleged empire builder." He called Reclamation Commissioner Elwood Mead, "Public Enemy No. 1."

"This mad policy of reclamation is costing between 800 and 900 million dollars," Culkin said, "and it will put 47 million acres into production thereby adding to the surplus. These projects started by 'Honest Harold' Ickes were never authorized by congress and in fact congress opposed some of them.

"The Caspar-Alcova project in Wyoming had been condemned on the grounds there was no further need for reclamation, according to the congressman. He said the land would cost $300 an acre, whereas better land a short distance away may be had for $40 an acre.

Hits Coulee Dam.

The Grand Coulee dam in Washington had been opposed by every agricultural influence, Culkin said, and was finally started supposedly for power in a country where "they'll have to sell the power to jackrabbits and coyotes."

"Certain ruin faces people who will go to settle on these lands," was Culkin's final shot.

The signal for Culkin's attack was the reporting out of committee of the interior department appropriations bill setting forth expenditures of $58,775,000 for the fiscal year 1936. The bill represents an increase of nearly 12 million dollars over the previous year despite the fact that the appropriations committee sliced off $3,297,000 from the original amount asked by Ickes' department.

Huge Road Appropriation.

The largest single item accounting for the increase is an appropriation of $4,500,000 for national park and Indian service roads.

During the general debate Representative Charles L. Gifford [Rep., Mass.] declared that the government of trial and error must cease.

"This administration reminds me of a certain maid," said Gifford, "who never used a thermometer to find the temperature of the baby's bath because she said she could tell what it was by putting the baby in. If the baby turned red then the water was hot and if it turned blue the water was cold.

"Let's get out of this red and blue government and back to the use of the thermometer."

The house also turned to a discussion of communist influences in the country. Representative Samuel Dickstein [Dem., N. Y.], chairman of the committee on immigration and naturalization, said that the communists had schools in every large city of the country.

Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. [Rep., N. Y.] said that it had been reported that the Federal Emergency Relief administration had used funds for summer schools where workers were taught communist doctrines.

That trouble makers arise is to be expected when there are 12 million people out of work, Representative Harold Knutson [Rep., Minn.] said, and prosperity would not be restored until imports competing with American products were not stopped.

Slight to Mason Is Resented by G.O.P. Senators

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Omission of Senator Noah M. Mason [Rep., Oglesby], former president of the Illinois State Teachers' association, and a critic of the Horner administration, from membership on the newly created Illinois educational commission brought resentment today from his Republican colleagues in the senate.

Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Donovan had the naming of the five senators, who, with five representatives and ten private citizens to be named by the governor, will compose the commission.

Senators Earl B. Searcy, minority leader from Springfield, and Simon E. Lantz, Republican, Congerville, called on Mr. Donovan. Mr. Donovan said, according to their story, that he was sorry, but for reasons that he could not divulge he could not put Senator Mason on the commission.

The members appointed by Mr. Donovan are Senators Louis O. Williams [Dem., Clinton]; Harry C. Stuttle [Dem., Litchfield]; Francis J. Loughran, [Dem., Chicago]; Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet]; and Earl B. Searcy [Rep., Springfield].

Brooks' Bail Cut in Half; Still He Has to Go to Cell

Although the Rev. Edward L. Brooks, operator of the so-called "baby farm" at Beulah, Mich., had his bail of $4,000 cut in half yesterday by Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court, he was unable to make it and returned to his cell in the county jail. Brooks is charged here with operating a maternity home at 2144 North Clark street without a license.

AL SMITH ASSAILS ICKES ORDER IN MOSES ROW AS 'POLITICAL'

New York, Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Alfred E. Smith stepped today into the Ickes-Moses controversy, coming to the aid of his old friend and former administrative assistant, "Bob" Moses, with characteristic directness and vigor.

Mr. Smith referred to Secretary Ickes' famous order 129, which was designed to force Mr. Moses off the triborough bridge authority, as "narrow, political, and vindictive." He said he could not believe President Roosevelt would be a party to such an order, which "breaks a binding contract and has no basis in sound public policy."

"I do not believe that any national administration can afford to withhold needed relief funds from New York City in order to enforce such an order," Mr. Smith declared.

Secretary Ickes has been contending that Moses cannot hold the triborough job while also holding state and city jobs as park commissioner. Mayor La Guardia has been trying to evolve a solution, without endangering city PWA allotments, but has met with no success.

TWO PHYSICIANS SEIZED AT QUIZ ON GIRL'S DEATH

Dying Statement Accuses Them of Operation.

Dr. Maurice L. Dale, 32 years old, and Dr. Frank G. Braune, 48 years old, physicians, were arrested on charges of murder by abortion yesterday at the inquest into the death of Miss Marie Dwyer, 26 years old, 5215 Fulton street.

Miss Dwyer, a laboratory technician, died on Tuesday in the Lakeside Clinic and Post-Graduate hospital, 3410 Rhodes avenue, as the result of an illegal operation. Before her death she declared in a statement that Dr. Dale, who lives at 3568 Harrison street, was responsible for her condition, and that the operation was performed last Friday in Dr. Braune's office at 306 South Wabash avenue.

Mother Rushes at Doctor.

During the inquest, which was held at the hospital, Mrs. Mary Potter, 3003 Harrison street, mother of Miss Dwyer, rushed toward Dr. Dale.

"O, you wretch," she cried. "I hope you suffer as Marie did."

She was restrained by those near her before she reached the physician, who sought refuge behind his attorney, Samuel A. Hoffman.

Mrs. Helen Hartough, 2000 Foster avenue, a social service worker who interviewed Miss Dwyer last Monday night, testified at the inquest that the young woman told her that Dr. Dale had begun the illegal operation.

Tells of Warant Plan.

Mrs. Hartough also testified that three weeks ago Miss Dwyer had declared her intention of obtaining a warant against Dr. Dale, naming him as the father of her unborn child. Mrs. Hartough said she advised against such a course until after the child was born, whereupon Miss Dwyer announced her determination to submit to an operation for fear of the effect the knowledge would have on her mother.

An earlier witness was Miss Elva Hayes, 646 North Lorel avenue, who testified she had been acquainted with Miss Dwyer three years and knew her to have been friendly with Dr. Dale. She recounted a scene in Dr. Dale's office following an accident last March, when Miss Dwyer incurred a skull fracture in a fall.

"She complained of not feeling well," Miss Hayes said. "Dr. Dale gave her some medicine and then tried to kiss her. She pushed him away and he threatened her that he would kiss me, but I wouldn't let him."

Charge Made by Mother.

Earlier in the day Dr. Dale surrendered in the Felony court on a charge of performing an illegal operation and was released in his own $5,000 bond. This charge was made by Miss Dwyer's mother before the young woman's death. Dr. Braune was being sought on the same charge when he appeared at the inquest with Dr. Dale. Braune's attorney is Harry J. Busch.

Attorney Hoffman said that both physicians are to be arraigned in the Felony court today on the murder charge, and that he would ask Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court to set bond for them.

Deputy Coroner Louis Nadherny continued the inquest until March 12 to allow time for an analysis of Miss Dwyer's body.

MARYLAND HOTEL MEN REVIVE OLD LAVISH FEASTS

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Maryland's hotel men and a few invited guests dined tonight in the most sumptuous style seen here since the advent of prohibition.

The dinner, priced at $17 a plate, was described as the "renewal of the annual banquet" of the Maryland Hotel Men's association.

The prohibition of wine, the association agreed, would make such a dinner a sacrilege. But with the repeal of prohibition, the organization decided to spread itself again.

SENATE HOUSE SURVEY MAPPED ON "PINK SLIPS"

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—(AP)—The sudden storm stirred in congress by the pink slips that epitomize publicity of income tax returns resulted today in the initiation of a senate-house survey of the sentiment in favor of changing the law.

The move was agreed to by Democratic leaders in both branches. One in the house predicted privately that the survey would show an "overwhelming majority" favored changing the law.

Both the senate finance and the house ways and means committee chairmen appointed six man subcommittees to discuss the situation. Chairman Doughton [Dem., N. C.] of the house committee said the subcommittees would meet "soon."

YELLOW CAB CO. DEFIES NRA ON CODE OBEDIENCE

Tailor Shop Loses Eagle for Not Using Bird.

The Yellow Cab company defied the National Recovery administration yesterday in its efforts to compel the company's tailor shop to comply with the code for the men's clothing industry. NRA officials in Washington ordered the tailor shop's Blue Eagle "removed" yesterday, but the Yellow Cab counsel, Benjamin Samuels, countered that the shop "never had a Blue Eagle and never wanted one."

State Director F. L. Roberts of the NRA declared that representatives of the concern would be summoned before the regional compliance board in another attempt to enforce obedience. Failure of this effort, he said, would entail application for an injunction to restrain the company from further violation.

Action Long Impending.

Article 5 of the code requires that "all garments manufactured or distributed shall bear an NRA label." Code authorities allege the Yellow Cab tailor shop ignored this provision.

"The NRA has been threatening to take action for a long time," Samuels asserted, "in order to force us to pay code assessments for our private tailoring shop, which makes uniforms for our cab drivers at cost prices. Now that it has taken the action it won't change our course a bit.

"We are not going to contribute any money to give some people soft jobs in New York or Washington. The three employés in our tailoring department work code hours and get more than code wages, but we won't fool around with code assessments or red tape reports which NRA wants us to send in.

Would Defeat Own Purpose.

"I have told the NRA that if we have to close the shop and throw these tailors out of work it will be the fault of the NRA itself. The company wants to give employment to as many persons as possible."

The Blue Eagle removal order was signed by L. J. Martin, chief of the national compliance division, who also sent a similar order affecting Meyer Brothers company, 2104 Orchard street. Meyer Brothers was accused of failing to pay a share of the code expenses for the pretzel manufacturing industry.

JUSTICE STONE ASKS ILLINOIS REPUBLICANS TO REWIN U. S. IDEALS

Galesburg, Ill., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—A call for Republicans to rally in a fight to "lead the country back to American standards" was sounded by Clyde E. Stone of Peoria, a justice of the state Supreme court, in an address before the John Ericsson Republican league of Knox county here last night.

Justice Stone said the ill effects of the present economic and sociological experiments will not be erased for many years to come. He said the principles of integrity have been forsaken by the government in violating contracts, with resulting weakening of this nation. Only through adherence to the Republican party "can we build back those things which have made the country what it is," he declared.

He remarked that "another campaign year is approaching and it is time you were thinking about those questions."

Justice Stone launched an informal boom for Omer N. Custer of Galesburg for governor. "We're going to have more friends of our own kind at Springfield," he said. "I want to be there and throw up my hat when my friend Custer is inaugurated governor."

SELF-DISCIPLINE URGED AS MEANS TO FINER WORLD

Women's Parley Speakers Decry Untrained Mind.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Self-discipline against the modern cult of "self-expression," trained inferences against snap judgments, an objective examination of prejudices, education for character, were subjects of discussion yesterday at the final sessions of the second annual Conference on Current Problems in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house.

This conference, which was sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, has attracted from Illinois and nearby states thousands of club women seeking new material for club programs. The ballroom and galleries, seating 1,400, were crowded for three sessions on Tuesday, and the two sessions yesterday were attended by about 2,500 persons.

Economists, social service workers, civic workers, ministers and a psychiatrist addressed the women yesterday. While many specific problems were presented for discussion at the opening sessions, the closing program was devoted more particularly to better methods of mental approach toward these and all problems.

"What our age suffers from," he said, "is just this, that it is unwilling to be at least a trifle old fashioned. If mankind survived eras of superstition, famine and plague, it was in the main due to the impregnable fortress of family life. Our own generation has witnessed remarkable changes in this direction. To plunge into the center of things, with a foolhardy disregard of much psychology and sociology, one would be tempted to attribute the breakdown of the home to a new god, the latest of the gods to have been born in Christian lands—to wit, the god of self-expression.

Undue Respect for Novel Notions.

"In the name of self-expression we fall upon our knees and harken in reverential silence to every upstart dilettante or wasted Sardanapalus proclaiming old and ugly vices as brand new virtues.

"We discuss economics and politics, and leave ethics and human nature to a few philosophers and psychologists. It occurred to me that it would not be altogether out of place to emphasize, before women meeting in conference to discuss the country's ills and its current problems, the need of self-discipline, to offer an old remedy for modern ailments, to bring back into our discussions, man himself, individual responsibility, and human nature; to use, without apology, such old fashioned words as sin, vice, and self-indulgence. Even the church has been altogether too apologetic in these days. The great society rests not on what we greedily take from life, but on what we generously offer to it. In the end, human happiness itself results not from profit but from service.

Inward Means to Outward Betterment.

"Politics, government, economic systems unquestionably demand our attention. To change, to improve, to better must be the order of the day, but in all our efforts let us search our hearts and see whether there is not room there for self-discipline, for the coöperativeness that will restore the home, social living, and bring the moment to which we will all say, 'Tarry, thou art so beautiful.'"

Dr. Harold L. Hulbert, physician and psychologist, developed the thesis that individuals need training in safety and in prevention of accidents from the newer things in our civilization.

"One of the weakest traits in the evolution of the human mind to date," he asserted, "is the ability to make correct judgments. An individual who is trained in methods of making inferences will be more often correct in his judgments than if he is untrained."

He distinguished between inferences about human relations or about the relation of the individual to things.

Urges Reliance on Facts, Facts.

"We all wish to be well thought of," he said, "and the only sure basis for that is for the individual to think fairly well of oneself, that is, to infer favorably about oneself in relation to other people. In general, when it comes to dealing with things, the individual should not infer favorably nor should he or she infer unfavorably, but should infer with some scrutiny; in other words, not to infer any more than possible, but to have knowledge, to have some data."

The Rev. John B. Hubbard, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church, Park Ridge, Ill., spoke of educating for character.

Discussing what he called the "moral sag" in this country, Dr. Hubbard traced the causes in part to the "junking of old restraints and taboos" and in part to the so-called conflict between religion and science, "resulting in hurling overboard all sources of moral principle and in an agnostic attitude toward the dictates of society. This general laxity in the moral structure is reflected in all departments of life."

The Attitude of Parents.

After dwelling on a remedy in education he said:

"I hope to see as a result of this conference at least some slight progress toward a more intelligent parenthood. Many parents feel that child psychology is 'the bunk.' Yet how a parent can hope to develop a child's mind without making a loving study of how that mind works is beyond me. I am anxious that the public schools have definite, experience centered sources of character development."

Miss Mary Barnett Gilson, assistant professor of economics at the University of Chicago, talked about "pet prejudices." She referred to "red baiting" as one such prejudice. She spoke about the "brain trust," and said she was glad to be associated with it at the university.

"Our friend, THE TRIBUNE, is very zealous about the freedom of the press," she said. "I don't blame it. I hope we never come to regimentation of Germany, Russia, and Italy. But I wish they would be consistent and lay off on their attacks on college professors.

A Goal for Civilization.

"Any of you who are inclined to criticize us, come out and get acquainted. Let us not pass on such stupid prejudice as the book, 'Red Network,' in which Mrs. Roosevelt and Jane Addams are listed. I am a member of the Civil Liberties union and I intend to remain one. Yet I would be scared to death if any one said, 'Come on, let's form a soviet republic.' If we cannot make a civilization of the kind that does not produce causes for Reds, we are futile in attacking the symptoms."

The Most Rev. B. J. Sheil, who was to have spoken on the motion picture decency campaign, was ill and his place was taken by the Rev. George McCarthy, secretary of the council of the League of Decency. He spoke of the aims of the league, how it had functioned.

"Although the campaign is not yet a year old," Father McCarthy asserted, "much improvement is to be noted in the moral tone of pictures now being produced. Hollywood is really trying to meet this aroused public interest and turning out pictures of more universal and true appeal. The League of Decency appreciates this praiseworthy effort and will gladly keep pace in appreciation with it.

Find Clean Films Pay.

"That clean movies pay is evident from the fact that when the speaker visited the lots last March 120 new pictures were in process of production, a record unsurpassed in all the last 10 years. The Legion of Decency says more power to Hollywood for its able effort and God prosper His wonderful gift to civilization, the moving picture screen."

Reuben D. Cahn, economist of THE TRIBUNE, spoke on the problem of escape from the depression.

"Serious as the times are," he declared, "there is no cause for despair, for depressions are one of the commonest of human experiences."

He told of another depression, in A. D. 33 in Rome, when conditions and remedies paralleled in many ways those of today.

"Eventually," he said, "we shall have recovery from this depression. On that proposition we are all agreed.

The method which the government is following may possibly be the means of accomplishing our escape, although, to be perfectly frank, there is as yet no reason for believing so."

Greater Need for Civil Service Plan.

Attorney Henry P. Chandler, president of the Chicago Civil Service association, estimated that 3,250,000 persons are public employés in this country, with annual salaries of $4,500,000,000.

The increased importance of government makes it mandatory that it be administered and maintained by personnel selected for merit and nothing else, he declared, and his audience applauded. He pointed out the need of extending the classified civil service to more departments in state and county and of enforcing the present civil service laws more strictly.

Ernest A. Grunsfeld Jr., Chicago architect, verbally wiped out the "thirty square miles of blighted areas in Chicago" and planted the region in parks and lawns and buildings which would house the same number of persons now housed there, yet would give an open, airy effect. He declared there was no articulate demand for planned housing in this country, where there are almost no real slums, as there is in England.

Expects Women to Hold Place.

Dr. Mollie Ray Carroll, head resident of the University of Chicago Settlement, pointed out how criticism against women holding jobs on the old theory that they worked "in order to earn pin money" or "for fun," and the deterioration of wages caused by competition in comparatively unskilled occupations by women, reached a peak in the depression.

"Some critics fear that the century-old woman's movement will crash on the crags of the depression," she said, "and that in fear women will be driven to the position they have now in Germany. I do not think so. I think American women do not have that colossal weakness of European women, their supine acceptance of chaos. It is no wonder they could be regimented under Hitler or a Stalin."

See Preview of Movie.

UP TO WOMEN TO SAVE LAND; MEN TOO BUSY, AUTHORESS CONTENDS

It is up to women to improve the "truly critical condition of the country" because men are too busy trying to save their own businesses, Mrs. Anna Steese Richardson, writer, told thirty women from eight states at a breakfast of the upper Mississippi valley conference of the General Federation of Women's Clubs yesterday in the Palmer house. The event was held in connection with the Conference on Current Problems sponsored by THE TRIBUNE.

"Women are better equipped for public office than men," Mrs. Richardson told the women. "Men study the political methods of getting candidates into office, while women are studying government itself. Get behind your women leaders. Fewer women are in state legislatures and fewer are in congress than at any time since they gained the vote. Organize to get them into office."

The Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs entertained women from the Conference on Current Problems at tea yesterday in the federation's headquarters, 32 West Randolph street.

Hold 2 for Deaths of 41 Aboard Excursion Boat

CASTRIES, St. Lucia, British West Indies, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The captain and the owner of the motor launch St. George were arrested today on manslaughter charges as the official count of dead in the ship's capsizing Sunday rose to 41 persons. The two, whose names police would not reveal, are accused of responsibility for the deaths through "negligence" in allowing 125 persons to crowd the 13 ton craft on its excursion trip.

Mother, 26, Leaps Into Sea with Baby Tied to Her

SPLIT, Jugo-Slavia, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Ella Babic, 26, tied her 2 year old daughter to herself today and sprang from a high cliff into the sea. Police said the mother was distracted by poverty.

WHO WOULD TAKE A RED HOT STOVE? AH! STAN KNOWS

Stanley Adamski, 1501 Wabansia avenue, was surprised when he returned home after only an hour's absence and discovered that his kitchen stove, which he left burning merrily, had been stolen. But Stanley fancies himself as an amateur detective and he was not so dismayed as many people would have been. He sat down to think out the problem.

"Well, well," he pondered. "The books say that the first thing about a mystery is to establish the motive. Now the only reason anybody would have to steal a red hot stove is that he is cold or wants to cook right away. It is almost supper time so it must be for cookery. But no cook would carry a hot one very far. Therefore it must have been one of the neighbors who got my stove."

Calling the police, he led them in a tour of the neighborhood. In the home of Frank and John Wisocki, 1507 Wabansia avenue, the missing stove, still blazing with the Adamski coal, was discovered. Frank, who is 38 year old and an ex-convict, and John, who is 33, were arrested, although they professed to be mystified as to how the glowing stove happened to be right at hand when cooking time rolled around.

CITY TO REQUEST A REHEARING ON JUDGES' PAY CUT

Joseph F. Grossman, assistant city corporation counsel, announced yesterday that the city would seek a rehearing on the Illinois Supreme court ruling handed down on Feb. 21 requiring the city of Chicago to pay $180,617 in back salaries for 1932, 1933, and 1934 to John H. Lyle and thirty-six other Municipal court judges. The ruling was the result of a mandamus action brought in the Supreme court by Attorney James W. Breen in behalf of Judge Lyle and his colleagues. The court upheld Breen's contention that the city council lacked power to reduce salaries of municipal judges or other elected city officials while they were in office.

End Bad Cough Quickly, at One Fourth the Cost

Home-Mixed! No Cooking! Easy!

Millions of housewives have found that, by mixing their own cough medicine, they get a purer, more effective remedy. They use a recipe which costs only one-fourth as much as ready-made medicine, but which really has no equal for breaking up obstinate coughs.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. The syrup is easily made with 2 cups sugar and one cup water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all, and makes the most effective remedy that money could buy. Keeps perfectly, and children love its taste.

Its quick action in loosening the phlegm, clearing the air passages, and soothing away the inflammation, has caused it to be used in more homes than any other cough remedy.

REVEAL MELLON LOSS CLAIM ON SALE TO FAMILY

Daughter's Stock Purchase Told Tax Board.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Records showing the personal holding concern of Andrew W. Mellon's daughter bought stock in a transaction upon which he claimed a loss of $383,537.50 in his 1931 income tax report were introduced today before the tax appeals board.

The evidence was taken from the books of the concern, known as the Ascalot company, and those of A. W. Mellon, by his confidential secretary, Howard M. Johnson.

Charges Mellon Control.

The government charges Ascalot actually was controled by Mellon and that he used it and other family owned companies to dodge taxes. The internal revenue bureau seeks $3,089,000 additional taxes and Mellon is asking a $139,000 rebate.

Johnson testified Ascalot was organized in 1930, with Mrs. Ailsa Mellon Bruce depositing securities valued at approximately 7 million dollars, and later adding approximately that much more.

The funds were obtained from gifts made by her father, including a million dollar wedding present of 10,000 shares of Aluminum Company of America preferred stock, Johnson showed.

Accountant Conducts Quiz.

While tracing sales and purchases of Ascalot, F. R. Shearer, expert government accountant who relieved Robert H. Jackson as cross-examiner, asked about the purchase of 500 shares of Commercial National Bank and Trust Company of New York stock.

Johnson said Mrs. Bruce borrowed $150,000 from her father Feb. 16, 1931, to buy the stock. Shearer showed that the check had been made out to David K. E. Bruce, Ailsa's husband, who was at the time chairman of the Ascalot board of directors.

He also got from the books evidence that Mellon's account showed the money was lent to Ascalot, but that Ascalot's books did not show record of the loan from Mellon until the next December.

Apparently trying by inference to show that Mellon actually was owner of the bank stock, Shearer brought out that the loan had been made without collateral or interest.

As secretary of the treasury at the time, Mellon was prohibited, under an interpretation of the law by the solicitor general, from engaging in trade or commerce or owning bank stock.

At this point the answers of the usually amiable gray haired Johnson were clipped sharper. It was near the end of his sixth day in the witness chair, most of it under cross-questioning.

"The company simply went to Mr. Mellon for the money instead of going to the bank," Johnson asserted. He showed that he himself, as an officer of Ascalot, had been authorized by the board of directors to make the loan.

WON'T ANDY BE SURPRISED WHEN HE COMES HOME?

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Approaching the end of the greatest reindeer drive ever attempted, Andy Bahr, 70, its leader, tonight was on the verge of returning to civilization and some surprising news.

For more than five years Bahr has been out of touch with everything except his unprecedented movement of 3,000 reindeer over 1,200 miles of arctic desolation between Kotzebue sound, Alaska, and Aklavik, Yukon territory, for the Canadian government.

He scarcely knows about the depression. The stock market crash of 1929, Roosevelt and the New Deal, prohibition repeal, the extermination of gangland, and the Hauptmann trial are all news to him.

He will learn about all this—and, incidentally, about the mortgage on his Seattle apartment house—when he reaches Aklavik with his reindeer on March 6 and heads back home.

Lohr and Staf Vacate Headquarters at Fair

Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of A Century of Progress Exposition, and his thirty-five assistants directed yesterday the moving of records and office equipment from the Burnham Park Administration building to the seventh floor of the Blum building, 624 South Michigan avenue. Engineers for the Chicago park district have taken charge of the former Century of Progress headquarters. They will prepare it for the occupancy of the park commissioners and officers, who are expected to move in early in March.

Seize Three After Postal Truck Is Robbed of $14,000

Jackson, Ky., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Three men were arrested here late today charged with robbing a United States mail truck of approximately $14,000 this morning. James Napier, driver of the truck, and another man with him during the holdup told officers they recognized all three. The trio, Floyd Hadden, and Marvin and Ralph Hall, brothers, were placed in jail here and held for the government as officers continued to search for the stolen money.

LIFE CAREERS URGED FOR THOSE SERVING PUBLIC

Educator Raps Charity as Job Basis.

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 27.—(AP)—In a plea for trained public servants freed by civil service from the hazards of the "spoils system," President Lotus D. Coffman of the University of Minnesota today spoke against "the prevailing popular notion that charity begins on the public pay roll."

"All over this country we elect or appoint men because they need the office; they have failed in business; they have a large family; a leg has been lost; some one has died or some other misfortune has befallen the individual," he told the department of superintendence of the National Education association at its sixty-fifth annual convention.

For Public Service Careers.

President Coffman added that he hoped the so-called "brain trust" would lead to career positions in government. "Indeed, every position on the administrative, professional, clerical, skilled and unskilled labor levels, should be a career position," he asserted.

Prof. George D. Strayer of Teachers college, Columbia university, said about $1,000,000,000 of the $4,880,000,000 proposed for public works, "could be spent to advantage on school buildings throughout the United States."

Debate on Social Theories.

Earlier in the day teachings of new social doctrins provided heated controversy between the liberals and conservatives.

Speakers who declared economic and political order is destined to change, demanded freedom for teachers desiring to maintain a position in the classroom on modern social questions. Others demanded proof that a change is likely to take place.

A. J. Stoddard, superintendent of schools of Providence, R. I., was elected president of the department of superintendence of the association. A. L. Threlkeld, superintendent of schools of Denver, was named second vice president.

Harrison C. Lyseth of Augusta, Me., was elected president of the NEA's department of secondary school principals, and Prof. Edgar W. Knight of the University of North Carolina was elected president of the National Society of Teachers of Education.

ACQUITTED T-N-T DEFENDANT WINS CONTRACT SUIT

Circuit Judge Walter W. Wright of Sangamon county yesterday at Springfield ordered that contracts for paving improvements in Kedzie avenue, 87th street, and Irving Park boulevard be awarded to John M. Bransfield.

Bransfield was one of the numerous defendants in the T-N-T conspiracy case, all of whom were acquitted. He was the low bidder on the three pieces of work, but the contracts were withheld from him by the state highway department after his indictment last year.

After he had filed a petition in Springfield asking that a mandamus be issued in his behalf against Robert Kingery, state director of public works, and Ernst Lieberman, state highway engineer, the matter was heard by Judge Wright, Judge L. E. Stone, and Judge Victor Hemphill, sitting together.

MAYOR LA GUARDIA'S NEW CITY LIMOUSINE HAS POCKET FOR GUN

New York, Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Although he has often expressed disdain for the protection of a bodyguard, commonly provided for New York's mayors, Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia has had a special gun pocket installed in the new city limousine assigned to him, it was learned today.

The specially constructed gun pocket is installed in the car at a point convenient to the mayor's right elbow, so that a revolver or pistol could be withdrawn at a moment's notice.

The pocket was installed in the machine at the fire department shops, where the car also was provided with a collapsible desk which the mayor uses in opening his mail en route downtown in the morning.

LABORITES BOOST TAXES IN LONDON BY $13,750,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 27.—The Labor party's control of the London county council is going to prove expensive to the taxpayers. They learned tonight that they will be called upon in the coming year to find an additional $13,750,000 to meet an increase in municipal expenses.

Although the increase was anticipated in view of the ambitious social schemes launched by the Laborites since their advent to power, Conservative municipal reformers, who were badly beaten in the March elections, are rubbing their hands gleefully.

FIVE BILLION BILL REPORTED NEAR SENATE ACCORD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Secret conferences at which slices of pork reputedly were dangled occupied the attention of senators today as the administration leaders sought to rescue the five billion dollar work relief bill.

A few supporters of the McCarran prevailing wage amendment, which wrecked the bill and forced its recommission to the appropriations committee last week, were said to be wavering under the pressure, and there was widespread talk of a compromise.

Wagner Becomes Mediator.

Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], who voted for the labor amendment, acted as the mediator in view of his popularity with the administration. He declined to discuss the possibility of a compromise that might be acceptable to both the McCarran amendment faction and the President, but said "there is an area."

Presumably he meant the possibility of paying more than the so-called security wage of $50 a month, but still lower than the prevailing rates, which would cost about 2 billion dollars more to put 3,500,000 men to work.

Other administration leaders professed confidence that an agreement whereby the bill can be passed in a form acceptable to the President will be reached in a day or two. The spirit of compromise seemed to be in the air, although Senator Pat McCarran [Dem., Nev.], said that there would be no budging on his side.

Concentrate on O'Mahoney.

"Either you pay the prevailing wage or you don't," he declared. "I don't see how there could be any compromise."

Administration leaders were concentrating upon Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney [Dem., Wyo.], a devout New Dealer who, nevertheless, voted for the McCarran amendment. O'Mahoney refused to discuss reports that he is prepared to switch, dismissing such inquiries with, "Isn't that a sweet question?" Pressure also was being centered upon Senator Robert J. Bulkley [Dem., O.], who reputedly voted for the McCarran amendment for the sole purpose of wrecking the bill.

The McCarran faction was working upon Senator Harry Flood Byrd [Dem., Va.], who is against the bill and wants it killed, but, nevertheless, voted against the McCarran amendment as a matter of principle.

Developments Due Today.

Leaders were not prepared to say whether the bill would be reported out by the committee at once to risk another vote on the McCarran amendment, but President Roosevelt will be back from Hyde Park tomorrow and developments are expected to follow.

While the administration leaders were preoccupied with the McCarran amendment, Senator Byrd and Senator Alva B. Adams [Dem., Colo.] reported a growing sentiment for reducing the appropriation by 2 or 3 billion dollars, which would eliminate a work program. Senator McCarran said he would vote for such an amendment.

All senators received a letter from Henry H. Curran, director of the National Economy league, urging that the federal government appropriate n

NEW YORK POLICY 100 MILLION YEARLY RACKET, IT'S TESTIFIED

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—J. Richard Davis, a young lawyer for "Dutch" Schultz, casually informed counsel at Commissioner of Accounts Paul Blanshard's bail bonding inquiry today that the policy racket took approximately $100,000,000 from the city's petty gamblers in a year. He figured the "take" at about $300,000 a day.

Davis was a witness who described Schultz's headquarters on Lenox avenue as a place where a "motley crew assembled, all running around hell bent for election, talking policy slips and numbers." Davis, when only a year out of law school, had "a great big business," he said, that got better after Schultz muscled into the policy racket.

Irving B. Cooper, conducting the questioning of Davis, showed that attorney knew George E. Weinberg, a policy banker, who used to frequent the Lenox avenue headquarters. Weinberg had referred policy cases to Davis, sometimes even paying the fee. Davis also knew Alex Pompez, Cuban colored owner of the Cuban Giants, a baseball club. Pompez was Weinberg's partner in other ventures. Davis said he knew them only in a professional way.

Police Commissioner Lewis A. Valentine, acting on this and other evidence, ordered an investigation into allegations that Schultz dominated the racket at the very time detectives and federal agents were searching for him.

PRESIDENT ENDS VACATION; EYES SENATE BATTLE

Leaves for Washington on Special Train.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt left for Washington tonight, ending a four day visit at his mother's home, with a smile masking watever concern or emotion he felt about his coming struggle with the senate over the work relief program.

Mr. Roosevelt left on a special train from the village station. He came here Sunday morning after a journey from Washington to Cambridge, Mass., where he attended the initiation of his third son, Franklin Jr., into the Fly club.

His visit at his mother's home has been marked by extreme simplicity except for the usual retinue needed to carry on official business. The only called during his stay here was Raymond F. Moley, magazine editor and former member of the "brain trust," who came from New York City yesterday for a luncheon talk on general conditions.

Faces Serious Crisis.

The situation awaiting Mr. Roosevelt in Washington is one raising one of the most serious questions in his administration involving the prestige of the White House.

Its genesis was the senate vote inserting in the 4 billion 880 million public works resolution an amendment stipulating that "prevailing wages" instead of subsistence wages be paid to workers on relief work projects.

The President talked of ships and magazines, little acorns and mighty oaks at his semi-meekir press conference today. But he had no words on how he proposes to save his work relief program.

The President's only approach to the subject was by way of an indirect denial of reports, spread by his aids, that he was receiving a flood of messages of support from all parts of the country. He pointed to his mail stating that it was his "usual run."

Mild Rebuke for Staf.

Aids responsible for the story flushed, but the President veered from the subject. Observers said that was a mild rebuke to the staf for giving out administration propaganda in the belief that it would encourage a flood of messages rewarding them with the presidential smile.

The President declared he has not been in constant communication with Washington on his work relief program, as had been reported by aids. He said he had phoned to Washington only once and had then communicated with the state department.

The President in answer to a question said he has no thought of going on the air to enlist public support and bring pressure to bear on the refractory senators. Such action is favored by administration leaders.

Mr. Roosevelt reported he has completed his message on shipping, which is expected to call for direct subsidies to American shipping.

billion dollars for relief during the next fiscal year and insist, at the same time, that the cities of the country do their part.

Curran said that most of the cities were "lying down on the federal government."

"It is time for the federal government to get out of this business and leave it to the cities, where it belongs," the letter said. "The financial stake in this affair is too great longer to be ignored. A happy go lucky addition of four billion dollars to the national debt brings national insolvency just so much nearer.

"Expert budgetary study made by the National Economy league indicates clearly that 1 billion dollars, instead of 4 billion, will be enough federal money for relief during the next fiscal year if the cities will do their share."

NAZI DICTATOR ON RACIAL QUESTION REPORTED JAILED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 27. — Dr. Achim Gercke, racial expert of the Nazi government and supreme arbiter on who is entitled to rank as an Aryan, is rumored to have been arrested with his staf. The propaganda ministry said: "We cannot confirm or deny the report."

Dr. Gercke, who is 32, is said to have had friends among the men arrested in the morals raids carried on since the beginning of December. It was assumed he was compromised through them.

Richard Billinger, poet and dramatist, and a Dr. Giseviu, who was connected with the ministry of interior, also are reported to be in custody. Authorities refused to commit themselves about them, but did not deny the arrests.

WARNING ABOUT COLDS

"new way in cold prevention"

Tests with 500 people proved PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC helped reduce number of colds. Cut time lost from colds.

A SCIENTIFIC study was made with 500 people over a period of 5 winter months. One group of them gargled with plain salt and water—another with leading mouth antiseptics—the third group used Pepsodent Antiseptic exclusively. The group that used Pepsodent Antiseptic had 50% fewer colds than either of the other two groups. Those who used Pepsodent and did catch cold were able to get rid of their colds in half the time required by other methods.

Pepsodent Antiseptic 3 times as powerful . . . goes 3 times as far

Let Pepsodent show how it can help prevent colds in your family this spring . . . and save you money at the same time. Pepsodent Antiseptic is absolutely safe full strength—yet it still kills germs even when you dilute it with two parts of water. Thus it makes your money go 3 times as far as ordinary mouth antiseptics.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25¢ at drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.

CHANGES FOR AAA STIR THREE PLY POLICY WRANGLE

Farmers, Processors and Wallace Involved.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—The new AAA amendments have started hostilities between the farmers and the agricultural department on one hand and the processors on the other. This developed today as the house agricultural committee discussed the proposed legislation broadening the powers of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

One committee member said that 36 organizations of processors, including packers and millers, had banded themselves together to fight the amendments. Farm organizations have given at least tacit approval to the legislation and have not entered objections.

Plans More Simple Control.

Appearing before the house agricultural committee today, Chester C. Davis, AAA administrator, declared that the proposed amendments would enable the AAA through local control boards more freely to set the amount of farm products to be processed, place and time of their purchase, and the price.

Davis told the committee that the authority for such control already was vested in the AAA and that the amendments would eliminate opportunity for extensive litigation. The board authority thus far has been used only in regulating the marketing of milk and several minor products.

One of the pending amendments discussed by the AAA administrator was that which authorizes Secretary Wallace to prescribe marketing quotas for producers and to license processors and distributors under an agreement not to receive from an individual producer in excess of his allotment.

Majority Would Rule.

The licenses would be imposed when two-thirds of the producers of a commodity asked for the action. Davis said that the administration would object strenuously to modification of the license provision because "it would tie our hands" in the negotiation of marketing agreements.

Davis also objected to any limitation of the proposed authority of the AAA to inspect the books and records of processors and distributors. It had been suggested that this authority be limited to situations where the desired information was "relevaant" to the marketing agreement or license in question. A change may be made so that processing taxes instead of going to pay acreage will aid foreign trade promotion.

Davis said farm representatives planned to propose that the AAA be amended to permit the levying of processing taxes without making benefit payments for acreage control. The proceeds from the taxes, he explained, would be used to finance the removal of surpluses to foreign markets.

FIRE CAUSES $1,000 DAMAGE.

Damage estimated at $1,000 was caused by a fire yesterday in the building of the Independent Sawdust and Shavings company at 1006 West 21st street. The blaze was started by an explosion in the heating plant.

PROBE NEW YORK BRICK DEAL WITH FARLEY COMPANY

Firm Gets Huge Order Despite Low Bids.

New York, Feb. 27.—[Special.]—The city department of finance is investigating the circumstances surrounding the purchase of some 285,000 bricks from the General Builders Supply corporation, of which Postmaster General James A. Farley's brother-in-law is president, though two other firms submitted lower bids, it was learned today.

The bricks, which were for work relief construction in the Prospect park zoo, cost the city 80 per cent more than the lowest bid, and 30 per cent in excess of the second bid.

The low bidders were ruled out after F. C. French, chief superintendent of the parks department, had recommended that the "Farley" company be given the contract.

Others Called "Inferior."

After checking the transaction, Park Commissioner Robert Moses said that Mr. French's recommendation was based upon the opinion of Aymore Embury II., consulting architect to the department, that the specimen bricks submitted by the two lower bidders were of inferior quality.

Bids for the bricks were opened April 20, 1934, and rejected. Bids from five companies, received in response to readvertisment, were opened June 21. The order included 253,000 regular face bricks and four lots of special bricks of different types. Specifications provided that samples must be submitted which should "meet with the architect's approval."

Burroughs Building Materials company in Brooklyn, bid $4,113.65 net and offered that "in order to insure a uniformity of color for the regular brick and for the specials we can have them all made from the same materials and burned at the same time."

Cites Qualifications.

Glow Products company bid $5,629.70 net, and said that "the factory has positive control on color and texture of brick, and is prepared to take full responsibility for exact reproduction of color range in the special shapes to match the body brick."

General Builders Supply corporation bid $7,511.20 net and provided that "in order to insure uniformity of texture and finish the special brick will be burned in the same kiln, under the same conditions, with the same clay as regular brick were burned."

Two other concerns bid, respectively, $8,006.47 and $8,508.63 net.

The Burroughs company promised delivery in from one day to three weeks, for different types of brick. Farley's company did not offer first delivery until eight days and asked five weeks for the slower type. The Glow concern's delivery predictions were slower than those of the Farley company.

Offer Is Criticized.

The Glow company's offer to take responsibility for reproduction of color range was subject to criticism on the ground that if the color did not come out satisfactorily delay would ensue while other bricks were being made. The Burroughs offer, however, was said to give greater protection than that of the General corporation because not only would the same clay, kiln, and conditions be used, but the brick would actually be "burned at the same time."

A week after the bids were opened, Supt. French wrote that "we have reviewed the bids and letters describing the facilities and services which have been submitted, and in view of all the factors involved we recommend that you place the order with the General Builders Supply corporation as per their bid."

BRITISH EXPERT SAYS DROUTH WAS BIG HELP TO AMERICAN FARMER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 27.—The drouth as a means of bettering the lot of American farmers by lowering production is praised in the biennial report of H. O. Chalkley, commercial counselor of the British embassy at Washington, on American economic conditions.

Chalkley reported the American farmers better off, the unemployment problem not solved but improved, retail sales up, banks safe, credit abundant, minor improvements in foreign trade, and sporadic but real gains in home industry. He said he thought further improvement would be shown this year.

The drouth, he said, helped the scheme to improve the condition of farmers, while depreciation of the currency had little effect in raising domestic prices.

SEWELL DODGES RELATING STORY OF 'WIFE TRADE'

Agrees on Testimony About Bedroom.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Barton Sewell, millionaire sportsman, avoided relating the oft-told spicy details of an asserted exchange of wives with Walter Emerson, actor-writer, when his turn came today to testify in Emerson's divorce suit.

Sewell has been named as co-respondent by Emerson, whose wife, Mrs. Jane Emerson, countered with a cross-complaint naming Mrs. Leah C. Sewell as co-respondent.

Sewell Is Abashed.

When Sewell came up to that point in his testimony he asked:

"Do you want me to go into the details of——of——uh, what has been told so many times here?" He referred to Mrs. Emerson's previous testimony that he and she were in one bedroom during the night while Mrs. Sewell and Emerson were in an adjoining bedroom.

"If what already has been told is according to fact, you may so testify, and spare us the details," Judge Lindsey said.

"I so testify," Sewell replied, blinking.

He said the following day all four returned to the city together. Shortly afterward, he said, he and the Emersons met in the home of a mutual friend. This was in the afternoon of Nov. 28.

Tells of Love for Other Woman.

"I told Walter I was in love with Jane," Sewell said. "He said he had been aware of it for some time and that he had been unhappy for several years in his married life. He told us that under the circumstances he would step aside and let us do as we saw fit."

The night before this, it was testified, Sewell spent the night in the apartment house occupied by Mrs. Emerson and Mrs. Edmund Scholtz, her mother.

Mrs. Scholtz, on the witness stand, said she reserved a room at the apartment house for Mr. Sewell "at my daughter's request."

Mrs. Scholtz continued that her daughter and Sewell had told her each had separated from their respective mates.

"Where did your daughter spend the night—with you?" she was asked.

"She said she was going to sleep with a friend," Mrs. Scholtz replied.

"But you don't know, of your own knowledge, where, in the apartment house, Jane Emerson slept the night of Nov. 27?"

The witness said she did not.

Emerson's attorney then sought to show that Mrs. Emerson had had "affairs" with a Bradford Babbitt and an Ernesto Alvardao.

Mrs. Scholtz also was cross-examined on the subject of the heart balm suit brought against Emerson three weeks after his marriage in 1923.

Checks paid Suzette Tobey, former dancing partner of Emerson, were introduced in evidence. Mrs. Scholtz said she wrote them. Miss Tobey will be married to Herbert Dabney of Atlanta, Ga., when she returns to Alameda, Cal., from the trial, Dabney said.

Testimony of Sewell brought the case near a close. Of the dozens of witnesses only one or two remain.

TWO HUNGRY ANIMALS HELP FARM RELIEF FOR MINNESOTANS

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Outside Minnesota's state Capitol today stood three emaciated animals—a horse, a cow and a pig—quietly munching feed their western Minnesota owner said he had been unable to give them at home because of inadequate relief following last summer's burning drouth.

Inside the state house, the senate, although one of their number specifically denied the exhibit had influenced the action, promptly passed a measure to appropriate $500,000 to be administered by the state executive council for live stock feed in western Minnesota drouth areas. More exhibits have been threatened by farmers.

The house, although leaders agreed with some senators who termed the appropriation "a pinch of snuff," was expected to approve the bill.

The live stock was the property of Arthur Spencer, western Minnesota farmer. Spencer said his cattle were in much better condition than some others in the drouth area.

VOTE TO HIRE 30 MORE TEACHERS IN HIGH SCHOOLS

The school board at a meeting yesterday voted to employ thirty additional high school teachers to accommodate increased enrollment. The teachers will be placed at the Wells, Phillips, and Steinmetz schools.

The board also approved the acceptance by Supt. William J. Bogan of the voluntary retirement of five teachers who have had forty or more years of service. The five, their schools and terms of service, are Myrtle E. Mattison, May school, 40 years; Ida Mighell, principal, Hay school, 42 years; Helena A. O'Connell, Phil Sheridan school, 42 years; Mary L. Saunders, Tilton school, 43 years; Flora L. Dahlem, Audubon school, 41 years.

BOARD AWARDS CONTRACTS FOR 2 NEW SCHOOLS

Contracts covering the erection of two new elementary schools which will replace 52 portables and seat 1,875 pupils, were approved by the board of education yesterday. The schools are the Oakenwald, to be built at an estimated cost of $250,000, at East 41st street and Lake Park avenue, and the Leyden school, to cost $350,000, at Cornelia, Osceola, Roscoe and Olcott avenues.

In presenting the contracts, John C. Christensen, chief architect, pointed out that the Leyden school is identical with schools built six and eight years ago at a cost of $500,000.

The Coath and Goss company was awarded the masonry contract on the Leyden school. The S. N. Nielson company was awarded the masonry contract on the Oakenwald school. Construction of the schools will start as soon as weather permits and both buildings will be ready for use in September, Mr. Christensen said.

The Leyden school be a three story building with 22 classrooms. The Oakenwald school will contain 15 classrooms, library, kindergarten and gymnasium.

ELEVATED ROADS ON GARFIELD AND ASHLAND STUDIED

Intersection Forms City's Fourth Death Corner.

BY HAL FOUST.

Three deaths and thirteen personal injuries is the twelve months' toll of trafic at Garfield boulevard and Ashland avenue, rated by Leslie Sorenson, engineer for the bureau of streets, as Chicago's No. 4 death corner.

The geography of the intersection is such that acquisition of a right of way would not enter into the problem of constructing a grade separation. The two busy automobile arterials bear each a state highway marker. The cost of grade separation would be only a fraction of the sums the Illinois highway department has squandered in recent years in building comparable rural viaducts where there will never be any considerable volume of cross trafic.

To be sure, the trafic at Ashland and Garfield is such that elevated highways, with continuous grade separation would probably be a more practical solution of the problem when funds become available for a large capital investment in improved motor facilities.

Advantages of Proposal.

George Barton, engineer for the Chicago Motor club, estimated that the cost of a grade separation for this intersection would approximate $250,000 if the design were such as to segregate pedestrians as well as to separate opposing vehicular movements. In addition to eliminating an annual toll of three lives and thirteen personal injuries, the structure would expedite travel for the 45,686 motor cars and trucks that daily pass through the crossing.

As measured by the highway department's investments in rural grade separations, the price of $250,000 would be a bargain for the motorists who pay the bills with their license fees and gasoline taxes. Elevated highways with continuous grade separation, however, can be built for $431,000 a mile, according to a survey made for Ald. John A. Massen [48th] as chairman of the council trafic committee.

Viaducts Out in Country.

Some rural grade separation construction that can be cited as a contrast to the benefits of separating the grades for a daily trafic of 45,686 cars at Garfield and Ashland is as follows, listing the location of the structures, the daily trafic, and the cost:

Ill. 54 and Joliet road, 3,500 cars, $69,073.
Ill. 54 and Ogden avenue, 8,500 cars, $111,121.
Ill. 54 and Roosevelt road, 5,100 cars, $144,845.
Ill. 53 and Ogden avenue, 5,600 cars, $149,594.
Ill. 53 and Roosevelt road, 4,100 cars, $124,157.
Ill. 53 and Evanston-Elgin highway, 970 cars, $86,391.
Ill. 59 and Roosevelt road, 3,100 cars, $142,381.
Ill. 59 and Lake street, 3,100 cars, $87,753.
Ill. 59 and Evanston-Elgin highway, 790 cars, $74,207.
Ill. 52 and 96th avenue, 1,650 cars, $182,932.

These highways, designated by numerals, are new circumferential routes around Chicago. They are incomplete and carry little or no trafic over their intersections with the radial highways at this time. Even when they are finished, their trafic will be negligible compared with an urban thoroughfare.

Motor Club's Recommendation.

The geography of advantages for grade separation construction at Garfield boulevard and Ashland avenue consists of a broad parkway in the center of the boulevard. The design favored by the motor club would be an ornamental and landscaped bridge for the boulevard over Ashland avenue.

The accident records of three dead and thirteen injured in twelve months are proof that the one level crossing is not satisfactory, even without citing the delays to the large volumes of truck, bus, streetcar and motor car trafic.

At the intersection, all has been done physically that can be done without grade separation to safeguard the public and to expedite trafic. Both thoroughfares are broad, a factor that expedites trafic at the expense of additional hazards. Six stop and go signals blink red and green to regulate movements. And, during school hours, an emergency relief pedestrian crossing guard with a white Sam Brown belt is on duty at the corner.

CHICAGO'S NO. 4 DEATH CORNER

AUTHORIZE FIVE STREET CAR BUS LINES FOR CITY

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday directed the Chicago Surface Lines to install feeder buses on five routes. It was announced that the buses, to cost $500,000, will be ordered shortly, and will be put in service in about two months. Street car officials agreed to the supplementary service a month ago, in a round table conference with the Illinois commerce commission and city officials. The feeder bus routes follow:

1. 71st street from Cottage Grove avenue to South Shore drive.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, in whose court the street car companies are in receivership, will be petitioned at once for authority to buy the new buses, according to Harry J. Weber, counsel for the surface lines' receivers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sir John will return Friday and probably will go to Berlin early next week.

From there it is likely he will go to Moscow, although a formal invitation has not yet been received. He may also visit Warsaw and Prague.

GETS YEAR FOR $10 ROBBERY.

David DeCourchey, 43 years old, was sentenced to one year in the Bridewell by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court yesterday on a robbery charge. DeCourchey was captured after he robbed Antone Zellon of $10 in Zellon's tavern at 7143 South Racine avenue Sunday.

COUNCIL TRANSFERS $50,000 TO LAUNCH NAVY PIER PROJECT

Transfer of $50,000 from the fire department bond fund to start development of Navy pier as a convention and recreation center was provided for in an ordinance passed by the city council yesterday.

Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th], chairman of the finance committee, introduced the ordinance, which had been approved in a message from Mayor Kelly. The preliminary work will include erection of an auditorium on the pier head and improvements to existing facilities, to serve large gatherings next summer. The proposal previously had been suggested by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The council also approved Mayor Kelly's appointment of Police Commissioner Allman to the zoning board of appeals for five years. The appointment fills the vacancy created when Martin H. Durkin resigned more than a year ago to become state director of labor.

A resolution calling for the appointment of a commission to outline a ten year aviation development program for Chicago was referred by the council to its recreation and aviation committee. The resolution, which was offered by Ald. John J. Grealis [44th], would have the commission determine whether a lake front airport or a superhighway to the Chicago airport would best serve the city's needs.

HELD FOR FUND SHORTAGE.

Eau Claire, Wis., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Norman Benson, 29, former county treasurer, was arrested here today and held in the county jail on a warant charging embezzlement of at least $2,169.27 of the county funds while treasurer. He will be arraigned tomorrow.

MRS. WALKER DENIES CHARGE OF ALIENATION

Mrs. Gertrude Reich Walker took the stand yesterday and denied that she had alienated the affections of Fred Hankel, orchestra leader, as is charged in the $100,000 suit filed by Hankel's estranged wife, Mrs. Olive Hankel, 1600 Albion avenue. The case is being heard by a jury before Judge Albert Crampton of Moline, who is sitting in Superior court here.

Mrs. Walker said she was acting as Hankel's secretary in 1933. She admitted Hankel had visited her apartment at the Sovereign hotel, but only on business and never alone.

Wirt D. Walker, vice president of the Arcady Farms Milling corporation, estranged husband of Mrs. Walker, testified for her yesterday. He said he had sent Hankel to interview Mrs. Walker in the hotel relative to writing some letters for the orchestra leader. He said his wife had never told him anything to indicate affection for Hankel.

Several other witnesses, including relatives, testified they had never noticed evidence of an affair between Hankel and Mrs. Walker.

Start Retrial of Rollnick and Six in Million Fraud

The second trial of Leonard Rollnick, alleged New York city bucket shop operator, and six other men was started yesterday afternoon before Judge E. I. Frankhauser in the Criminal court. They are charged with conspiracy to defraud investors out of $1,000,000 by selling worthless stock through high pressure sales methods. The case was tried once before, but the jury disagreed.

MAYOR'S SAFETY DRIVE CUTS AUTO DEATHS 29 PCT.

First Two Months of 1935 Show Results.

Mayor Kelly's Keep Chicago Safe campaign, which will be dramatized next Monday evening on the stage of the Chicago Civic Opera house, has slowed up the mounting toll of automobile deaths. This is shown by the 29 per cent reduction in the number of motor fatalities in Chicago and Cook county for January and the first 26 days of February as compared with the same period of 1934.

There were 163 automobile deaths in Chicago during this period of 1934, and only 116 this year. In Cook county there were 190 deaths last year and 141 this year. This means that in Chicago there have been 47 fewer deaths and in Cook county 57 fewer deaths this year than last.

Three a Day Last Year.

The safety campaign was launched four months ago by the mayor when he found that an average of three persons were killed daily in automobile accidents. The city council named fifty civic leaders to serve on a committee, of which the mayor was named chairman.

Barnet Hodes, a member of the state tax commission, was named secretary, and the campaign was in full swing in thirty days.

The executive committee of fifty was divided into eleven subcommittees, each with special responsibility. One publicized on the radio the committee's aim, another started the work in schools and churches, and the others carried appeals to other quarters. All were directed towards appeals to the motoring public to drive safely and sanely.

The city was divided into six divisions, which were in turn subdivided into hundreds of smaller units. Twenty-eight "town hall" meetings were held, at which Mayor Kelly and other prominent speakers brought home the purposes of the campaign.

Leaders Help Drive.

The coöperation of neighborhood leaders was won, and in turn community organization safety clubs and chapters were formed to help carry on the work.

A campaign for safety pledges was launched pamphlets and posters were distributed. The city's public and private school children all joined in signing safety honor rolls. Thousands of speeches were made in every part of the city, and safety sermons were delivered in almost every church and synagogue.

Next Monday night the campaign will be dramatized in speech, music and entertainment at the Civic Opera house. Mayor Kelly will tell of the situation as it existed, and of the success of the united efforts of the entire city to remedy it. Prizes will be awarded to elementary and high school pupils who won safety essay contests, oratorical contests, and for the best safety song and radio scrip.

After a program of music, dances and drills by high school organizations, a dramatic sketch taken from the records of the trafic court will be staged and broadcast by a staf of radio entertainers.

MAYOR KELLY'S VICTORY.

The overwhelming victory of Mayor Kelly in the Democratic primary can be attributed in part, of course, to the support of a powerful and well-disciplined political organization. But that is by no means the whole story. Organization might explain victory, but it does not explain the record size of the vote nor the record plurality.

Mayor Kelly won as he did because his administration has earned the confidence of the people of Chicago. His achievement in reducing the cost of government and therefore reducing the tax bills is an outstanding one. From being one of the worst managed cities in the country Chicago has become one of the best managed. Savings in pay roll, supplies, interest and other items have aggregated in recent years more than 80 million dollars.

Despite the reduction in taxation made possible by these savings the financial condition of the city has shown a remarkable improvement. The floating debt has been greatly reduced and in consequence the cost of borrowed money has declined to something like a normal interest rate. Even more dramatic has been the wiping out of the arrears in wage and salary payments of city and school employés.

The voters showed their gratitude for these achievements in business management; and they could hardly have been unmindful of the mayor's record in another field, that of police administration. Under his leadership the police have concentrated their efforts upon the suppression of major crime and gangsterism with the result that Chicago is no longer the haven it was only a few years ago for bands of professional hoodlums. The success attained in giving greater protection to life and property is reflected in declining insurance rates and in the restoration of the pride of Chicagoans in their city and its government.

Mayor Kelly had earned the unexampled vote of confidence which he received.

FALSIFYING HISTORY.

A year ago the Washington Post, ardent advocate of American adherence to the league of nations, rebuked Senator Borah for citing George Washington as an opponent of foreign entanglements. The Post thought Washington had qualified the warning conveyed in the farewell address, basing its view on a statement ascribed to him, that "when, our institutions being firmly consolidated and working with complete success, we might safely and perhaps beneficially take part in the consultations held by foreign states for the advantage of the nations."

This read like Manley Hudson or President Butler rather than Washington, and Senator Borah, who is quite well read on Washington, having never encountered it, instituted a search for it. The legislative reference service of congress embarked on the unpromising enterprise and was unable to find any such remark in the known utterances of Washington. It did find it in a book by Prof. George H. Blakeslee of Clark university.

Correspondence with Prof. Blakeslee elicited from him the information that he had taken this dubious and remarkable statement from an article on "The League of Nations and American Foreign Policy," by one Horace K. Kallen. Pursuing the trail to Mr. Kallen, the latter said he did not know where he got the alleged quotation and did not remember the article in which it appeared. The secretary who had assisted him in its composition was no longer in his employ.

Not content with this rather unsatisfying result, Senator Borah enlisted the help of the American Historical association, which was naturally interested in what would have been a noteworthy historical revelation. But after investigation by that distinguished body it reported that "Washington never said what he is therein assumed to have said."

With these findings in hand, Senator Borah arose in the senate on the appropriate occasion of Washington's birthday and, after recalling attention to the Post's editorial charge of insincerity or worse, related the course of his investigation and its results. The Post has apologized. Whereupon Profs. Blakeslee and Kallen have been heard from we are not informed, but it is worth noting that Prof. Blakeslee is not merely a professor of history. He is one of the busiest of that American intelligentsia which is bent upon getting the American people into the European political entanglements which the wisdom of Washington foresaw and would have them avoid. The Horace K. Kallen whose article was a source good enough for Prof. Blakeslee is probably the Horace M. Kallen of Who's Who. We find him to be a professor in the New School of Research, New York, a member of the Society of Psychical Research, of the labor committee of the Advisory Committee of the Council of National Defense, and author of various works, including one on "The Structure of Lasting Peace" and another on "The League of Nations Today and Tomorrow."

We suggest an explanation is due from these eminent educators. As professional trustees of historical truth, as teachers of confiding youths, even as champions of a cause which claims for itself the noblest motives, they appear in a sorry light.

MR. FARLEY OF FARLEY & FARLEY.

Mr. Farley of Farley & Farley, New York and Washington, will run the campaign. This, of course, is the next campaign for the election of a President. Mr. Farley of Farley & Farley is postmaster general and chairman of the Democratic national committee. He is supposed to be not on speaking terms with himself. There must be strictly preserved that separation of public and political offices insisted upon early in the course of the present administration.

In the case of other Democratic national committeemen, such as Mrs. Ross of Wyoming, Mr. Mullen of Nebraska, Max Gardner of North Carolina, and Robert Jackson of New Hampshire, it was thought that they could not distinguish between themselves as politicians and New Dealers; consequently they were asked to get off the committee, a small thing because, obviously, if they were big shots in their states they could get off the committee and still remain on it. However, the appearances were preserved.

An exception was made of Mr. Farley and he remained at the head of the committee, distributing mail with one hand and political favors with the other. Mr. Farley does not look alike. As chairman of the national committee he would not recognize the postmaster general if he sat in the same office with him, and as postmaster he does not know there is a national committee. With such a gift he has filled both offices to the satisfaction of an administration which has made a great fuss about Mr. Moses in New York, who is park commissioner and was denied the right to supervise PWA bridge funds. The Washington administration was determined about this. But then, Mr. Moses is a Republican and the park job and the bridge job were consistent parts of one program, therefore one man could not handle both, not if he were Mr. Moses.

Mr. Farley, Postmaster General Farley and National Chairman Farley, will run the next campaign as he ran the recent one, following up the distribution of federal millions with little cards giving the name of the donor, with best wishes and "call me Jim." Each appropriation as expended will be with Mr. Farley's compliments in green ink, and with his wish for many happy returns, in an electoral sense. In justification of Mr. Farley's two jobs it can be said that each makes for economy in clerical help. The national committeeman has the postmaster general's lists and when a donation goes out the bookkeeping is simplified. The political account can go along with the departmental account. Mr. Farley at any moment can tell just how much Jones has received, how much he ought to get, and how many votes it ought to be worth.

NEW SUBURBAN SERVICE.

A recent announcement has been made by the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railway —the familiar Milwaukee road—that effective March 1 it will install new and improved suburban train service between Chicago and Glenview, Northbrook, Deerfield and Fox Lake in answer to the public demand for improved suburban service epitomized in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S platform for Chicago—"Introduce Suburban Service Appropriate to the Twentieth Century." New trains have been added to the card and transit time to Fox Lake has been reduced by fourteen minutes in some instances.

Our congratulations are extended to the Milwaukee road with the proviso that when the increased patronage becomes apparent additional fast trains will be installed.

SOMETHING TO GET OFF THE CHEST.

The proprietor of a theater in Paris thinks that men who go to public places of evenings should wear evening clothes as they used to do. To encourage the return of this polite habit, so to say, he offers a present to any of his male customers who comes to the theater properly dressed. The women, it appears, present no problem. They like to dress up.

M. Trebor, for that is his name, has adopted an expensive method of achieving an objective which might be attained at much less cost. Men, as well as women, like to dress up. Men resist evening clothes for just one reason: the boiled shirt. No, for two reasons: the boiled shirt and the undertaker's collar. Find a man who will incase himself in these instruments of torture without protest and he will prove to be either a college sophomore with his first evening outfit or a flat chested ninny with an eight inch neck.

Evening suits are not inherently uncomfortable. It is the appurtenances which cause all the trouble. If M. Trebor would bribe the gentlemen who design armored shirts to call it a day he would find his problem solved.

Editorial of the Day

THE THREE-I LEAGUE REVIVES.

[Peoria Transcript.]

After many false starts the Three-I league has at last got up enough steam to carry it through a successful season. The league will consist of six clubs, all of which have promised to go through the season, regardless of the breaks.

At least four of the clubs are sure of completing their schedule even in the face of adverse financial conditions. These are Peoria, Bloomington, Springfield and Terre Haute. These cities have been assured of major league support and will act as farms for their backers. Fort Wayne and Decatur, the other cities in the loop, are looking for major league backing but have posted forfeits to guarantee that they will remain in the league even if they do not find it profitable.

Whether the "chain store" system of baseball is desirable or not is open to question. Some baseball fans believe that if people are sufficiently interested in baseball they will support local teams even without big league backing. Experience in this part of the country, however, suggests that unless majors take an increasing interest in minors, baseball as a form of big business is doomed.

Under present arrangements Peoria knows it will have a complete season of baseball. That is more assurance than has been given it in the last four years.

"PANAMA INSISTS on Gold; Will Return American Annual Payment if Made in U. S. Dollars."—Headline. How quaint and old fashioned of Panama! Its government takes the ridiculous stand that the United States in its treaty with the little Central American republic agreed to pay $250,000 annually for the use of the Panama canal and the payment was to be IN GOLD. And now Panama says that if the U. S. tries to work off American dollars on her she'll send the stuff back. The little country insists that the treaty said this annual payment from the U. S. was to be in gold and that gold it must be, the Supreme Court to the contrary notwithstanding. Tsk! tsk! tsk! How very absurd! Suppose the treaty did specify gold. What's a treaty, anyhow? Just a scrap of paper. Really Panama seems to be living back in the stone age. Come, come, Panama; solemn obligations are not what they used to be. The world has changed. And how!

WHAT'S IN A WINTER WIND?

Blowing at night,
Able to drown the stars
And the moon's light?

Able to drown the earth
—One room so fair—
I, standing there.

Able to drown all sound;
Laughter and song,
Only one voice heard there,
Deep toned and strong.

Able to drown the years,
Time's weary pace,
I but a youth again
In that far place,

Where on a winter's night,
Top of a hill,
Once blew a winter wind;
Blowing there still.

To lightly dismiss
All that has come between
That day and this?

What's in a winter wind,
Blowing at night,
Able to drown the stars
And the moon's light?

"THE CHICAGO GIRLS' FLYING CLUB" has written to old Vox Popper demanding that fitting honor be done to Amelia Earhart by changing the name of Sixty-third street to Amelia Earhart road. Well, of course, Sixty-third street can't stay that way very long these days, and it might be well to change it to Amelia Earhart road before it becomes something much harder to pronounce. Personally I don't think Sixty-third should be changed to Amelia Earhart road until Amelia gets her hair marcelled.

CULTURAL NOTION FOR THIS DAY. Feb. 28: Humphrey, duke of Gloucester, murdered 1447; Michael de Montaigne born 1533. And it's the end of February and you can get all fixed to say, "Well, if March comes in like a lion it will go out like a lamb," that is if you care to pull that old wheeze, but, with lamb chops selling right now at 52 cents a pound, a lot of us simply can't bear to speak of a lamb or have the word mentioned in our presence. As for getting a nice cultural thought out of the day, it is fifty-fifty between Humphrey and Mike Montaigne. Humphrey merely got murdered and there's no especial kick in that for us moderns; we're too used to it. Mike is a little better. So let's find out all about Montaigne and how he gets his name in the date book. But we get stopped right away. The encyclopedia says: "Perhaps the only actual parallel to Montaigne in literature is Lamb." There it is, lamb again! And do we get lamb chops for dinner? We do not; we get hot dog. So nobody wants to hear any more about lamb. The class is dismissed.

WAS THIS THE FACE?

It was never Homer who bequeathed
Us Helen's loveliness in deathless phrase or word.
He was content to tell his immortal tale
Whereby a war was fought and victory occurred.

He thought, "A woman may have been divine
Enough for sharpening swords, but heroes are the stuff
For poetry and song: godlike Achilles,
Hector, the wise Ulysses, and the bluff

And so for centuries bewitching Helen lay
Neglected and unsung, her faithless love
A battle slogan, till the day

With two great lines, set her forever in the sun:
"Was this the face that launched a thousand ships,
And burnt the topless towers of Ilium?"

AND IN PITTSBURGH they actually are saying that while good old Uncle Andy Mellon was secretary of the treasury he messed around a bit with his own private financial affairs. It's simply horrible! Is there no reverence left in these United States? And Uncle Andy, of all people! All right, just wait; some day a lot of bears are going to walk right out of the woods and into Pittsburgh and eat up a lot of those people who are tormenting Uncle Andy. Look what happened to the naughty children who taunted the prophet Elisha. Those folks down there in Pittsburgh can run around and thumb their noses and mock at good old Uncle Andy and give three hearty cheers for Yahwah for a while—but they'd better look out, that's all.

CONVULSIONS IN PREGNANCY.

FORTUNATELY there are but few disease conditions for which pregnancy may be primarily blamed. This normal physiological process proceeds in an orderly manner and nature functions with safety to mother and child.

There are, of course, certain obstetrical complications or accidents the prevention of which taxes the skill of the modern trained obstetrician. Most of these, with proper care, can be rendered harmless, and childbirth is becoming safer year by year. No longer is it considered a expiation of "original sin" that a woman should undergo without relief a prolonged, painful, and health destroying labor. Modern management, with its accompanying anesthesia and hospital safeguards, has greatly improved the outlook of the expectant mother.

However, there occurs occasionally a condition known as eclampsia which is attended with some danger. The most careful observation is necessary for its prevention.

Eclampsia is not a disease, but a symptom of some underlying state which has not as yet been clearly explained. There is a tendency to sleep, with muscular cramps in the legs, loss of appetite, headache, some mental disturbance, and dimness of vision. If the condition increases in severity nausea, vomiting, and pain over the stomach may precede the actual onset of convulsions.

Even before any of these symptoms appear the patient may have noted swelling of the feet and the eyelids, the skin may have lost its normal color, the tongue may be particularly foul, and some tenderness may be observed over the stomach area or the liver. If the swelling in the tissues, particularly the lower legs, is marked the blood pressure is usually found to be increased and albumin may be present in the urine. By many writers this is considered the pre-eclamptic state.

A convulsion [in the absence of epilepsy] characterizes the onset of true eclampsia. If the symptom is noted it will probably be some time in the last three months of pregnancy. It is a most alarming occurrence, and may appear before, during, or shortly after labor. It demands prompt action. Convulsions will rarely occur if the patient has been carefully watched. Without such supervision and unless the patient or her friends are unusually observant, we may not wonder at the appearance of complications. It is obvious that painstaking and regular examination of the urine, blood pressure, and general condition should be made at frequent intervals.

The convulsive attacks last from a few seconds to one or two minutes or more. The body becomes rigid, the facial muscles are drawn and distorted, and the hands clenched. Within a few seconds the spasm disappears, to be followed by a twitching of the muscles which may last for a minute or more.

Because of the fairly high death rate that accompanies eclampsia with convulsions, prevention is of the greatest importance. A specific remedy cannot be used because we do not know the exact cause. Nevertheless, we do know how to manage the beginning symptoms of eclampsia and can thus ward off more serious developments. Blood pressure and the presence of albumin and blood cells in the urine are prime considerations. Whenever the blood pressure exceeds 130-140, special watchfulness on the part of the physician is required.

The following directions are of value in avoiding complications: [1] Visit your physician every three or four weeks after pregnancy develops; [2] follow his directions as to mode of life, clothing, exercise, and diet; [3] send a specimen of urine to his office at least every three weeks in the beginning of pregnancy and every two weeks in the last months; [4] should any of the symptoms mentioned above be noted, report without delay and appear for an examination if the symptoms do not quickly abate.

AMEBIC DYSENTERY.

P. H. writes: May amebic dysentery be communicated by the hands of infected persons?

REPLY.

Yes, the hands may harbor live entameba histolytica. This emphasizes the necessity of thoroughly washing the hands, paring the finger nails, and using a nail brush. Clean hands must be insisted upon in persons who prepare or serve food.

PROPERTY PURCHASE.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A and B, husband and wife, buy a parcel of land. Land deed is made out in joint ownership. B signs agreement with contractor C to build a home. Agreement is signed without A's consent. Building is completed and B lacks finances to continue payments. 1. Can A be forced to continue balance of payments? C has nothing but a worded agreement signed by B. Land deed is in A's possession. 2. Is agreement legal without A's signature? This land is in Michigan. What would you suggest to clear this up? W. H. W.

1. If the building was intended as a home for the parties it might be regarded as a family expense and A might be held on this basis. In addition, C could place a mechanic's lien upon the title, unless too much time has gone by.

2. In any event we see no reason why the agreement should not be binding upon the party who has signed it.

FLYING STORIES

By Test Pilot Jim Collins

They say a watched pot never boils. I know I have been in aviation for eleven years and have never seen a serious accident. Once I thought I was going to see one. By all rights I should have.

I was walking up the hangar road at Selfridge field. I saw Skippy Davies taxiing a ship out for a takeoff. He was taxiing parallel to the direction I was walking in and about abreast of me out in the middle of the field. I was watching him idly as he picked his way carefully through the bad spots in the soft field caused by the spring thaw.

He turned around and faced into the wind as though for a takeoff when he was only about halfway up the field. I thought he was just turning around to judge better how much room he had for the takeoff there, and that he would turn around again and taxi further up the field before he took off.

When he gave it the gun and actually started to take off from there, I stopped in my tracks and watched him. He had a load of eight men in the cabin.

I started thinking it at first, then I started saying it under my breath, and finally I shouted out loud, "Cut the gun, Skippy! Cut the gun! Cut the gun!"

He came right up to the embankment at the edge of the field and I could see that no ship could fly with the speed he had. I closed my eyes, and when I opened them again I saw a ship in the air about as high as the trees. Its nose was up. Its left wing and aileron was down. Its motor was wide open, roaring with a valiant, futile sort of roar, and the ship was sinking.

It sank into the ground in the middle of a patch of scattered trees and didn't hit one of them. The fuselage broke in two pieces and spilled the men out. Not a soul was hurt.

I figured out afterward that he must have hit the embankment at the edge of the field and bounced into the air without enough speed to stay there. It was one of those times when a pilot doesn't get killed in spite of himself.

CAUGHT IN THE DRAGNET.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—Is there no redress for the innocent women who are thrown into cells, fingerprinted, and hauled around in patrol wagons with hardened thugs, just because of a slight resemblance to some suspect? I was with a girl friend who had the same kind of purse, the same color of hair, dark brown, as a recent suspect. We were held two nights and a day on an open charge. As we were not booked, we could not get a bondsman.

After several rides here and there, one to Maxwell station and one to the bar where the crime was committed, to see whether one of us had ever been there, and in spite of our complete and satisfactory alibi, we were taken back to the station. But we were not booked until about 1 a. m., and then on a disorderly charge. The case came up in the morning court and we were released.

All this humiliation and false accusation for what? For two days we had been without warm water to wash our faces. All cosmetics were taken from us, lest the containers be used for self-destruction. Powder was taken to be analyzed. No wonder the poor women look so haggard and worn. Sleepless nights are spent partially in tears. The diet, without variation, is a roll with bologna filling. One can send out for coffee and toast. I did, but how many poor unfortunates have the money with them? Luckily I had $1.25.

We were favored with the best sleeping facilities the place afforded, a springless cot with bed covering that had been used dozens of times without changing. A person is innocent until convicted, and with all our taxation and ballyhoo about sanitation why not expend a little here? The ladies employed are fine and human, and we did receive courteous and kind treatment from all officers up to the courtroom. There we were treated like derelicts.

I have had several years' teaching experience, been in business, and have club affiliations of the highest. We were told by officers that some fifty innocents had been accused. C. B. W.

MOTTO FOR THE AAA.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—What would help us greatly in our economic distress today is another Mark Twain or Bill Nye, with their homely philosophy applied to the times to bring us back to reason.

In my university days many years ago our class secured Bill Nye for a lecture. He had just purchased a farm in North Carolina. He opened his lecture with these words, which might be posted in Washington: "I am not, strictly speaking, an agriculturist, but I feel quite sure I can farm successfully—as long as my wife's money holds out."

WOMEN AS PRISON WARDENS.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—Is your newspaper with all the unrivaled organization for gathering all the facts unaware that convicts have escaped from prisons where the wardens were men? Furthermore, that a great many more have escaped from such prisons than from those where women were in charge?

MARGARET A. SIMONSON.

THE ANT AND THE GRASSHOPPER.

Huntingdon, Tenn., Feb. 22.—There has been a great deal of talk lately, oral and printed, about the old age pension. Every one seems to agree as to its merits, but why discriminate against the man who owns his little home [the most sacred place on earth] in favor of the one who does not own a home?

A case like this has happened under my own observation. Two men worked for the same firm for a number of years. One saved his salary by depriving himself of shows, cars, and amusements, and bought a home. The other man bought a car almost every year; went to a show almost every night, ball games, and other amusements in a radius of 100 miles. Why pension him and leave the homeowner out? The owner of a $2,000 home pays in taxes for one year about $100, or one-third of the proposed pension; besides he pays the carpenter, the painter, the lumber dealer, paint dealer, and insurance agent about all the rest of the $260. All this is put in circulation, while the non-home owner pays $10 or $12 car license.

This procedure puts a premium on indolence and extravagance and depreciates thrift and economy and may cause his home to be sold for taxes.

The administrators of the New Deal have done too much of this discriminating against the men who pay the expenses [the taxpayer].

JOHN F. NEELY.

GLENN FOR PRESIDENT.

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 15.—Ex-Senator Otis F. Glenn made an enviable record in public office as state's attorney and state senator, and as United States senator he commanded the respect and confidence of his fellow senators. His vote on all questions was right, in accordance with his view of right and the view of his constituents. As you remember, he represented no particular faction or class. He has been through the entire gamut of life—from the common laborer to the United States senate. From his own experience he can and does know every phase of American life.

It is the belief of his close friends here that Otis F. Glenn is presidential timber. Of course, we who have known him practically all his life know that he would make an ideal governor, but in times like these we need more a President of his makeup.

Illinois gave to the nation Lincoln, Grant, Logan, Palmer, Cullom and dozens of others; they all made more than good. Let's give to the nation Otis F. Glenn. He made good before. He will lift us out of the depths now.

A. VOTER.

GOVERNMENT HOUSING.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—The government, it is understood, pays no taxes. Does this apply to the proposed housing projects of the PWA on the north, west and south sides of Chicago? If so, property owners will have their normal taxes raised to make up for the lack of tax realized on this property, in addition to the increased government tax necessary to pay for the project. Landlords will have the competition of lower rents due to tax free property. V. A. MATTESON.

AGAINST THE TOWNSEND PLAN.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—No more fanatical legislation in the name of recovery has yet been produced than the Townsend plan. It cannot reduce unemployment since it reduces the purchasing power of all buyers through a sales tax in the same proportion as it increases the purchasing power of those receiving pensions.

It will put a premium on idleness and cause great disparities between the financial condition of people who are equally worthy of receiving help. For example, a man 55, needing money and unemployed, would get nothing. On the other hand, two persons living together, and of an age eligible for pensions, would get $400 per month. The provision in the plan which makes spending of the money compulsory could be easily circumvented and hoarding would be practiced on a large scale. The abuses which would result from a scheme of this kind are so obvious that any sensible person, regardless of age, can easily see them. I, for one, hope that congress will make a speedy end to it by rejection of the entire measure. CARL OHLENDORF.

UNCLE SAM, DEADBEAT.

Yankton, S. D., Feb. 20.—The Supreme court held in the gold decision that congress could not repudiate the gold clause in government bonds—and then said that the Court of Claims has no jurisdiction.

Many a deadbeat has said:

"Sue and be damned."

"Collect it if you can."

"You can't get blood out of a turnip."

"I'm judgmentproof; what are you going to do?"

The king has always claimed the right to say when he might be sued. When he refuses the citizen is without redress. It would be easy, too, for all of us to get out of our obligations if it were in our power to deny jurisdiction to the courts in a suit against us.

When I owe a bill I believe in sweating blood to see to it that my creditor gets his money. I see no separate rule for Uncle Sam. H. A. ROBINSON.

FOR BONDHOLDERS.

Milwaukee, Feb. 18.—When prices and the cost of living rise, as from 1914 to 1929, the bondholder loses in purchasing power; and when the boom is over and prices fall back to normal, as they inevitably do, then he loses by devaluation. The debtor corporation naturally profits by whatever the bondholder loses. Then it becomes fraudulent in itself to sell bonds to the public, which may not rely upon mere clauses in the bond.

If this were generally understood, then no one would buy bonds either directly or indirectly through insurance companies and banks. Nor would they buy preferred stocks. Everything would have to be financed with common stocks; even a prospective home buyer would get the necessary funds by selling common stock. That would be interesting, if it works. H. A. STOLTENBERG.

Verdun Hero Appeals for Bigger Army.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 27.—The European tocsin which yesterday sounded in Italy today clanged ominously in France.

Unlike the Italian communique announcing warlike measures which have already been taken and those which could be taken if anybody felt like starting anything, it was a sensational warning from Marshal Henri Petain, savior of Verdun, that France is at the mercy of a surprise attack unless she increases the period of military service at once.

Petain's warning appears in the form of a long article in the March number of the monthly Revue des Deux Mondes, excerpts from which were given prominent space in all afternoon newspapers.

Launches Bigger Army Drive.

While the nationalist propaganda in favor of a longer term of conscript service is active these days, this is the first time anyone of Petain's caliber—he was minister of war in the last cabinet—has come out openly and unconditionally in favor of this drastic measure of preparedness which in the era before 1914 played a historic rôle in the evolution of European destiny.

The campaign to whip up public opinion in favor of an increased service—that is, a bigger army—can now be said to be officially launched.

The important feature of Petain's article is that he does not talk in general terms about protection against a hypothetical menace but insists that a law increasing the term of service from 1 year to 18 months must be voted before April, when the first half of the 1935 class will be called to the colors, and that next October's class must be conscripted for two years.

Names Germany.

This measure, the marshal writes, would be advisable even if it were not for the "hollow years" starting in 1936 caused by the low birth rate during the war. The "hollow years" make the measure absolutely essential, Petain asserts.

The aged marshal does not mince words talking about Germany whose people, he says, "will not shrink before the eventuality of a bloody adventure."

Charging that the theory of a surprise attack carried out without diplomatic warning is a favorite German military doctrin, Petain says that France must be ready at any moment to meet such an attack. By doubling the term of service the marshal thinks France will barely bring her military forces to equality with those of Germany.

Italian Clatter Causes No Alarm.

In such an atmosphere it is not surprising that the martial clatter from below the Alps was taken as a matter of course. Even yesterday's extraordinary communique from Rome does not seem to have stirred up any agitation in the French press, although the Italian ambassador thought it advisable to call on Foreign Minister Pierre Laval today to explain the significance of this gesture and also Italy's intentions regarding Ethiopia.

Whereas all this would have aroused horror a few months ago, the semi-official Temps tonight quietly commented:

"A reminder that Italy can mobilize 7 or 8 million men is perhaps not useless. It not only serves to reassure opinion on the other side of the Alps but also is a salutary warning to any one who might be tempted to try to stir up trouble in Austria again."

"MY LIFE," AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY

Open defiance of the law being rare in England, Churchill is astounded by an atrocious crime that has international complications. As home secretary in charge of metropolitan police and criminals he faces an unpleasant task—the capture of the gang responsible. Pistol fire in the streets is unprecedented, but he directs the battle on the scene.

BY WINSTON CHURCHILL.

But while I was thus busily engaged in all this hard and intricate work, a sensational episode occurred which has stamped itself upon the public memory. In the middle of December, 1910, a criminal gang of Letts from Baltic Russia under the leadership of an anarchist known as "Peter the Painter," committed an atrocious outrage.

They were engaged in tunneling from an empty house into a jeweler's shop where upwards of £30,000 worth of valuables was stored in a safe. The suspicions of the police having been aroused by the rappings which were reported, a party of four constables, unarmed save for their truncheons, came to investigate. The miscreants, surprised at work, opened a deadly fire with their automatic pistols and almost instantly laid the four policemen dead and dying on the pavement.

The ruthless ferocity of the crime, the unerring markmanship, the modern weapons and equipment, all disclosed a foreign savagery. Wrath and indignation were general throughout the country and the whole resources of Scotland Yard were concentrated in pursuit of the criminals.

I immediately ordered the police to be provided with the best pattern of automatic pistol then procurable. The brave constables who had fallen in the discharge of their duty were accorded a public funeral, and their coffins with the Union Jack lay in St. Paul's cathedral during a solemn memorial service attended by the dignitaries of the city of London. Thus the year ended.

Battle with Gang.

At about 10 o'clock on the morning of Jan. 3, 1911, I was in my bath when I was surprised by an urgent knocking at the door.

"There is a message from the home office on the telephone absolutely immediate."

Dripping wet and shrouded in a towel I hurried to the instrument and received the following news:

"The anarchists who murdered the police have been surrounded in a house in the east end—No. 100 Sidney street—and are firing on the police with automatic pistols. They have shot one man and appear to have plenty of ammunition. Authority is requested to send for troops to arrest or kill them."

Gives Necessary Orders.

I replied at once, giving the necessary permission and directing the police to use whatever force was necessary. In about twenty minutes I was at the home office. There I found my principal adviser, Mr. Ernley Blackwell, who told me that no further information had been received, except that the anarchists had been effectually surrounded, but were still firing in all directions. No one knew how many anarchists there were or what measures were going to be taken. In these circumstances I thought it my duty to see what was going on myself, and my advisers concurred in the propriety of such a step. I must, however, admit that convictions of duty were supported by a strong sense of curiosity which perhaps it would have been well to keep in check.

We started at once in a motor car. Down the Strand through the city towards Houndsditch, until at length at about noon we reached the point where all trafic was stopped. We got out of the car. There was a considerable crowd of angry and alarmed people and I noticed the unusual spectacle of metropolitan constables armed with shotguns hastily procured from a local gunsmith.

Crowd Not Friendly.

The attitude of the crowd was not particularly friendly, and there were several cries of "Oo let 'em in?" in allusion to the refusal of the liberal government to introduce drastic laws restricting the immigration of aliens.

Just at this moment, however, a shot rang out perhaps a couple of hundred yards away, followed by another and another, until there was a regular fusillade. Accompanied by an inspector, we proceeded down the empty street, turned a corner, turned another corner, and reached a group of policemen, several of whom were armed, and a number of onlookers and journalists who had found themselves within the police cordon when it was originally closed and had been permitted to remain. Another street ran at right angles across our path. Up this street fifty or sixty yards to the left was the house [No. 100] in which the murderers had barricaded themselves.

On the opposite side in front of us, police, Scots Guardsmen, and spectators were crouching behind the projecting corners of the building; and from both sides of the street, from the street itself, and from numerous windows policemen and other persons were firing rifles, pistols, and shotguns with increasing frequency at the house which harbored the desperadoes.

An Unusual Scene.

These replied every minute or two, shooting sometimes up and down the street and sometimes at their assailants in front. The bullets struck the brick work and ricocheted hither and thither. We have since become only too familiar with scenes of this kind, and the spectacle of street fighting has long lost its novelty in Europe. But nothing of the sort had ever been seen within living memory in quiet, law abiding, comfortable England; and from this point of view at least my journey was well repaid.

But the situation almost immediately became embarrassing. Some of the police officers were anxious to storm the building at once with their pistols. Others rightly thought it better to take more time and to avoid the almost certain loss of three or four valuable lives. It was no part of my duty to take personal control or to give executive decisions. From my chair in the home office I could have sent any order and it would have been immediately acted on, but it was not for me to interfere with those who were in charge on the spot. Yet, on the other hand, my position of authority, far above them all, attracted inevitably to itself direct responsibility. I saw now that I should have done much better to have remained quietly in my office. On the other hand, it was impossible to get into one's car and drive away while matters stood in such great uncertainty, and moreover were extremely interesting.

Being anxious to have a direct view of the besieged house I now crossed the street and took shelter in the doorway of a warehouse on the opposite side. Here I found Lord Knutsford, the chairman of the London hospital, and together we watched the closing scenes of the drama.

FLOOD OF FRENCH PROPAGANDA MAY DELUGE WORLD

PARIS, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A world-wide "propaganda war" on behalf of France, visualizing coördinated use of the press and radio to bring back French export and tourist trade, was vehemently urged upon the chamber of deputies today.

Describing a "real war where arms are wits, thoughts, verbs, arts, and sciences," Deputy Ernest Pezet reported on resolutions proposing to offset the propaganda of rival countries, with a footnote reference to Germany.

He told the chamber about "the prodigious strides in the propaganda of foreign nations with whom we compete most and with whom conflict perhaps threatens."

War in Spirit of Peace.

Pezet's report, couched in terms of war, said French propaganda should be "in the spirit of peace," and that care should be taken to avoid a "rupture between the indispensable sentiment concerning the interest and grandeur of France and the legitimate and natural reflexes of national sensibilities."

Pezet suggested that press officers be attached to French embassies and important consulates, and that government officers visiting other countries frequently should coöperate as subordinate diplomats in all efforts to make France better known.

Deputies Andre Fribourg and Adrien Dariac proposed the creation of a "superior propaganda council" within the government to counteract anti-French "campaigns" in America and Europe.

Brings Up Debt Repudiation.

Pezet pointed out that the new French superliner Normandie, which is soon to enter the trans-Atlantic service, had been a boomerang on France.

"It is perhaps inopportune," he said, "to try to astonish America by such a construction [it cost $52,800,000] at the very moment when we have refused to pay our American debts. Those well informed in American affairs know the publicity about the Normandie produced in the United States the opposite effect from what was expected."

CHARGES IN HOUSE LINK SOVIET RUSSIA WITH AMERICAN REDS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Charges of a link between soviet Russia and the communist party in the United States were made in the house today as its foreign affairs committee disregarded state department wishes and set a hearing next month on the Tinkham resolution for withdrawal of Russian recognition.

Chairman John McCormack [Dem., Mass.] of a special committee which investigated propaganda activities took the floor after an interchange between other members as to whether the soviet state was financing the spreading of propaganda in this country.

"Without regard to whether or not financial contributions have been traced," he said, "the indisputable fact remains that there is direct continuity between the Third internationale of soviet Russia and the communist party of the United States."

The foreign affairs committee, on a demand by Representative George H. Tinkham [Rep., Mass.], set March 19 for hearings on his resolution to withdraw Russian recognition.

A similar resolution has been introduced in the senate by Senator W. Warren Barbour [Rep., N. J.].

Inhabitants of Chinese Town Massacre 24 Lepers

HONG KONG, China, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The massacre of 24 lepers in the little fishing village of Waichow, on an island in the Pearl river, was reported here today. Inhabitants of the village carried out the massacre, it was said, to rid their island of the sufferers, who lived in a small settlement of their own near the village. The settlement was burned after the slayings.

PEERS DEMAND HALT ON JAILING MEN FOR DEBTS

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York News.]

LONDON, Feb. 27.—There was emphatic assent from members of all parties in the house of lords today to a proposal that something be done to reduce the large number of persons still imprisoned in England for certain types of debt. Such cases include nonpayment of taxes, fines, and alimony. There were 20,416 such imprisonments in 1933.

An opinion expressed by the archbishop of Canterbury and other peers was that no delinquent should ever be imprisoned for any type of debt when nonpayment is due to inability to pay, which is true of a large percentage of cases.

Lord Snell said that in this they did things much better in the United States, as he had discovered by visits to Domestic Relations courts when he was in America last year.

"The American judge," said Lord Snell, "expressed to me his admiration for our courts in England, and I was thankful he did not know of the blot on our system which we have been discussing today."

DAIRYMAN KILLS SELF.

Davenport, Ia., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Marcus Waage, 52, retired Davenport dairyman who observed his 32d wedding anniversary two weeks ago on which date his daughter was married, ended his life by shooting himself last night. Mr. Waage, who had been in the dairy business here for 35 years, had recently become despondent over ill health.

MACDONALD OFFERS TO RESIGN POST AS PREMIER OF ENGLAND

DONCASTER, Yorkshire, England, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald said tonight he will resign whenever he feels he can no longer "pull my full weight in the boat."

"So far as I'm concerned, I hold the position I do at the wish of my colleagues. When the moment comes that they find my services too dearly bought, or when I myself for one reason or another—and unfortunately there are many—am no longer satisfied that I can pull my full weight in the boat, I shall require nobody's advice to make up my mind what my duty is."

MacDonald said the government is actively after financial speculators whose scandals, he said, "are besmirching the financial probity of this country and damaging our credit in the eyes of the world."

GERMAN GUNBOAT FIRES SHELLS AT U. S. NAVY TARGET

San Pedro, Cal., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—German naval gunnery echoed over the Pacific today for the first time since the commerce raider Emden fled the British twenty years ago.

The Karlsruhe, named after a German war raider, paused on her way northward around Cape Horn for her California visit and to fire a salute at lonely Coronel Islands, scene of Admiral Von Spee's victory over Admiral Cradock's British light cruiser fleet in 1914.

ROME, Feb. 27.—Alarmed at Premier Mussolini's references yesterday to Italy's ability to mobilize an army of 8,000,000 men, the Ethiopian chargé d'affaires in Rome, Negradas Yesus, called in foreign newspaper men today and directly challenged Il Duce's good faith in sending troops to Africa for "defensive" purposes.

Yesus said assurances that Ethiopia has no interest in attacking Italian Eritrea or Somaliland had been given by Emperor Haile Selassie to both King Victor Emmanuel and Mussolini.

Could Save Expense.

"I tell you as I told the Italian government," said the venerable Yesus, "that Italy in all tranquility could save herself the expense of sending these troops and guns because Ethiopia does not mean to attack Italian colonies. Ethiopia's intentions are so peaceful that Italy could retire all her soldiers and Ethiopia would not touch a single stone of her colonies."

Yesus said it is Ethiopia's idea that the treaty of arbitration and friendship existing between Italy and Ethiopia should provide the instrument for the settlement of difficulties between the two countries.

An Italian spokesman said Rome would give no attention to anything Yesus said here because, he explained, negotiations are going on at Addis Ababa.

"The border incidents about which every one knows tell a different story of Ethiopia's peaceful intentions," the spokesman declared. "Let Ethiopia prove its peaceful intentions by concrete acts in meeting our demands for reparations for attacks on our posts."

Arabians Enlisted.

Tribesmen from Yemen are crossing the Red sea from Arabia to join the Italian native army in Eritrea, it was reported by two sources tonight.

In Addis Ababa, capital of Ethiopia, it was declared Italy is recruiting troops in Yemen for service in her East African colonies. Italy is known to have been on friendly terms with the tribal leaders of Yemen.

The correspondent of the Milan Corriere Della Sera, largest paper in Italy, confirmed that hundreds from Yemen are crossing the Red sea for enlistment, adding that other tribesmen along the indian ocean are moving to Eritrea and Italian Somaliland to join the native battalions.

At the same time a check reveals that three ships have landed about 3,000 Italian troops and specialists at Massaua, Eritrea, and that eight more transports are en route from Naples. The total movement includes more than 15,000 troops. Other troops are ready for embarkation at Naples and all are being replaced at home by the mobilization of two new divisions.

Simon Explains Situation.

LONDON, Feb. 27.—That the closest touch is being kept by Great Britain with the Ethiopian situation in an effort to preserve peace was stated by Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, answering questions in the house of commons today.

Simon said that the agreement of 1906 between Italy, France, and Great Britain to preserve the political and territorial status quo in Ethiopia still is in force and that Britain had drawn Italy's attention to this fact. He added, however, that the whole trouble was that the frontier between Ethiopia and Italian Somaliland never was properly delimited.

Simon quickly turned down the suggestion of Geoffrey Mander, Liberal, that Britain take the lead in sending an international army to the scene of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute as she did for the Saar plebiscite. Simon declared there was no similarity between the two situations.

Announce New Air Line.

While the commons was talking about Africa the Imperial Airways announced a new line between Brindisi, Italy, and Khartoum will be put in operation soon under the Anglo-Italian civil aviation agreement. Such a line will give Italy quick touch with Eritrea and Somaliland. Passengers will not be carried.

The air line will go from Brindisi to Tobruk in Cyrenaica, another Italian colony, thence to Alexandria, Egypt, and Khartoum, joining there the Italian lines to Eritrea. Imperial Airways emphasized that the new line was to improve its connections to British Somaliland and India.

HUNDREDS JAILED AS CROATS RIOT IN JUGO-SLAVIA

MARIBOR, Jugo-Slavia, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Travelers from Zagreb reported today that several hundred persons had been arrested in consequence of disorders in Croatia during the last two weeks in which at least 16 have been killed.

Political uneasiness was said to be increasing because of Croat dissatisfaction with the government policy in connection with the forthcoming Jugo-Slav parliamentary elections on May 5.

The Croats charge Serbian police had not been permitting free assembly. One unverified report said Dr. Matchek, Croat leader, who recently was granted amnesty, had been rearrested for urging Belgrade to release political prisoners.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 27.—Bar life in Paris today touched what is believed to be an all time low.

Harry, proprietor of the famous New York bar, mecca of thirsty tourists, has announced installation of a circulating library for the benefit of serious minded customers.

A modest shelf of 40 volumes, mostly light fiction, has been set up so far, but some of Harry's customers look with foreboding to the day when the Rue Daunou emporium will be converted into a reading circle with banner draped walls covered with shelves of philosophical tomes.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must get at the cause—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the intestines, which he gave to his patients for years.

MISSPELLED NAME GIVES HALF EUROPE CHILLS AND FEVER

STRASBOURG, France, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A police error in the spelling of a name gave half of Europe chills and fever today when reports were circulated that Archduke Otto was en route to Vienna and Budapest by plane to reëstablish the Hapsburg throne.

It was only a mistake of a few letters, but it meant the difference between an ordinary tourist air voyage for Archduke Anton of Hapsburg and a dramatic air dash of the Archduke Otto, who is heir to the old Austro-Hungarian crown.

Anton left Le Bourget air field yesterday. He left Strasbourg for Vienna at 8:30 o'clock this morning. In transcribing the name from the airport register the police got it "Otto," and when the local agency sent it out with that name the news quickly sped to Balkan capitals. It shocked the little entente especially, where there is great opposition to a restoration of the throne in Austria.

'Anthony Adverse' Banned by the Irish Free State

DUBLIN, Feb. 27.—Harvey Allen's novel, "Anthony Adverse," which in two years sold over 500,000 copies in the English speaking world, was banned tonight by the Free State government.

Samuel Insull, former ruler of a public utilities empire, is looking for a job. This was revealed yesterday by his son, Samuel Jr.

"Father's ambition," the son said, "is a job with a minimum of notoriety. Now 75 years old, he wants to try something new. He is much interested in manufacturing.

"He has had several offers, but, of course, he cannot consider anything until his trials are cleared up. If father lands a job, in my opinion it will be in this country. He wants to put his talents to some executive position."

Acquitted of a federal mail fraud charge last November, the elder Insull still is faced with other court appearances. One is the accusation, in the Criminal court, that he was involved in the embezzlement of $66,000 from the Middle West Utilities company to help the brokerage account of his brother, Martin. Another is a federal charge that he violated the bankruptcy laws.

Paraguay Denies Charge It Plans to Use Poison Gas

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The defense ministry emphatically denied today reports from Bolivia that Paraguay had authorized the use of gas bombs and grenades in the Gran Chaco war. The statement said Paraguay's retirement from the league of nations does not mean the government intends to violate international war rules.

MUSEUM TO GET ANIMALS FROM CHINESE WILDS

Field museum officials learned yesterday that Floyd T. Smith, noted among naturalists as a "lone worker," has just sailed from Chungkung, Szechwan, China, with a boatload of Asiatic mammals and birds.

The collection, made during the last 12 months on an expedition into the mountain wilderness along the Tibet-Szechwan border, includes rare Asiatic pheasants, eagles, civets, blue sheep, monkeys, and wolves, many of which, according to a Chungkung dispatch, are for the Field museum.

"We have no idea what Mr. Smith may have found," said Stephen C. Simms, director of the museum, "but we are certainly glad to know he is on the way back. He is known as the 'lone worker' because he goes into the wilds with only two or three natives."

Although the museum did not finance the expedition, Smith was especially charged to bring back some "accessories" for the Chinese antelope group he bagged for the museum four years ago.

COURT MARTIAL CONVICTS BRITISH NAVAL OFFICER

PORTSMOUTH, England, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Capt. H. R. Sawbridge of the battleship Renown was stripped of his ace command today by a court martial, which found him guilty of hazarding his ship and the battleship Hood during recent maneuvers off Spain.

Nine naval officers composing the court martial were unanimous in their verdict that the veteran British officer failed to take effective action to prevent a collision of the great battle cruisers on Jan. 23.

Capt. Sawbridge was put on half pay by the verdict, which naval officers said was a rare one against captains in recent naval history. There is no appeal from the court martial, but the papers will be considered as a routine matter by the lords of the admiralty, who alone have the power to alter the decision.

The final court martial growing out of the collision will be held tomorrow. Yesterday Rear Admiral Sidney Robert Bailey, in command of the squadron, was acquitted. Tomorrow Capt. F. T. H. Tower of the Hood will be tried.

JAPAN CHARGES POWERS STIR UP STRIFE IN ASIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 27.—Eiji Amau, spokesman of the foreign office, today hurled strong charges against "some countries of the west." He charged them with seeking through machinations to disturb the peaceful horizon of east Asia and to bring estrangement between China and Japan just when relations between these countries are returning to normal.

He heatedly denied that Japan is seeking an alliance with China or had offered economic, military, or any other assistance to the Chinese at the recent conversations at Nanking and Tokio.

Calls Reports Baseless.

"Reports circulated throughout the world that Japan is persuading China to withdraw from the league of nations, to expel American and European advisers, and to participate in the formation of an Asiatic bloc as compensation for Japanese financial assistance are entirely absurd and baseless," Amau said. "Why should Japan impair the amicable intercourse between the two countries by making such forceful proposals?

"We hear proposals for mobilization of the signatories of the nine power pact to accuse Japan of violation of the treaty, or to raise the question of Manchukuo. Such arguments may have been willfully advanced in order to disturb the peaceful horizon of east Asia. We fail to understand the real motive behind such moves. Hearing the various criticisms of the present situation, we cannot but entertain suspicion of those critics who, while talking about the importance of peace in east Asia and friendly Japanese relations, in reality desire to disturb the tranquility of Asia and by machinations bring estrangement between China and Japan."

Amau said Japan is endeavoring to maintain and promote peace and nothing else and hoped that the world would understand its real intentions. Moreover, he said, Japan expects the world also to desire peace in east Asia and friendly Sino-Japanese relations.

Says China is "Relieved."

Pointing out that the time has not yet come for Japan to offer assistance to China, the spokesman said the way for this is being paved through improving the atmosphere. This was done, he said, through Foreign Minister Koki Hirota's diet speech a month ago, which "has relieved and contented China as assurance that Japan will not menace it or commit aggression." China in turn has assured Japan that the boycotts would be stopped, Amau said.

"The question now is to see whether both will live up to their pledges," Amau said. "If so, then concrete results will be obtained and we may talk about advancing loans and extending aid."

(The Chinese-Japanese problem was raised in the British house of commons Tuesday when the British government was asked about the possibility of calling a conference of the nine power treaty signatories. Anthony Eden, lord privy seal, replied for the foreign office: "Every suitable opportunity has been taken to demonstrate the good will of this country toward China and the interest felt here in its welfare. I have no reason for believing that this is not fully appreciated by the Chinese government and people.")

RIO, AL CAPONE'S GUARD, BURIED IN GANGLAND STYLE

Frank Rio, formerly Al Capone's bodyguard, who died of heart disease Saturday in his home, 1000 Bellforte avenue, Oak Park, was buried in typical gangland fashion yesterday morning. A priest conducted services in undertaking rooms at 624 North Western avenue, because the gangster's body was not permitted inside a church.

John Malaro, 26 years old, 6954 South California avenue, a cousin of Rio, and John D'Arco, 24 years old, 1116 Polk street, were arrested while returning from the funeral by Detectives Al Mulaney and William Hofmann of the Marquette station. After a chase of more than a mile through west side streets, the police caught the men at Polk and Paulina streets. The car, driven by Malaro, carried no license plate in front and a 1934 plate in back.

WITNESS NAMES BANK BANDIT AT MURDER TRIAL

Ottawa, Ill., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—The state scored heavily today in the prosecution of Arthur Thielen and Fred Gerner, members of the gang of Leonore bank bandits on trial for the murder of J. Charles Bundy, cashier of the Leonore bank, and Charles Seipp, Richland township supervisor.

A witness, George Yusco, 42, Leonard garageman, testified he saw Gerner fire at Bundy and Seipp. The two victims fell mortally wounded. Yusco had been forced to drive Gerner out of town and was present when Thielen was rescued by his bandit pals after he had been captured by Bundy and Seipp.

The witness also testified that Thielen was armed with a gun when the two Leonore men were killed. The defendants have denied the murder charge, Gerner asserting he did not fire a gun on the day of the slaying and Thielen claiming he was unarmed at the time.

"PRINCE" SNARED HER IN HOTEL, WOMAN REPEATS

New York, Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Harry Gerguson, who once had many people in many lands believing he was a member of the Russian royal family of Romanoff, was pictured in the Supreme court today as an ardent but sometimes forgetful lover.

That picture was drawn by Mrs. Wilma E. Gould, cross-examined in the trial of her suit to recover $500,000 damages from Norman J. Gould, her brother-in-law, and others. She accuses them of having conspired to "frame her" so her husband might obtain a divorce.

MRS. WILMA GOULD.

Others Accused in Suit.

The other defendants in the case are Gerard Luisi, an investigator; the Luisi Investigating Company, Inc., and Elwood W. Kemp Jr., an attorney. Mrs. Gould charges those defendants employed Gerguson, Prince Michael Romanoff to "frame her" in an apartment in East 35th street on Feb. 10, 1931, when her husband's agents sought divorce evidence. She has testified that she awoke in the apartment to find herself nearly disrobed just as several men opened the door, looked at her and fled.

Mrs. Gould charges the "prince" put dope in her coffee while they were at an uptown speakeasy.

The defendants admit hiring the so-called Prince Romanoff, but deny he drugged her.

Mrs. Gould, now 40, married Edward B. Gould in Chicago in 1921. She was cross questioned today by Leon Prince, counsel for Luisi. This was her third successive day on the stand.

She Tells of Courtship.

Mrs. Gould said she met "Romanoff" at the Chez Morgan on Jan. 28, 1931, having been introduced by a Mrs. Jane Cooper, subsequently identified as an employé of Luisi, and by one "Jerry Young," who proved to be Luisi himself. Two days later, she testified, "Romanoff" began an ardent courtship, proposing marriage.

On Jan. 30, Mrs. Gould said, "Romanoff" asked her to have tea with him in his apartment at the Hotel Savoy-Plaza, or go to dinner and the theater that evening. She declined both invitations, she said, but accepted a dinner invitation for the following night.

Mrs. Gould kept that engagement and another for Sunday. On Monday the "prince" wanted her to go to the theater and asked her to be ready at 7:30 p. m. She was ready but "Romanoff" failed to appear. A 8 o'clock he telephoned, saying he would be right over.

An hour later he telephoned again and said: "Come over to my apartment—I'm having a cocktail party." She went over and found "Romanoff" and two other men drinking cocktails.

Takes Her to Dinner.

Mrs. Gould refused a dinner invitation for the following night, but went to dinner with him Wednesday.

She refused a dinner invitation for Monday, but consented to see him on Tuesday evening. That turned out to be the night of the alleged "framing."

They had dinner in a speakeasy and then "Romanoff" drove to the Savoy-Plaza, which he entered to telephone.

"I waited in the cab," she said.

"Were you dizzy?" Attorney Prince asked.

"I was getting dizzier by the minute," she said. "The street lights grew dim and then they went out."

She went "out" at about the same moment, but not until she had caught a glimpse of the "prince" coming out of the hotel "flicking his cane toward 60th street."

The next thing she recalled, she said, was awakening in the apartment in East 35th street. She was nearly naked, she said. Then came the raid.

Music, Styles Fill Day for Society Folks

Enjoy Concert at Woman's Athletic Club.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MUSIC in the morning and spring fashions in the afternoon—isn't that a combination for a perfect day late in February? That is the way several ambitious souls who didn't mind icy pavements spent yesterday.

The music was heard at the Woman's Athletic club, where Andreina Materassi-Barton, pianist, and Herman Felber Jr., violinist, gave a delightful program. Mrs. Barton, slight and dark, is well known socially, for she is the wife of Malcolm S. Barton, but she is not an amateur musician, for she was a well known professional pianist before she was married about eight years ago. Her mother-in-law, Mrs. Enos M. Barton, had planned to come in from her home in Hubbard Woods for the musical, but illness prevented her doing so.

Mr. Felber, the youngest man ever admitted to the Chicago Symphony orchestra, later became a member of the Berkshire String quartet, which is sponsored by Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge. During the war he organized and conducted a symphony orchestra at the Great Lakes.

As a rule the ballroom at the club is filled to overflowing for the musicals and lectures with which the members are entertained each winter, but there were some empty seats yesterday, eloquently giving testimony to the number of vacationers at this time of year.

Artists Guests at Luncheon.

The artists had luncheon following the musical with Mrs. William S. Hay, whose other guests were Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, always one of the smartest women in any assemblage and looking very charming yesterday in simple black crêpe with a white lace collar and a black visor hat; Mrs. Thomas I. Underwood, Miss Theresa Rew, Miss Ada Rew, and Mrs. William J. Stenson.

Mrs. Hayden B. Harris, one of the first to congratulate Mrs. Barton and Mr. Felber, wore a new spring hat with a forward sweeping brim that was very chic. Her frock was a wool one of black and white stripes.

Among others who heard the music and later lunched at the club were Mrs. Eugene Cary Jr., Mrs. Richard Hackett, Mrs. William N. Pelouze, Mrs. Andrew B. MacCaughey, president of the club, and her daughter, Mrs. John J. Schreiner, who is giving a luncheon today for her cousin, Mrs. Paul C. Loeber Jr., the former Jeanette Schreiner; Mrs. John W. Walsh, Mrs. H. Newton Hudson, Mrs. Harry L. Street, Miss Lila Woodruff, Mrs. Claude Forrester, and Mrs. Ralph Greenlee.

Several who heard the musical rushed away without stopping for luncheon there so as to have a bite to eat and to see the fashion show that Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay III, had arranged at the Little Traveler in Geneva. Mrs. Lindsay, one of the Junior league's most able artists, never designed anything more enchanting than the decorations for the room in which the show was given. It was the very essence of spring with yellow painted chairs, black oilcloth covered tables and everywhere blooming flowers—daffodils, tulips, freesia, narcissus, mimosa, pansies—arranged so cleverly and artistically that they seemed to be growing on the trellises that outlined the green walls.

Include Styles for Children.

Mrs. Lindsay, Mrs. John L. Cochran, Miss Jane Rowe, Mrs. Cameron Forster, Mrs. Robert Fauntleroy, Mrs. Walter Wood, Miss Mary Burton, Miss Mary Richards and Miss Janet Castle were the models who displayed smart new clothes for women, and

TRAVELERS returned from island visits were discussing the housekeeping establishments of friends they had visited. An army officer's wife, back from a stay in the Philippines, contributed an incident that occurred during her stay there. One day she told her Filipino that the chaplain was coming to dinner that evening and to prepare a particularly good dinner. The boy was a good cook and she was gratified with his efforts as the dinner proceeded. Then the dessert was brought in. It was a huge cake, and the face of the Filipino was beaming with pride as he brought it in. It was a decorated cake, and across it was written, in pink icing, "Hurrah for Jesus."

SOME one else was reminded of a friend who lived in the West Indies who had a native servant whom he had trained carefully. He bought him the clothes he expected him to wear when he served dinner, and, as the boy had learned to play baseball and liked it, he also bought him a baseball outfit. He gave a dinner party shortly after the purchase of the clothes. Possibly due to the excitement the boy got mixed up. He served the dinner in his baseball clothes.

OCCASIONALLY in the mail there is a letter that because of its brilliance, or its honesty, or its humor we are tempted to print. Thus the one received a few days ago from John H. Beck, who assures me that he is a nobody and that he lays no claim to the faintest knowledge of those circles in which people do and say interesting things.

"Miss Harriet Allyn, also an Evanstonian and also a person with ambition, walks down this vale of oblivion with me," he writes. "We are accustomed to anonymity, but we do wish that by some hook or crook we could, even for a brief period, become a little bit famous. Both of us for years have created our own character sketches, our own dramas, after the style of Misses Draper and Skinner. It is fair to no one to compare our work with that of these illustrious ladies. . . . We are utterly weary of having people say we have promise. We are sick unto death of waiting for some one to discover us. Therefore we have decided to discover ourselves. The unveiling takes place at the Chicago Woman's club theater on the afternoon of Sunday, March 17. Yes, we are renting the hall ourselves. . . . This is an experiment for us, but if it turns out badly we can gracefully resume our present rôles of aspiring young people. . . ."

Well, Mr. Beck and Miss Allyn, here you are in blackface type anyhow. How's that for a start?

DARWINIST note: It was at the picture "Baboona." A man and woman and their small son watched with interest the warfare between the monkeys and the baboons for territory, and in particular a baby monkey that clung to its mother's back.

"See, Johnny," said the woman in a voice audible to all her neighbors, "that's the way papa used to ride you on his back when you were little."

Babe Ruth is as much a part of American culture as Ralph Waldo Emerson, and yet America, "culture mad," refuses to admit it, Alfred S. Dashiell, managing editor of Scribner's Magazine, declared yesterday before the Friends of American Writers at the Chicago Athletic association.

"Culture must be the national expression of the world in which we live," Mr. Dashiell told the 150 women attending the luncheon. "No culture can survive which shuts itself off. What we need is to close the gap between merely hazy idealism—with which the American mind is cluttered like an old attic—and everyday life."

Tracing the trends of magazine contents since 1825, Mr. Dashiell praised the west, and particularly Chicago, for the renaissance of literature brought about in 1914 by the "eruption with volcanic violence" of a number of small literary magazines. During that period, he said, Chicago was the literary capital of the world.

That period now is being revived, he said, but to promote the political rather than the artistic creed. He said that a propaganda movement, based on communism, is definitly on the way.

Miss Colbert, Gable Given Film Awards

"It Happened One Night" Is Vehicle for Both.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Claudette Colbert and Clark Gable were voted to have given the best screen performances in 1934 by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences at its seventh annual awards banquet here tonight.

The banquet was a colorful affair, attended by the flower of the film colony. More than 800 persons heard Irvin S. Cobb, the author and humorist and a recent recruit to screen ranks as a comedian, give praise to the winners as he presented the awards.

Like most Hollywood banquets, this one was late getting under way. It was to have begun at 8 p. m., but it was 9:30 before anybody began eating.

"It Happened One Night," produced by Columbia studios, was chosen the best motion picture of the year. Frank Lloyd was given the best direction award for his work in this same picture, and Robert Riskin was held to have made the best screen adaptation in preparing this story from an original by Samuel Hopkins Adams.

Short subjects: Novelty, "City of Wax;" comedy, "La Cucaracha;" cartoon, "The Tortoise and the Hare."

Scoring: "One Night of Love."

Katharine Hepburn and Charles Laughton won the player awards for the 1932-'33 period for their work, respectively, in "Morning Glory" and "The Private Life of Henry VIII." In the preceding season the winners were Helen Hayes, in "The Sin of Madelon Claudet," and Fredric March, in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

Reaching back to other years, the winners have been, in order, Marie Dressler and Lionel Barrymore, Norma Shearer and George Arliss, Mary Pickford and Warner Baxter, and Janet Gaynor and Emil Jannings.

Miss Gaynor, first to receive the award, probably did her greatest work in three pictures of that period, "Seventh Heaven," "Street Angel," and "Sunrise," among the first talkies. Jannings' pictures, "Way of All Flesh" and "The Last Command," were silents. The talkies brought an end to his film career.

"Down to Pawning," Mother Gets $1,000 Prize on First Novel

New York, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A new York mother who was "down to the pawning stage" and a Texan who rode freight trains throughout the country before settling in New Orleans have been awarded $1,000 prizes for their first novels.

The awards, which are in addition to royalties, were announced as the outcome of the Doubleday Doran-Story magazine contest.

Mrs. H. M. Hamilton, who wrote as Dorothy McCleary, and Edward Anderson, 28, were the winners. The judges held Miss McCleary's "Not for Heaven," a story of a sentimental old woman's affection for a 22 year old horse, and Anderson's "Hungry Men," based on his experiences as a hobo, to be of equal merit.

Mrs. Hamilton said her first act would be to buy some shoes for her 8 year old son Charles.

These little silken sachet tassels, just arrived on the market, can lay claim to beauty and to merit. The fine fragrance lasts amazingly.

The most exciting beauty news of the day is the arrival of some aristocratic sachet tassels, all beautiful and all in the same enchanting fragrance. They're miniatures of the huge silken tassel that appeared shortly before Christmas and that so many women were delighted to find under the tree.

The original tassel would send forth its fine fragrance to an entire clothes closet or even perfume a room. It was much too important an actor to serve a minor rôle as a tuck-in for a dresser drawer. But women began clamoring for the same sachets in smaller form that they could toss into bags or hangers or dressers and the makers set promptly to work. Today the first tassel, the big shot, has a supporting cast of three smaller ones. They've just come to the shops and any woman who could resist them is made of pretty stern stuff.

The trio you see pictured above is something to rave about. In the range of colors, in shape, and in scent these are exactly like the large one except that they're smaller. The fragrance itself is beautiful, with an aura of opulence that is impressive. It's faintly exotic, but not the least bit oppressive or vulgar.

And the little tassels are so lovely they'll make your fingers itch. The essence is packed into the round ball at the top from which the silk fringe suspends. The colors are all of them women's pets—yellow, orchid, blue, pink, green, and a white that immediately suggests itself as perfect for the bridal shower gift.

The makers of these sachets say unhesitantly that the scent will last for a year; they've never been challenged on that and they feel claiming a life of two years wouldn't be fibbing at all.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—James Cagney has left those rôles of the cocky young man entering the service because he gets a look at a good looking girl and is now playing a "G" man—government undercover operative—in "The Farrell Case" at Warner's. There's a live cast in this adventure drama, including Ann Dvorak, Margaret Lindsay, Bob Armstrong, Barton MacLane, William Harrigan, and Lloyd Nolan in his first part since coming from Broadway. Carter Gibson, George Brent's standin, does a bit, his first work before the camera, although he has been Brent's stand-in for three years.

"A Midsummer Night's Dream" at Warner's is exceeding the cost schedule and will go well over a million dollars.

Nick Foran, the red headed big boy of the Fox lot, has bought a 36 foot ketch at San Pedro, assigning the unusual reason for his purchase that "I wanted to show my father I could save some money, so I saved enough to buy a boat and have the boat to show for it."

One piece of acting on which Florence Eldridge prides herself was accomplished earlier this week with none except her husband, Fredric March, for audience. March is now playing the difficult rôle of Jean Valjean in "Les Miserables" for Twentieth Century, and Miss Eldridge, taken to a local hospital for a sinus operation, feared to worry him. So she told him she would be under observation for three or four days. On the second day she arranged to have the operation performed. March didn't learn anything about it until he made his usual evening visit to see his wife and found everything had gone off perfectly.

Bill Powell won't work more than eight hours a day, no matter what rôle he plays, in what film, or for what studio. "If I try to work before the camera longer than that I can't do myself justice or my employers or the public, which pays the money to see a competent piece of acting. So when eight hours are over I go home."

Most people think a sandwich is a couple slices of bread with meat, cheese, or something similar between the covers. But when Katharine Hepburn makes sandwiches they are made of cheese between some other edible, but usually not between cheese. Her favorite is slices of apple with cheese filling, but she may use carrots or even cucumbers for the "bread."

Estell Berne Sings

Estell Berne's program at Kimball hall last night was an excellent example of how to assemble a list of agreeable music for the use of a coloratura soprano. One number was a fine old aria from Handel's opera, "Agrippina;" another was one of the best of German songs, Wolf's "Auf den Gruenen Balcon;" there was opportunity for lavish vocal display in "Una voce poco fa" from "The Barber of Seville" and the Mad scene from "Lucia di Lammermoor," and more display of a different kind in Richard Hageman's "Me Company Along."

All this would have been a test of resourcefulness for any singer, and Miss Berne met it ably. Her voice is smooth, flexible, and of wide range. She sings well now and she will without doubt sing better in a few seasons from now, a statement which is in no sense intended to decry the solid ability that she has already acquired.

Leone Kruse, soprano, who has sung in the opera companies of both Vienna and Chicago, and Richard Kesner, violinist, will appear in joint recital at the Belmont hotel tonight. E. M.

Stylish Fabrics Are a Welcome Sign of Spring

Counters Are Filled with New Materials.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Authentic signs of new spring clothes are discovered first in the fabric sections; clever women who make their own can start any day now. They can have the first models underway in less time than it takes to describe the glowing beauties of new silks, cottons and linens and the thousands of new patterns in rayon or other fancy weaves.

Coatings, the successful new stuff that will fashion the most important starter of a spring wardrobe, literally can be seen for blocks. Country woolens especially shriek with wild and gorgeous color combines and contrasts. Huge splashing checks and plaids are used with vivid woolen dresses, the bigger and bolder the plaids the smarter the coat.

Town woolens are soft and tricky as to weaves or textures. The emphasis is on the bubble lightweight. Even when they look crinkled and rough they will delight your feeling fingers with their spongy featherweight. Wool no longer comes in stiff, unmanageable fabrics; 1935 fabrics are as supple as silks and satins.

Suitings are surprise stuff this spring. And again they are as light as a whisper. There are interesting, fuzzy and not so fuzzy textures, and there is a lot of masculine swank to the patterns to be used for tailored suits. Flannel in every imaginable shade and color is extremely popular. The pencil striped gray stuff is going fast for the expertly tailored suits cut like the expertly tailored outfits worn by your brothers.

Sheer wool daytime dresses in clever one or two piece models are knockout worn over rustling taffeta slips, or worn under a short snappy jacket or capelike wise lined and trimmed with taffeta.

Wool crêpes are still crinkled or ribbed, but there are some new weaves of sheer wool that have been copied from heavy silk textures. And the matelassés are bubbling in bigger and rougher weaves than ever before.

All the new spring stuff is unpacked and ready to be made into exciting spring street and daytime clothes.

Thomas Hardy's Lost Novel Is Published by University Press

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 27. — (AP) — Thomas Hardy's "lost novel," titled "An Indiscretion in the Life of an Heiress," was published today by the Johns Hopkins university press.

The fate of this novel, long a literary mystery, was related in an introduction by the editor, Carl J. Weber, professor of English literature at Colby college.

Weber asserted that the novel, which was Hardy's first, was written in 1867-'68 and published in 1878 in the new quarterly magazine, but never was included in any list of his writings.

The novel was believed lost for many years.

SYNOPSIS.

Sarah MacNeil, young American living in London, accepts the hazardous though thrilling post as traveling companion to Miss Christine Venables, prim, kindly and wealthy, who has been receiving letters that cannot be traced, threatening her life. Miss Venables spends most of the year at Ste. Brigitte, a small resort in southern France. Her nephew, Harry, is to join her there soon. With Miss Venables in London is her widowed sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary Venables, Harry's stepmother. She is in poor health and Miss Venables has Dr. Gilcrest, her Ste. Brigitte physician who is visiting in London, prescribe for her. Dr. Gilcrest treats Sarah with cool aloofness, though she and Harry immediately become friends. That night Mrs. Venables dies. Her death is attributed to natural causes. On the way to Ste. Brigitte Miss Venables tells Sarah that the death threats began after her friend, Maj. Frampton, was killed in a fall down an elevator shaft. She believes he was murdered. She and the major were both threatened by two oriental drug sellers they had had prosecuted. Miss Venables' particular friends in Ste. Brigitte, besides Dr. Gilcrest, are the Baron and Baronne Henri de Bellesnaves, Beryl Tomlins, town librarian and harmless gossip, and a few old residents of the resort hotel. Sarah gathers that Dr. Gilcrest is in love with the baroness. Harry arrives and attends a dinner party at the De Bellesnaves with his aunt and Sarah. Their evil looking gardener arouses Sarah's suspicions. Sarah walks back to the hotel with Dr. Gilcrest.

INSTALMENT XVI.

AN APE IMITATOR.

An overhanging branch stung Sarah's face. She stopped, put up her hand to her bare head, and cried with laughing irritation, "Damn! My cursed hair's caught on a twig."

"Absalom," Gilcrest remarked briefly. "Wait, I'll untangle you."

She was forced to submit while he set about the task as methodically as the dense darkness would allow. Patiently he loosed strand after strand of her curling locks. His fingers touched her forehead, and she was more than ever annoyed that she did not find this unpleasant. She was just thinking how differently many men would have behaved in a like situation, when a heavy step passed them and the oily voice she recognized as the gardener's muttered an oddly-impudent good night. She wrenched free the final shred of her hair, and straining her eyes after the slouching form asked the question which had been in her mind for the past half hour.

"That servant—he's not French. I know. What is he?"

"Greek, or supposed to be. His name's Demosthenes."

"Greek! He looks Turkish to me. Do you happen to know if Miss Venables has ever seen him?"

"Of course she has—scores of times. What's your idea? Oh—I see!" His tone, faintly contemptuous, roused her ire.

"I don't like his manner," she said bluntly. "O, I know I've been inclined to agree with you about this dope peddler business, but when this so-called Greek came into the library just now something made me think—that is I suddenly began to wonder—"

"See here, Miss MacNeil," he interrupted with ill-concealed impatience, "I do sincerely hope you're not going to introduce any new alarm into that poor woman's head. The worst possible course is to play up to these fears of hers. What we want to do is to ignore them."

"You really suppose I'd speak to her on the subject?" demanded Sarah incredulously. "Why, what do you take me for? I'm not that kind of an idiot!"

He was silent for a moment, obviously still brooding on some preconception of his own.

"The whole point is this," he explained, presently. "And I give it to you because it's possible you don't understand certain difficulties of her case. It appears that each time she gets a nervous shock of any kind she has a relapse of her gastric trouble. I'm trying to cure her, you see, and I can't over-estimate the importance of keeping her calm."

"I do understand, perfectly," Sarah retorted with some coldness. "I repeat, I'm not altogether a fool. I'm doing my utmost to minimize her danger and keep her in a cheerful frame of mind. At the same time," she hazarded, "what was the truth about Major Frampton? It's quite evident he was frightened over something. He had been here to dine, hadn't he?"

"I can see you've been theorizing," he said. "Well, I can't stop you, but I can tell you this much: The old dodderer whose word helped to start the murder story had a cataract forming on both eyes. And Frampton, who was a decent soul, did drink rather heavily. It's quite on the cards he was fuddled that evening, which would account not only for getting a garbled idea of something innocent but for the accident as well."

"You may be right," she conceded. "And as I said before I don't wholly subscribe to Miss Venables' belief; but just supposing it wasn't an accident, surely one is permitted to speculate as to what's behind those letters she keeps receiving? How many people for instance, knew that Miss Venables was staying at the Metropolitan Hotel in London? Yet a communication reached her there, posted in the district, at just about the time you left to catch your train."

She hardly knew what devil prompted her to bring in this coincidence. Having shot her bolt, she waited rather breathlessly to note the result. Apparently there was none.

"So I have heard," he answered indifferently. "But I don't know that I would make too much capital out of that occurrence. If I were you, I'd let the matter drop, and concentrate on the tactics we've been discussing."

He abruptly closed the topic, and as they were now within sight of the sea and earshot of their companions she did not re-open it.

They skirted a sandy knoll on which stood an aged boathouse sheltered beneath straggling pines. Under the little structure, on the sea side, lay a dinghy side by side with a shabby motorboat, and some thirty yards from the shore a small yacht with furled sails was anchored. At the far end of a narrow landing stage Harry and Miss Venables were standing. The latter's lace scarf fluttered in the breeze and her front hair, usually so tidy, had been whipped from its encasing net. Sarah's own curls, after the bough episode, were a wreck. As she shook back the disordered mass from her face the vision of the Baroness' smooth, glistening coiffure rose before her, and in total absent-mindedness she uttered aloud her thought.

"She really is lovely. Quite wonderful, I think."

"Who?" Gilcrest came out of his own reverie to ask in surprise.

"Who? O, I was thinking of Mme. de Bellesnaves. I didn't realize I hadn't mentioned her name. She's one of the most beautiful women I've ever seen."

"O." He drew in his breath and paused imperceptibly. "Bimi . . . Yes,"—with slow detachment—"I suppose she is."

His response grated on her. She felt he was adopting this pose on purpose to hide from her his real enthusiasm, again crediting her with little perspicacity.

"There can't be much question about it, can there?" She said this dryly, and then, with a puzzled look at him, inquired, "But what was the name you called her? Did you say Bimi?"

"Her nickname. I imagined you knew it." He paused again, presently adding, "Bertram's Bimi, you know. A story by Kipling."

Sarah stared. "I know the story you mean, but it's a horrid idea! Bertram's Bimi was an ape, surely? An ape that got jealous of a man's wife, and—"

"Exactly. One day you'll see her do a very clever imitation of a monkey. It's a stunt of hers. Then you'll understand better how she got the name."

Sarah was already beginning to understand. Yes, it was that quaint grimace, in a flash transforming the madonna-like beauty into something infantine and elfish—that and the restless fingering of things, quick hands seldom still—monkeying hands . . .

"Yes, I see, but all the same I don't like it, nor should I think she would. Why, I couldn't sleep after I read that destestable tale! I hate to think of it even now."

"I can see you've a sensitive imagination. Don't let it run away with you—for various reasons."

Treading cautiously, Miss Venables returned in the shelter of her nephew's arm.

"O, there you are! We wondered what had become of you. Now, doctor, you and I will stroll along together and let these young people do the racing. They can wait for us at your house."

Harry took Sarah's arm and soon the other couple were left far behind. Like two children they sped along the rough beach and into the path beside the high fence of the Casa Giallo estate, chattering nonsense and laughing at every trifle.

Best Discuss Facts Frankly.

"Dear Miss Blake: I would like to marry a certain girl, but she is a little to a more refined type of home than I can give her. I don't want to lower her social standing. How can we settle this? PERTURBED."

Punctuality Commendable Trait.

"Dear Miss Blake: Whenever a fellow promises to take me out he never comes on time. He telephones about once a week. Please advise. "BOOTS."

You might suggest that punctuality is a commendable trait and one you admire, and see if it won't have the desired effect.

Richey-Mudge Nuptials Today.

At 5:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Tower room of the Drake hotel Miss Virjean Richey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene W. Richey of East Delaware place, will become the bride of Burton F. Mudge Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Burton F. Mudge. The Rev. Duncan H. Browne will read the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families and their most intimate friends and an equally small reception will follow.

The bride will be attended by Mrs. Samuel Carson Pirie Jr. of Highland Park and Mrs. Joseph Gilbert of Kansas City. Dozier Gardner, the bridegroom's roommate at Princeton, has come with Mrs. Gardner from St. Louis to attend Mr. Mudge as best man. Ushering will be William F. Juergens, Charles F. Bowey, Walter Ross Jr., John Bick, James Royer, and James Cook.

Mr. Mudge and his bride will go away on a brief wedding trip and upon their return will be at home in the Marshall Field Garden apartments.

Dinner Tomorrow for Dr. Lewis Perry.

About eighty former students, prospective students, and their fathers will gather for dinner tomorrow night at the University club to honor Dr. Lewis Perry, headmaster of the Phillips Exeter school. Dr. Perry, accompanied by Director of Admissions Ezra Rounds and Prof. James A. Tufts, who was graduated from Exeter in '74 and still is teaching there, will spend two nights in Chicago at the University club.

Alfred Brittain Jr., president of the Western Association of the Alumni of the Phillips Exeter academy, has been aided by Edwin M. Ashcraft III., and Sidney S. Gorham Jr., both vice presidents, and Donald B. Lourie in arranging the dinner for Dr. Perry. George Jaeger Jr. is another vice president of the association and Richard H. Clinton Jr. is the secretary-treasurer.

Among those who will attend this 42d annual dinner of the Exeter club are Howard Peabody, class of '16, and his son, Howard Jr., who will enter the preparatory school next year, and Ralph Sargent and his son, Frederick, who also will enter Exeter next year, following in his father's footsteps. Evan Speer, who will be the third of W. W. Speer's sons to attend the school, also will attend the dinner. Others who have made reservations include Jay N. Whipple, Victor Harding, who was in the class of '86, James F. Oates Jr., and David T. Sanders.

Casino Club Holds Dinner-Dance Tonight.

The first dinner-dance that the Casino, as a club, has had in some time will be given tonight. The party is one of a series of Thursday night affairs planned by Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr. and Miss Peggy Hambleton.

Miss Gloria Griffiths and her mother, Mrs. Moisant Griffiths, entertained at cocktails yesterday afternoon for Gene Raymond, who is appearing on the stage and on the screen in Chicago just now. Mr. Raymond has visited in Chicago before and has many friends here. He and his mother are stopping at the Drake.

There will be plenty of melody in the library of the Alliance Française this afternoon at the weekly causerie, for Pierre Le Grand will give one of his charming programs of French folk songs, lullabies, and children's verses. M. Le Grand explains the songs and sings them, with his audience invited to join in the simple refrains.

Mrs. Frank B. Mulford is the hostess today, assisted by Mrs. George Cragg, Mrs. Spenser Brown, and Miss Anita Blair. Mrs. Walter R. Kirk and Mrs. Ernest Walker will pour tea following the program.

New Infant Welfare Group Plans Party.

The Junior auxiliary of the North Side Infant Welfare society is summoning all its strength for a concentrated ticket selling campaign for its first benefit—a bridge tea to be given next Wednesday at 1430 Lake Shore drive, in an empty apartment. Mrs. Joseph E. Nolan, Mrs. Charles Y. Freeman, Mrs. Charles S. Connell, Mrs. Denis E. Sullivan Jr., Miss Jean Hyman, president; Miss Marion and Miss Isobel Gordon and Miss Barbara Eldridge are the energetic salesgirls.

Two members of this small group, which was organized a year ago, are away. Miss Lydia Swift is with her parents, the Alden Swifts, and sister, Narcissa, in Arizona, and Miss Virginia Ashcraft is with her parents, the junior Edwin M. Ashcrafts, on a West Indies cruise. Miss Martha Lee, another member, and her mother, Mrs. T. George Lee, are planning a trip for the end of next month.

After the bridge game next Wednesday the guests will be invited to the Robert W. Hymans' apartment in the same building for tea.

Mrs. Nolan's sister, Miss Barbara Fortune, one of the most popular debutantes of the last season, has been in Florida for several weeks visiting friends. Mrs. John L. Fortune, her mother, joined her in Palm Beach yesterday where they will spend a fortnight before returning to Chicago.

Dr. and Mrs. Casey Wood, formerly of Chicago and Pasadena, with their niece, Miss Marjorie Fyfe, are on their way to Egypt for the spring months. They will return to Rome for the remainder of 1935, where Dr. Wood is pursuing research work in the Vatican library.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

CONCLUDING ARTICLE ON THE STRATEGIC DOUBLE.

I like the flexibility conferred by doubling with hands which would under other methods require a forcing overcall. Sir Derrick Wernher, who assists me with all my writing and plays with me frequently, had this hand last week:

Sp. A — Di. K J 9 8 6
His None — Cl. A K Q J x x x

Some Splendid Far-Sighted Strategic Reasoning.

Wernher doubled; he realized that the opponents might well have game in hearts or spades against him. Though willing to go to five clubs he did not want to have to go to six merely to defend against five hearts or spades. If he bid three clubs (see remarks at end of this article) his partner might well bid three no-trumps, a bid he would be unwilling to disturb. The diamond bidder would now never open that suit away from A Q; he would either knock out the ace of spades or clear the hearts, and now it is probable that the declarer would never take a diamond trick; this would hold him to only two odd in no-trumps; seven club tricks and a spade. On the other hand there was positiyely no risk that his partner would leave in the double of one diamond; most likely he would bid a major suit, and the weaker his hand the more likely that this would be a suit in which the opponents could go game. If he could make his partner bid a kind of obligatory psychic, that might be the only way to get the contract at five clubs. Again, it seemed certain that the opener's partner had an utter misfit for diamonds and must be long (if not strong) in both majors. Therefore he would pass the double, preparing to double for business on a later round either major suit and hoping the opener could double clubs. Thus it looked as if a double would be a sweet strategic move to make the partner erect a barricade without knowing it.

It Worked Out Just This Way.

The four hands were:

NORTH.
S—A
H—None
D—K J 9 8 6
C—A K Q J x x x

S—K J 10 x
H—A J x x
D—A Q x x
C—10

EAST.
S—x x x x x
H—K Q x x x
D—None
C—x x x

SOUTH.
S—Q x x
H—10 9 x x
D—10 x x x
C—x x

East passed the double, licking his chops. South dutifully bid a heart, which West passed, feeling sure there would be further bidding. North now considered that since West had been silenced at the critical moment he must now shut East out. He bid five clubs and felt aggrieved because they let him play it undoubled. As it was, he was lucky to be able to make it, for the dummy supplied the key card in the ten of diamonds. He was thus able to spread the hand after drawing trumps, conceding two diamond tricks.

Jump Overcalls in This Position.

As I play it now, the jump overcall does not exist in my system as a regular bid or as a forcing bid immediately over an opening bid. As explained, I prefer to double first and make it obligatory for my partner to respond, and then to force on the next round when I have that type of hand. If I do make a jump overcall, it is an abnormal bid, a kind of preëmptive psychic intended purely as a barricade because I think they have game or slam against us, and requesting no action from my partner. However, I must also tell you that Wernher and some other close followers of mine do not quite agree with me on this one point. When not playing as my partner they feel that one should substitute a forcing overcall for a double when the doubler's hand is so freakishly aggressive in type—a tremendous one suiter or a 6-5 two suiter—that it is very likely that the partner will leave the double in if permitted to do so, and that a two trick doubled penalty will be a poor result on the hand. By using the forcing overcall for this purpose they leave the partner free to leave the double in with six trumps or five to two good honors. Indeed, the discussion of the above hand shows that I was not Wernher's partner in the session, as with me as his partner there would be no alternative to the double. There is something to be said for the other treatment; but at this writing I prefer and use the obligatory take-out as discussed at such length in the preceding articles.

A NURSE TAUGHT HER HOW

One has confidence in nurses, and more than one woman has originally been introduced to Midol through a nurse's recommendation. "It is such a real comfort, I have no more dread of periodic pain—and I used to have a bad time," is what one woman says of Midol tablets. They always bring relief from regular pain, make it easier to "be yourself."

Why not have this comfort from Midol? It acts fast, is effective for several hours, but it's not a narcotic. It is a special medicine, for this special purpose, and specialists can tell you how well it works! You'll see it on the druggist's counter. Or just ask the clerk for Midol.

BY MARY MEADE.

A year or so ago women seemed to be quite inflamed by the idea of cooking anything and everything on the waffle iron. Does it seem to you that the interesting furor has quieted a bit? If it has, let's do a little agitating and stage a grand revival, for there's something decidedly entertaining about baking something besides plain ordinary waffles into those fascinating crisp patterns.

Remember those baking powder biscuit waffles we used to turn out with such satisfaction? Well, why not begin with those for dinner some night soon? Then, instead of making them serve as ordinary hot bread, or as a nice crunchy base for creamed meat or chicken, shut your eyes and pretend it's shortcake season, with oranges pinch hitting for strawberries. Between two biscuit waffle layers, and arranged in artistic formation on top, place the segments of six oranges which have been rolled in confectioner's sugar. To add to the general goodness, and to soften the affair into a more easily edible state, top it with a sauce made from the juice of 2 oranges and ¾ cup of confectioner's sugar.

Then, as the next plank in the revival platform, you might go in for sweet potato waffles, with grilled Canadian bacon, and serve them at either breakfast, luncheon, or Sunday night supper. To refresh your memory, they're made this way.

SWEET POTATO WAFFLES.

To your regular waffle batter, add one cup of cooked, sieved sweet potato for every two cups of flour in the recipe. This goes in after the batter is mixed, along with a half teaspoon of nutmeg and ½ teaspoon of vanilla extract. Beat until smooth and bake on a hot waffle iron.

Also remember your little tricks with adding ground ham to waffle batter, and those which entailed baking chocolate brownies on the iron. The latter are rather susceptible to scorching, however, so keep in mind your old technique of baking them on a slightly cooler iron. Or bake your gingerbread in waffle style and put two sections together with whipped cream and sliced bananas for a trig little dessert.

Grated cheese is a ready joiner in the cause. Here we'd suggest adding a cup of grated cheese to our standard two cups of flour recipe. Served just as they are, piping hot with plenty of butter, we've seen first hand proof that they can provide the necessary distinction to an otherwise lackluster luncheon.

Another simple transformation is the addition of a half cup of crushed pineapple to the same original recipe. Incidentally, although we don't want to endanger the waffle cause, the same trick is equally productive of results in griddle cakes. Or, in either case, substitute 2 thinly sliced bananas for the pineapple.

To get away from what appeared to be an endless chain of substitutions of this for that, we want to tuck in a favorite recipe for whole wheat waffles. They're not startlingly different, true. But they are—well, please try them and you'll know why the space had to be saved for

1 cup whole wheat flour
1 cup white flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 tablespoon sugar
1½ cups sour milk
2 eggs
4 tablespoons melted fat

Mix and sift the dry ingredients. Add the milk and beaten egg yolks, beat well, and stir in the melted fat. After a little more vigorous stirring, fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and bake on a hot waffle iron.

Don't Stint on Praise When Training Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"Give credit where credit is due."

Do you?

Somehow or other, we don't always. At least we don't go out of our way to do so. And as grownups we don't go around looking for credit being given to us whenever it is due. We've come to accept the fact that what's all right is expected or taken for granted and goes unmentioned, but that what's not as it should be, or what offends some one in business or family we'll hear of, in various degrees of pleasantness.

That's all right for mature people. But is shouldn't be a practice of parents or teachers or any of those who deal with children. They need so much correction, so much guidance, they're so constantly stepping on the toes of convention, or so constantly colliding with the convenience and wishes of adults that we have to—or in any event we do comment, direct, and criticize a great deal. Even if, being conscious of our boy's or girl's point of view, we try to cut all that down to a minimum, we still do a lot of it. For that reason we should give credit, whenever we can, where credit is due.

If you must reprove for "lackadaisy" about homework, then praise when an effort is made to be industrious. If you must criticize the way a bedroom is kept, then notice it when order prevails. If a whole list of marketing is inaccurately done, and a meal is thrown out by it, then say what a great help it is when your son or daughter handles the shopping competently. If your in-between has been "on the mat" for manners, then let him see that you're proud of improvement when there is any. And remember that when you can't praise the result, you can praise the effort.

We have to remember that from babyhood our approval has been a real force in our child's life. It helps him to know he's on the right track—it takes the place of the knowledge of right and wrong in his early life. Many of the things we expect of him he has little interest in and no conviction about. He needs approval and encouragement in order to carry on with a good spirit.

We must remember, where our children are concerned, to give credit where credit is due.

Paris Campaign for Stiff Shirt Has Echo Here

BY MARCIA WINN.

News from Paris that Frenchmen were to be rewarded for appearing in formal attire caused diverse comments yesterday by Chicago men well known in social circles.

Walter R. Kirk, society's arbiter on all matters of sartorial correctness, indicated delight, but "not for quotation." Mr. Kirk is known as the only man in Chicago who invariably wears white kid gloves through an entire opera.

But there were emphatic demurrers among habitual nondressers such as Alfred P. Shaw, architect, who flaunts convention by wearing a gray tweed jacket on as many gala occasions as possible.

There was dissension within the portals of a bachelor apartment at 31 East Elm street, where for many months the question of whether to dress or not to dress, has been one that rankled.

Participants in the fracas are four. All are young, all are bachelors, all are much in demand. Three are architects. The fourth is with an electrical concern.

Walter Frazier is sleek, dark, and immaculately dressed. He is celebrated for the frequent appearances with a white tie. Both he and Edward Platt Jr., who is dark and slender, are known as dressers.

But Shepard Vogelgesang, architect who was in charge of the color effects at the 1934 World's Fair, is neither sleek nor dark. He is large, and lumbering, and sandy-haired. And Howard Raftery, although both dark and slender, is tall, tweedish, and casual and an habitué of the black string tie. Both, admittedly, are "non-dressers."

"The Parisian idea is the right idea," Frazier said approvingly. "Bringing back the old gala atmosphere. That's what we need—and this touch of formality is what will do it."

"I don't dress when I cook my own dinner," Vogelgesang spoke up truculently. "I don't like to dress at all. It's uncomfortable."

"But it's so much more enjoyable," protested Platt. "You owe it to your hostess to make the occasion a little more gala. And," he added, "Vogelgesang dresses when he has to."

From other quarters lone partisans of one side or another spoke up their approval or disapproval of the custom.

Said Ambrose C. Cramer, small, dapper, and sandy mustached, who with Mrs. Cramer, the former Mary Meeker, is celebrated for the correctness of his dinners—"I dress most of the time. Should every one? Surely."

And William C. Boyden, lawyer with a penchant for dramatic criticism, summed it all up by speaking a word for both sides:

"I don't like to dress. I don't unless I have to. I do so under protests—violent protests—but," he added, "I think it's swell for others to dress. I like to look at them."

Late Afternoon Pick Me Up a Beauty Aid

All Women at Home or in Business Need It.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

They've been featuring the late afternoon pick-me-up treatments in some of the beauty salons. The business girl who finds herself with an interesting date on for dinner and theater can rush in for one of these late afternoon treatments. She gets the tag ends of her hair turned up, gets a light massage with a nice fresh tone to her skin. Makeup is applied to give even a bit more courage for the evening.

Though the young woman may not have had time to run home and change her frock, she is, at least, quite neatly groomed for the evening and feels like stepping out for a good time. The truth is, her frock generally is charming enough to step from office to restaurant and theater unless the affair takes on a formal aspect.

So much is being done for the business woman, although other women are not excluded at all from the late afternoon pick-me-up. But here's an idea that might well be adopted by women at home, who may have no bigger date than entertaining dad at dinner and perhaps taking in the movie around the corner. And a big enough date, say I, for which to look pretty and feel more chipper. And we don't mean because of the movie, either.

If the permanent boy friend is going to stay in for the evening, and mom right along with him, she's still playing her best card by giving him something for which to be thankful over the dinner table besides the fried chicken and apple pie. We mean letting him be thankful he has a girl who still cares enough for him to doll up for him, thankful he has as snappy a looking girl after ten, fourteen, twenty years of marriage as the day he first found her.

Then, there's another reason for the home woman perking up around dinner time. And I mean perkin'. Not just washing up. It gives the lady herself a grand lift. She's not the same girl she was with the apron tied around her.

STRIKE REVOLT SPREADS AGAINST MENDIETA IN CUBA

Another Cabinet Member Resigns.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Feb. 27.—Manuel Despaigne, the only member of the cabinet of President Carlos Mendieta who was in office last week, resigned as secretary of the treasury today, completing the rout of the ministry brought about by the island-wide school strike. Twelve assistant cabinet secretaries also deserted the administration.

The series of cabinet resignations began last week as a result of differences with Mendieta over the wisest method of dealing with the strike of several hundred thousand students and teachers which has developed into a national movement to oust the Mendieta régime.

Threaten General Strike.

Leaders of many communist-led labor organizations, who have joined in supporting the school strike, asserted they are ready to throw their combined strength behind a revolutionary general strike.

Fifteen thousand cigarmakers went on strike today and more than 20,000 other workers in the industrial and transportation fields voted to walk out tomorrow, tying up motor, freight, and other trafic.

The situation appears to be becoming more tense hourly. Armed forces are held in readiness to quell major disorders, but their loyalty to Mendieta is doubted in some quarters.

Batista Reported Changing.

Friends of Col. Fulgencio Batista, chief of staf of the army, said tonight he was considering throwing his support to Dr. Carlos Manuel de la Cruz for president if it became necessary for Mendieta to retire. Cruz is an advocate of strongarm policies enforced by the military to save the republic from anarchy.

Leaders of the anti-Mendieta movement, however, indicated that Batista's choice would not be acceptable to them. They professed to see a strategic move by Batista to launch military dictatorship.

Terrorists continued active. Railroad tracks of the Hershey mill were bombed in three different places and sixteen cars of cane were derailed. Railroad property belonging jointly to the Cuban Central and British Consolidated railways was also bombed.

About thirty bombs rocked Havana between 2 and 6 o'clock this morning, inflicting considerable property damage. Authorities said no one was hurt.

REKINDLE FLAME AT TOMB IN PARIS; LAUD CHICAGOAN

PARIS, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The flame at the tomb of the unknown soldier was rekindled today, the 20th anniversary of the death of Edward Mandell Stone, first American citizen to fall in the world war.

J. J. Bach of St. Louis, Mo., rekindled the flame in the presence of twenty members of the "Trench and Air Association of American Volunteer Combatants in the French Army" and Gen. Mariaux, governor of the invalides.

Stone, who was born in Chicago in 1888, lived in New Bedford, Mass., prior to his enlistment. He had served in the United States diplomatic corps after his graduation from Harvard. He enlisted in the second regiment of the Foreign legion in August, 1914. He became a machine gunner and was mortally wounded by shell fire on Feb. 15, 1915, in the Chemin des Dames trenches near Craonnelle, Aisne. He died in a military hospital 12 days later and was buried in Romilly-Sur-Seine.

MOSCOW PROBES CAUSE OF BLAST WHICH KILLED 29

MOSCOW, Feb. 27.—(AP)—An investigation of the explosion and fire which demolished the Krassin pencil factory near Moscow early Sunday, killing 29 persons, was instituted by the government tonight to determine whether negligence caused the disaster.

Severe penalties, sometimes capital punishment, are usually prescribed if it is established that carelessness is responsible for such occurrences in the soviet. The factory, which employed several hundred workmen, was destroyed, and 300 persons left without work were given vacations.

Many of the victims were literally blown to pieces, making an accurate check of the dead impossible until relatives of all workers reported their missing. The explosion occurred in a high pressure compressor and sent a compressed air tank weighing one and a half tons plunging through two floors of the building and the roof. It hurtled through the air and crashed into an adjoining warehouse.

$30,000 Jewelry Stolen from Catholic Church

PANAMA, Feb. 27.—Jewelry valued at $30,000 was stolen today from the Catholic church in the village of Anton. The loot consisted of 6,700 pieces, including gold chains and rings, diamonds, and various objects of gold and silver. The jewelry was made up of worshippers' offerings piled around the image of Crist Esquipulo, credited with having performed many miracles and to which Anton residents pray regularly.

British Peer Leaves for Legion Service in Africa

TOUL, France, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Lord Edward Eugene Montagu of England, now a private in the French Foreign legion, left today for Marseilles en route to Africa and active duty. His first ten days of service were spent in the hospital, after a fall downstairs, following his enlistment.

CAR KILLS TRAINMAN.

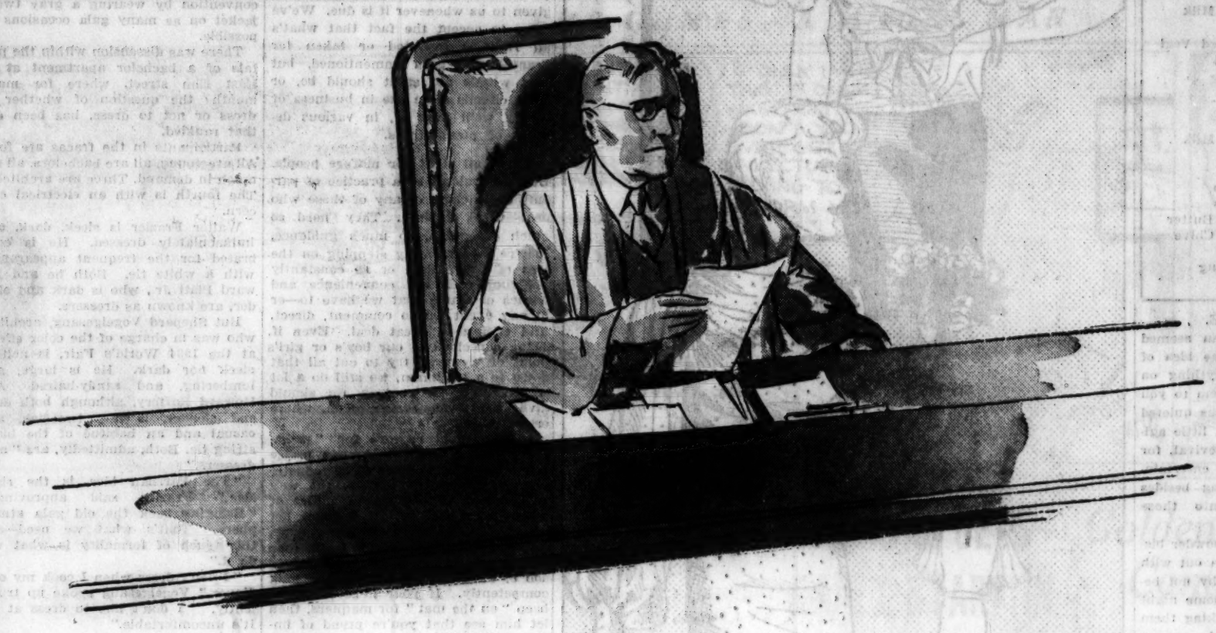
VERDICT!



AN ADVERTISEMENT FOR ADVERTISERS

THE afternoon had been a small eternity, painfully inflated, and swept periodically with resultless rumors, sudden alarms, uneasy comings and goings. But by nine o'clock the place had settled to a nightmare calm. The courtroom was a shambles of soiled newspapers, cigarette butts, abandoned lunches and slumped figures on back-breaking benches. Overhead the lights shone with optimistic brilliance in the stale, steamheated air.

The group of lawyer spectators present had talked themselves out. Guards and troopers, posted before curtained windows, shifted on tired feet. Attorneys for prosecution and defense sat listlessly around their tables. With all hope gone for an evening paper break on the verdict, the evening paper men lapsed into professional apathy. Up in the gallery somebody was snoring softly. In the men's room out in front, temporarily serving as a wireroom, the keys chattered intermittently as idle operators carried on interminable dialogues with their circuits. Cigarette smoking reporters drifted in and out. The inmates of the courtroom sat on drowsily, like anxious passengers waiting in a small station for a train which wouldn't come.

The hands on the courtroom clock crawled snail-like to ten, to five after, ten after, quarter after. A minute or two later, there was a solid thumping on the juryroom door. The bailiff on duty outside stuck his head in as he had a dozen times before, only to get requests for food, coffee, cigarettes and matches. But this time he closed the door and came out through the courtroom. The eyes of the sitters followed him on his way out to the sheriff's office. In fifteen seconds the building was wide awake. The vigil was over.

Sheriff John H. Curtiss came in shortly, stopped and spoke to a guard. With the bailiff, he worked his way down the courtroom, shaking his head steadily at the crowding reporters and saying mechanically, "Nothing doing, nothing doing." Before he reached the juryroom, the courthouse bell had begun to toll—signal to the noisy mob outside and to the world that a verdict had been reached.

Sheriff and bailiff marshalled the jurors into the jury box. With drawn faces and shaking hands, the jurors settled themselves in their usual places. Two of the jurywomen were dabbing at wet eyes. The clerk of the court began his poll for attendance.

At this point Robert Conway left his seat in the gallery and moved leisurely downstairs. To Jo Austin, veteran News wireman, he passed a message scribbled on a lunchroom menu. Austin tapped it off. Rival operators, listening to Austin's key, learned the unexciting fact that Conway would handle the lead for The News. The time was 10:24 p.m. The court clerk was still polling the jurors. The sheriff had gone in to call the judge.

IT was an evening of vigil, too, in the News editorial offices. Early editions had gone to press shy the big story. In the wireroom, a small group hung around the operator on the Flemington key. He typed out items and queries, asked questions, sent answers, gossiped over the wire with Austin. But at 10:25 he started to type furiously. Decoded, Conway's unexciting fact read:

"Guilty death—Conway 10:24 p.m."

Word spread around the building, and all doors were closed. Headlines set in advance were dropped into waiting forms, moulded and cast. Press apprentices hurriedly locked on the new casts. In a matter of minutes, two presses were disgorging papers announcing the fateful verdict. The big story was on its way.

Upstairs, there was an impatient wait for details. Austin wired that the jury was in the box. Silence.

At 10:29 a startled copy boy galloped out of the ticker room waving a sheet torn from the A.P. printer. The A.P. had flashed—"Guilty with recommendations. Life imprisonment." Dismayed News editors looked at each other and wondered what the hell.

The Associated Press is the largest, strongest, greatest of newsgathering organizations. Newspapermen often grumble at its conservatism, its staid reporting and colorless writing, but few of them ever find fault with its accuracy. With a number of conflicting reports, what A.P. says usually goes. And on such a crucial occasion, it was almost unthinkable that A.P. could be wrong.

There was a frantic two-minute huddle. A cautious inquiry to Austin returned a laconic response that he had nothing further to report. What to do? News reporters Robert Conway, Martin Sommers and Grace Robinson, later augmented by Larry Rue and John Martin, had done a thorough and authoritative job on the whole trial, lived on the scene throughout; responsible veterans, all of them. If it was News men vs. A.P., News editors had no choice but to side with their own staff and take the consequences. Abandoning the A.P. was a momentous decision, a little like spitting at a cathedral!

But at 10:39 p.m., the A.P. ticker brought glad news —"Kill verdict flash. Kill verdict flash." Shortly after A.P. confirmed the death verdict. And trucks started to leave the News building.

The verdict was read in Flemington at 10:45 p.m. Two minutes later, Newses were being sold in Times Square—with other papers carrying the false flash. And in some twenty-three other cities, papers with direct wire service from The News were on the street well ahead of competitors. In Chicago, this New York News beat was a beat for WGN and the Chicago Tribune as well.

News circulation on Thursday, Feb. 14, was in excess of 2,000,000 copies net paid—the highest sale in our history!

THE NEW YORK NEWS has had for several years the largest circulation in America—and not without reason!

The News tries to deserve the largest circulation in America—by being the best newspaper in New York. The News staff prides itself on being fast, but also on being right!

You advertisers think of The News as an advertising utility. But New York thinks of The News as its newspaper—on which it can and does rely!

And that reliance and respect of readers as much as circulation or anything else—is the prime asset of a great advertising medium!

15,000 SEE GOLDEN GLOVES FIELD CUT TO 32

RUTH TO TAKE FULL CHARGE OF BRAVES NEXT YEAR

M'KECHNIE WILL BE RETAINED IN OTHER CAPACITY

Babe Is Amazed at Dean's Statement.

New York, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Babe Ruth today confirmed the general expectation that he will succeed Bill McKechnie as manager of the Boston Braves by 1936, if not sooner.

For the time being the Babe will combine his remaining resources as a player with the nominal jobs of assistant manager and second vice president of the Braves. He has pledged and will give full allegiance to McKechnie, who will have absolute authority in running the team this year, but there is also a positive understanding about the future.

Full Charge Next Year.

"It's been definitly decided that I will take full charge of the Braves on the field next year," said Ruth. "My main ambition still is to manage a big league club and I am going to Boston with the understanding it will be fulfilled. I'll have three years, at least, with the Braves and I certainly hope things develop so that I can establish myself firmly in Boston for the rest of my baseball life."

Ruth's statement clarifies a feature of the arrangement touched upon only in general terms by Emil E. Fuchs, president of the Braves, in announcing the deal. After giving McKechnie a vote of confidence, Fuchs suggested that there would be "no handicap" Ruth's taking complete charge of the club on the field at the end of 1935.

New Job for McKechnie.

The understanding is that McKechnie, who has piloted the team since 1930, will be given the post of general manager, leaving the path clear for Ruth to take full responsibility on the diamond. The Babe's playing days are definitly numbered at the age of 41.

Ruth not only is expected to be the financial savior of the Braves, who came close to losing even their ball park during the recent crisis in the club's affairs, but he stands to do pretty well by his own bank account. Proceeds from the exhibition games alone this spring should mean enough extra for the Braves to cover the Babe's flat salary for 1935, understood to be around $25,000. From there on Ruth gets a share of the profits.

Open Against Giants.

The Braves start the season at home, against the New York Giants, and the fans will be eager to see what Ruth can do against Carl Hubbell and the rest of Bill Terry's pitching staf. His first appearance at the Polo Grounds, as a National leaguer, will be on April 23. It will be the first week in May before the world champion St. Louis Cardinals and the celebrated Dean brothers play at Boston, but it may produce some fireworks.

Dizzy Dean, spokesman for the celebrated pitching brothers, already has sounded the only jarring note in the otherwise universal National league welcome to the former home run monarch. Dizzy's blunt "resentment," voiced last night, took the form of sympathy for McKechnie, criticism of the American league for letting the Babe go, and a prediction that National league players would put Ruth "on the pan" throughout the coming season.

Ruth was incredulous when he read Dean's remarks today and insisted he did not believe Dizzy could have said anything like that. A peaceful soul, the Babe harbors no ill will toward any one, but it has always been risky to arouse his temper. The Cubs, who stirred his ire in the 1932 world series, will testify to that.

HERE'S A HOPEFUL NOTE: CUBS RISE EARLY, STAY UP

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Flagstaff, Ariz., Feb. 27.—Hopes that the 1935 Cubs will not be a tired lot were stimulated today when the Cub party didn't even get weary from traveling over the Great American desert, which is called great mostly on account of its size.

The rookies in the party all were up at 7 o'clock, most of them being lads from the south, north, and east, who never had seen sage brush and cactus in its native state.

Stay Up and Talk.

All of the fourteen athletes, once up, stayed up and talked enthusiastically of what they are going to do after they reach their Catalina training base at noon tomorrow. The younger gents have sensed the idea that the Cubs are rebuilding and unlike other springs, every one on the roster is given a chance to stick. In the old days one could pick the lineups for the first month of the season.

There still are some cinches, such as the Warneke-Hartnett battery, and the Jurges-Herman keystone combination, but several jobs are wide open. This applies especially to two pitching jobs and third base, with first base being included if Manager Grimm is beset with aches and pains. Much has been said about Grimm's rejuvenation, but it is noted that the window sill of his Pullman berth is loaded with ominous looking medicine bottles.

Old timers on the Cubs received the news of Babe Ruth's joining up in the National league with pleasure, despite memories of the heartless way the big fellow kidded and hammered them in the 1932 world series. Ball players never have anything bad to say about the Babe.

Dr. Lotshaw Gets Even.

Dr. Andy Lotshaw has experienced a restless trip, having had only one patient, since Grimm is doctoring himself. Chuck Klein was complaining some, and though the doctor was outwardly kind and patient in ministering to Chuck, it became known that he had a few private chuckles at Chuck's discomfiture. He blamed it on Hump Pierce, trainer of the Indianapolis club. Klein, during the winter, placed himself under the care of Pierce, causing an Indianapolis journal to print a picture of Chuck and Hump, under which a caption stated that Chuck had to fall back on home talent to get well. Lotshaw, an old Indianapolis boy himself, was highly incensed at the picture at the time of its publication, but today felt somewhat vindicated.

The Cubs will arrive in Los Angeles at 8:15 o'clock tomorrow morning, whence they will go to Wilmington, Cal., to catch the 10 o'clock boat for Avalon.

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1935: By The Chicago Tribune.]

WRITING in the current issue of a scholarly journal called "Social Forces," Prof. William F. Ogburn of the University of Chicago, whose specialty is forecasting social trends, annlyzes forecasts for 1933 of Harvey Woodruff and other sport writers who venture to predict football scores. . . . Dr. Ogburn's thesis is that most forecasting is too conservative. . . . For 342 predictions by Mr. Woodruff he finds that the average predicted total score of each game was 17 points, while the actual average total score was 21. . . . The predicted average score of the winner was 14.4, the actual average being 19.5. . . . The losers' predicted average was 3.1, the actual average being 2.6. . . . Dr. Ogburn also arranged classroom polls in eight Big Ten schools prior to a Saturday at the height of the season. . . . Students in the schools which lost predicted that their teams would lose by an average of 3 points, whereas the actual average of defeat was 18 points. . . . The victors predicted a six point triumph whereas the margin turned out to be 18. . . .

Paul Waner, National league batting champion, for many years a Miami Beacher, has become such a pronounced west coaster that he even has his name in the Sarasota telephone book. . . . He went over to Miami, however, to help Max Carey with a baseball school before leaving for California to join the Pirates. . . . It is reported that Northwestern university has given Dick Hanley approximately $6,000 to make up for pay cuts while he was under contract to coach Wildcat football teams at a specific figure. . . . Bernie Bierman, whose Minnesota eleven defeated Indiana, 33 to 0, recently told alumni at the University of Minnesota that the Hoosier line was the most stubborn Lund, Kostka, et al., faced last season. . . . Bill Tilden's touring tennis troupe will campaign in two sections next year, it is said. . . . Four men players, with Fred Perry of England as the new attraction, likely will head one cast and the other will feature Helen Jacobs, another woman player and two men stars. . . .

Jay Berwanger, Chicago's All-American half back, will be head usher at the concert of the university's symphony orchestra March 8. . . . Ell Patterson, Tom Flinn and Bill Haarlow, other Maroon athletes, will be among his assistants. . . . Jess Willard Jr., son of the former heavyweight champion, is captain of the Glendale Junior college, California, track team. . . . He hurdles, broad jumps, and throws the discus. . . . Bucky Harris will not accompany the first squad of Senators to the Biloxi training camp. . . . Owner Clark Griffith figures that with the manager looking on, the young pitchers bear down too quickly and consequently start the season with sore arms. . . . As a result the vanguard is under the direction of Trainer Mike Martin. . . . Billy Herman of the Cubs usually plays bridge in his pajamas. . . . Lynn Waldorf will make his first off-the-campus banquet appearance as Northwestern football coach tonight as the guest of the Notre Dame club of Chicago. . . .

Earl Averill of Cleveland, a pretty fair slugger himself, says Babe Ruth hit the longest home run in history at Manila. . . . The American league stars played in a new park with a long right field. . . . A ball never had been hit over the wall. . . . Ruth's drive not only cleared the fence but the adjoining street as well and landed on the roof of a building under construction. . . . Art Bystrom, sports editor of the Green Bay, Wis., Press-Gazette, will leave his position in two weeks to join the Associated Press staf in Milwaukee. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today.—Bill Gibson announced that Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, would cast his lot with heavyweights and was seeking Dempsey's crown. . . . Ohio State was leading the Big Ten basketball race with nine victories and one loss. . . . Paavo Nurmi scheduled nine track meets in eleven days. . . . The White Sox arrived at Shreveport, La., to start spring training. . . . The vanguard of Cubs arrived at Catalina Island and immediately started training.

SIMMONS GETS EARLY START IN YEAR'S WORRYING

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cheyenne, Wyo., Feb. 27.—Mr. Al Simmons, the Milwaukee Duke, who is somewhat well known for his skill as a hitter, has something new to worry about. It's not about a possible lack of base hits, since it's too early for that sort of fretting. It's over the fact that he may have to play center field instead of left for the White Sox during the 1935 season.

Simmons expressed himself on the above point today as the advance squad of Lou Comiskey's pale hosed athletes was progressing toward the Pasadena, Cal., training camp.

Points to Mack's Experiment.

In hope of discouraging the idea Simmons gave Comiskey all sorts of reasons why he shouldn't be moved out of his old stamping ground. The best argument he raised was that Connie Mack once tried him in center field and in due time abandoned the experiment as a failure. President Lou's only reactions to Simmons' pleas was a series of loud laughs and a repeated "Well, that's too bad." Al apparently made no headway, but he'll start working on Manager Dykes as soon as camp is reached.

It isn't that the Duke won't play center field. He'll tackle it if necessary, but believes that for the best of the team he can accomplish more if permitted to roam in the left sector where he is well acquainted.

Dykes' reason for declaring some time ago that he would move Simmons to center was that he figured he had a suitable left fielder in the person of Vernon Washington, purchased from the Indianapolis club. Dykes is taking it for granted that because Washington conducted himself as a good hitter in the association he will do for major league duty. However, Dykes is overlooking the fact that more than a few baseball scouts rate the newcomer as a weakling on defense. Just how much truth there is in this will be proved after a few weeks of training.

Al May Get It, After All.

If Washington should prove another Smead Jolley or Ike Boone there still is a possibility that Simmons will not have his wish about remaining in left. There is another candidate for the latter position in Dan [Bud] Hafey, purchased from the San Francisco Missions. The youngster hasn't been given much of a tumble in the preliminary scheming, but fellows who were with him in the Coast league declare he has the earmarks of a choice rookie. He can field and run, but there's only one way to determine what he might do against big league pitching.

Golden Gloves Teams Break Camp; Quincy 1st to Leave

The Quincy Herald-Whig Golden Gloves team was the first of the invading forces to leave last night. The eight boys were a little discouraged over their defeats, but none was downhearted. George Meyers, trainer and coach, a former Golden Gloves heavyweight champion, predicted Quincy will be back next year with a more powerful team.

Other teams completely out of the running started packing suitcases and grips for trips home last night and today. They included the Streator, Ill., Times-Press and the Kokomo, Ind., Tribune. The Kokomo squad was the only one which failed to score at least one victory.

Joe Sekyra, who was a prominent heavyweight a few years ago, last night seconded the Dayton, O., News' survivors in the quarter-finals at the Stadium.

John Kronewitter injured his left elbow during his one round knockout of John Ranchard for the right to represent the South Bend, Ind., News-Times in the heavyweight class. The injury became aggravated as the Tournament of Champions approached and just before he was to enter the ring at the Stadium he was forced to default.

V. Y. Dallman, editor of the Springfield State Register and collector of internal revenue in the downstate Illinois district, and William McKenzie, president of the Springfield Chamber of Commerce, were among last night's ringsiders.

Adam Smith, the roly poly baker boy and Golden Gloves graduate, came in from Rockford to see last night's contests. Smith, who weighs 225 pounds, says he has won his four professional starts.

The large crowd booed when Jesse Levels, tiny Cleveland colorbearer, was given the three round decision over Jimmy Urso, Grand Rapids flyweight. Urso handed Levels a trouncing late in the final round.

Spectators marvel at the way Troy Bellini, Cleveland bantamweight, handled himself while conquering Andrew Filmore, Savoy A. C. Chicago. In the clinches Troy showered Filmore's stomach with vicious punches with both hands.

Everett Holliday, Burlington 112 pounder, made a hit with the crowd by his game fight against Patsy Urso of Detroit. After outboxing Urso in the first round, Holliday was floored seven times before Referee Jess O'Brien stopped the fight in the third. The Burlington youngster wanted to argue with O'Brien about the latter's obviously sensible action and got a big hand from the crowd as he left the ring. Holliday advanced farther in the tournament than any Burlington boxer in the three years the Hawkeye Gazette has sent a team to the Tournament of Champions.

Now for the Finals!

Three nights of fighting in the Tournament of Champions have reduced the Golden Gloves field to the best fighters of Chicagoland. Champions will be crowned one week from Friday at the Chicago Stadium.

If you saw the thrilling battles this week you know what great fighting is to be offered on the night of March 8. If you missed out on this boxing treat just ask any one who was there and he'll tell you it's the greatest boxing show ever staged.

Tickets for the finals are 55 cents, $1.10, $1.65, and $2.20. Send check or money order to Golden Gloves Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago, or drop in at The Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, and Tribune Tower.

TEN OF CHICAGO SQUAD REACH FINAL ROUND

Decide 1935 Titles March 8.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Time out until a week from tomorrow!

With that order ringing in their ears the thirty-two boys who were able to hang on to championship hopes after the smoke of the battle had lifted in THE TRIBUNE'S Tournament of Champions at the Stadium last night were receiving their deserved congratulations.

The plucky hard hitting heroes who will be back March 8 for the championship struggles are:

Tom Nell, Bloomington.

Fighting that thrilled a crowd of 15,000 took place while the quarter-final round battles were being fought.

Tommy Barry of Springfield, national A. A. U. bantamweight champion, was beaten narrowly by Johnny Brown, Chicago newsboy, who is a member of the Catholic Youth Organization team.

Barry Starts Fast.

Barry started strongly and had an edge in the first round by getting inside Brown's guard with lefts and rights to the face. The blows rocked the Chicago newsie. Brown rallied in the next round, slipping and ducking Tommy's leads, and then countered sharply to the head and stomach with both hands.

The fighting became intense in the third round. Barry started this session by taking the play from Brown and landed a barrage of left jabs to the mouth. Brown quickly solved this strategy and landed punishing rights to the head.

Four Champions Win.

These blows slowed up Barry and Brown took advantage of it. He unleashed a terrific punching attack and shot both hands to the chin which had Barry's head swinging like a gate. The Springfield lad refused to go down and at the bell he was giving as much as he received.

Londos, Marshall Revive Old Drama at Stadium.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

"Abie's Irish Rose" ran on and on for five years, Walter Hampden has played Cyrano hundreds of times, and the gaslit melodramas of our grandsires are being revived to this day, but all of these are mere flashes in the skillet of show business by comparison with the drama which is being reënacted this evening at the Chicago Stadium. This stirring thriller will bring together on the Stadium boards two of the deans of the business—James Londos, who has known no peer these five years, and Everett Marshall, as gifted a straight man as rassling has produced.

The Messrs. James Mullen and Nate Lewis, who have hitherto confined their promotional activities to the lighter field of prize fighting, tonight will ma.e their first venture into the sturdier realm of rassling, where temperament reaches a peak, and emoting is one of the finer arts. Producers Mullen and Lewis anticipate a full house this night, for a portion of the proceeds is intended for the family of the late John Krone, who in latter years of his life probably did more to make wrestling in Chicago, particularly for Londos & Co., than any other one person.

Old Folks Dim on Details.

There are still a few doddering gaffers about the town who like to recall the original first night of the Londos-Marshall show, and who threaten to appear for this evening's benefit production. Yesterday they were being pestered by their grand-children for details of that hoary opening, but they could supply only a few scant details, their memories being what they are. Then, too, the script of the show has been revised so often that even the sharpest critics of the art are being hard put to recall the lines and sets for it.

The shows which stand out best are the performance presented by the 1932 road company in Philadelphia and the last Chicago engagement, which played to a packed house at the Coliseum under the benign auspices of Dr. Krone, which proved to be his last.

The Philadelphia run evoked handsome notices throughout the entire circuit, for it involved a number of the city's employés, notably three policemen who were not in the original scenario.

Marshall Ad Libs Script.

The officers were no more in the cast than were Billy Sandow, Marshall's manager, and the referee, but Marshall, an original soul who scorns the plans of his masters, introduced them in an impromptu climax which brought volley upon volley of bravos from the clients. The affair was so successful that, in spite of the fact that the curtain fell upon the usual happy Londos ending, Everett was nearly rewarded with a session in Philadelphia's psycopathic hospital. This last was suggested by Mr. Sandow and the three officers, who were soundly cuffed by Marshall before the customers had fled.

Mr. Sandow also played an unannounced rôle in the Chicago performance, which came to a conclusion when Marshall, attempting to scale the Londos frame, went over the top and smote his noggin soundly on the lower iron framework of the ring in a fine display of agony. It was outdone only by Sandow's rage, inspired by the thought of foul play. He accused James of trying to cross Everett up in his lines, but all of this may have grown out of an old backstage quarrel between Sandow and Ed White, the Londos manager, who is said to have attempted to take a promising juvenile's contract away from Billy.

McMillen Meets Yousif.

In addition to the featured number this evening at the Stadium Producers Mullen and Lewis also will present a number of other interesting tableaux which will bring together James McMillen and Hehmet Yousif, Ray Steele and Thomas Marvin, Olaf Oleson and Baby Zaharias, Hans Bauer and Joe Rogacki, and Bobby Burns and Jack Zaravich. The orchestra has been ordered to limit the encores for these, so that Londos and Marshall, the senior troupers, may have the full benefit of their ninety minutes.

Holy Mount of Cicero, favorite to win the 1935 C. Y. O. basketball title, lost last night in the quarter-final round of the title playoffs to St. John's, Joliet, 19 to 18. A free throw by Bob Simon, St. John's star forward, with 30 seconds left to play, gave the Joliet quintet the victory. John Sonntag with 7 points led the scoring for St. John's. The game was played at St. Philip's gym.

In other important games last night, St. Pius heavyweights defeated St. Michael's, 38 to 28, and St. Gertrude's lights eliminated St. Sylvester's, 28 to 22.

GIRL ACCUSES TY COBB'S SON IN COMPLAINT

Redwood City, Cal., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Hershel Cobb, 19, son of Ty Cobb, former baseball star, was charged with assault and battery upon Miss Julia Conner, 19, in a complaint issued here, but he vehemently declared today it was "nothing but a frameup."

Young Cobb will be arraigned Thursday. He was released on $250 bail.

The elder Cobb said in a statement: "When this was reported to me, naturally it was quite a surprise. I will say that the nature of the charge of mistreatment was a greater shock to my son than to myself.

"After some two weeks since this supposed happening I have received lots of messages indicating that this matter should have been straightened up in some way, but regardless of such distasteful publicity I happened not to believe in this kind of procedure."

St. Ambrose College Team Wins Iowa Basket Title

2 Lose Licenses, 9 Suspended on Doping Charges

Austin, Tex., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Licenses of two trainers were revoked for life and nine others, including a woman, were suspended by the Texas racing commission today on charges that narcotics were used on thoroughbreds at Alamo Downs, San Antonio.

Commissioners, holding the evidence against Vic Gallo and G. Harris to be the strongest in eleven cases considered, barred them from further participation in racing at licensed tracks.

Mrs. E. M. Hector, 46, owner of a 4 horse racing string, who received a trainer's license Jan. 1, J. Bainton and L. Burkes were suspended for a year.

The wife of a St. Joseph, Mo., barber, she was the first woman to receive a trainer's license in Texas and the second in the United States.

The commission ordered four trainers away from their charges for 60 days and two drew 30 day suspensions because saliva tests on their horses showed a minor narcotic which the commission said was contained in a patent medicine.

MOVE FEATHERS, BEAR STAR, TO NEW HOSPITAL

Dr. John F. Davis, club physician for the Bears and Cubs, yesterday moved Beattie Feathers from the Illinois Masonic hospital to the John B. Murphy hospital. There he removed the stitches in the star Bear half back's shoulder and pronounced him well on the road to recovery from the bone operation performed a few days ago.

Dr. Davis severed his connection with the Illinois Masonic institution, where he was head surgeon, and feeling that he would be unable to give Feathers his care, had him transferred to the other hospital, where the doctor is on the call list.

Detroit Polo Star Worries Artillerymen

New strategy to stop the scoring of Volney Bayley, ace of the Detroit Eagles, will be employed by the 124th Field Artillery polo trio when these teams clash Saturday night at the latter's armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue.

Bayley, who has been scoring with regularity against opponents this season, will be closely watched by Lieut. Chris Schuh of the artillery, who will play at back. Lieut. Schuh, who usually covers a lot of territory during a game, plans to anchor himself near the goal in Saturday night's game.

Harvard Faces Fort Sheridan.

ARTILLERY VS. TROOP

The 122d Field Artillery and the Black Horse Troop indoor polo teams will renew hostilities in the feature match of the triple-header scheduled for the Chicago Riding club, 333 East Erie street, Saturday evening. In two preliminary games the Riding Club Bees will be matched against the Riding Club Seniors and the girls' team, the Tiger Lilies, against the male Centaurs.

The 122d Field Artillery's team, composed of Cliff Harrison, Art Zimmerman, and Carl Johnson, will attempt to get even with the Black Horse Troop, which has captured the low goal Metropolitan league championship, held by the artillerymen last season. In eighteen starts this season the Troopers, Capt. Roy D. Keehn Jr., Lieut. William F. Kirby, and Jack Armstrong are credited with fifteen victories. The Riding Club Seniors defeated the Troopers twice and the 122d downed the Troopers once.

U. of Iowa Swim Coach to Apply for Record O. K.

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Coach Dave Armbruster of the University of Iowa swimming team said today that he would apply to the A. A. U. for approval of the new American record set by the Hawkeye 300 yard medley team.

The Iowa medley relay team composed of Dick Westerfield, Cedar Rapids; Adolph Jacobsmeyer, St. Louis, Mo., and Jack Sieg, Tulsa, Okla., bettered the old mark by four-tenths of a second. The Hawkeye time was 2:58.5.

State Events Open at Patten Gym Tomorrow.

Northwestern university's Patten gym, center of winter sports activity on the Evanston campus, will be the scene of a pair of state athletic gatherings this week-end. The fourth annual Illinois state high school swimming meet opens simultaneously tomorrow with the Illinois table tennis tournament.

Both will carry over to Saturday, with the finals for the prep swimmers scheduled for Saturday afternoon and finalists in the table tennis tourney due to clash that evening in the upper gym immediately following the Northwestern-Indiana basketball game.

180 Swimmers Enter Meet.

Tom Robinson, Northwestern's veteran swimming coach, announced yesterday that everything was in readiness at Patten pool to entertain the largest and fastest field of schoolboy swimmers ever to compete in the state meet. Indications are that approximately 180 entries, representing some 25 schools, will be in attendance when the qualifying heats are started at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Prep swim coaches look for the 1935 champion to come from a group which includes Maine Township of La Grange, defending title holder; University and Roosevelt of Chicago, and Rockford. Maine wore the crown in 1933, relinquished it to Rockford the following winter, and recaptured it last year.

Roosevelt's hopes of victory are centered in Adolph Kiefer, national interscholastic back stroke champion and a star free style performer. University boasts a well balanced team and Rockford appears strong in the free style events.

Clark Favorite for Singles Title.

The table tennis tournament—with such players as Coleman Clark, national champion in 1932, and Jesse Purvis, former holder of the national women's title entered—is expected to provide the keenest competition in the event's short history.

Parker and Smith Meet in Mat Bout Tomorrow

Gorilla Parker, Detroit colored light heavyweight, will be the opponent of Clarence Smith in the 90 minute wrestling bout tomorrow night at the Midway arena. Lou Talaber and Phil Grueber will meet in the 30 minute semi-windup. Buck O'Neil will wrestle Ernie Peterson and Ralph Garabaldi will face Charlie Peterson.

MOSTLY about DOGS

By Bob Becker

The Question Box

Can you tell me about the toy black and tan terrier? Is the official or recognized name the "Manchester terrier"? I have seen a lot of them and there seems to be many different types. We have three here at the house. The male weighs 4½ pounds and he is two years old. Mrs. Clarence S., Antioch, Ill.

Answer: The toy black and tan terrier is a miniature of the Manchester terrier. It is grouped with the toy dogs, of course, and called black and tan or toy black and tan terrier by the American Kennel club. Space will not permit the printing of the standard of the breed as drawn up by the Manchester Toy Dog society of Manchester, England, but I am telling you where you can get the standard by mail.

I am sending you a picture of a little dog we had when we lived in Evanston. We bought him when he was 3 months old. They called him a "Holland terrier." I have never seen another like him. I wish you could tell me where I could get another like him. Mrs. E. B. H.

Answer: I have looked at the picture which you inclosed. If the dog in question is a "Holland terrier," then Holland has developed a terrier which has been kept a dark secret from me. I know the 18 kinds of terriers recognized by the American Kennel club, but there is no breed in the list known as the Holland terrier. Moreover, I am sorry to say that I never have heard of a Holland terrier. The Keeshond is "the" dog of Holland. But the dog which you once owned was not a Keeshond, as far as I am able to determine from the photograph which you sent in.

May I ask a favor of you? In your recent article about training dogs and the work of the Amateur Training club you did not mention that the club has recognized only the Great Dane, German shepherd, Riesenschnauzers, Dobermann Pinschers, Airedales, Boxers, and Rottweilers—the so-called working breeds in Germany. For certain training classes the standard schnauzer and the collie are acceptable.

I am receiving 15 to 25 letters a day from people inquiring about the training classes. But since you did not mention the breeds that can enter these classes, letters are coming from owners of Scotties, wirehaired terriers, Pekingese, cocker spaniels, chows and others. Will you please clear up this point in your column? William Schafer, Glenview, Ill.

Answer: I am sorry I failed to list the breeds in the recent article about training classes. [The first time that this department called attention to the classes it was stated that only the Great Dane, German shepherd, the big schnauzer, Dobermann, Airedale, Boxer, and Rottweiler were accepted in the classes.] Glad there is so much interest among dog owners in the subject of training.

GOLDEN GLOVERS FIGHT WAY TO FINAL ROUND

15,000 See Third Session of Tourney.

Thomas' victory was the most thrilling. The giant colored boy put Tony Musto of the Chicago Polish Youth organization away in one round. It was the finest showing Thomas has made since the tournament opened.

Chicago lads came to the front brilliantly in the fighting. Ten of them remain to fight it out for the titles. Cleveland, team champion of last year, qualified six great fighters. Detroit qualified four. The Bloomington Pantagraph team qualified three, and so did the Gary Tribune.

Bridges Is Disqualified.

Clinton Bridges of Detroit, the most sensational light heavyweight in the tournament, dropped out of the battle for Golden Gloves when he lost on a foul to William Fish of Grand Rapids in the second round.

Bridges had the Grand Rapids boy all but out when the low blow was struck. He started a terrific right which landed below the belt and was disqualified. In his earlier victories Bridges had given promise of being just as good as was Joe Louis, the sensational Detroit light heavyweight champion of last year.

The first winner in the quarter-finals round was Patsy Urso of the Detroit team. He knocked out Everett Holliday, flyweight of the Burlington team. Urso, who finished second in last year's flyweight division, had the Iowa boy down three times in the second and twice in the third before he put him away.

John Noto, the flyweight champion of the C. Y. O. team, dashed on into the semi-final round by grabbing a narrow decision from Andy Medina of Peoria. Medina fought gamely against the C. Y. O. colorbearer and if he had packed a bit more steam in his punches the outcome would have been different.

Finnerty Carries On.

Ben Finnerty, the 6 foot tall 112 pounder from the Omaha World-Herald team, and Jesse Levels of Cleveland were the other flyweights to fight their way to victory. Levels, last year's Golden Gloves champion, beat Jimmy Urso of Grand Rapids, a brother of Patsy of the Detroit team. Finnerty's victim was Gene Stadler of Dayton. Levels took a long lead in the first two rounds, but was backing away from Urso near the finish.

Collins Wins in Cue Meet; Ties for Lead

Percy N. Collins of Chicago, defending titleholder, moved into a triple tie for first place in the national amateur 18.2 balkline billiard championship tournament last night at the Medinah club with a 300 to 138 victory over Ray N. Fessenden, Madison, Wis., former champion. Collins required only 26 innings to complete his string.

The tournament, barring upsets, now appears a three cornered affair between Collins, Edgar T. Appleby of New York, and Edmund Soussa of Egypt, European champion. All three have two victories and no defeats. Collins defeated Kling in his opening match. Appleby has conquered Morgan and Kling in his two matches, while Soussa has turned back Schaap and Morgan in his two appearances.

In the two afternoon games Soussa defeated Morgan, 300 to 100, in 25 innings, and Appleby turned back Seymour Kling, in the same number of innings, 300 to 125.

Four games mark today's schedule, Morgan facing Kling and Appleby meeting Schaap in afternoon games, with the two evening games bringing together Collins and Morgan and Soussa and Fessenden.

TOURING TENNIS PROS.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 27.—Personal friction and differences of temperament among the four former amateur tennis players now members of Tilden Tours, Inc., is so great that a breakup of the combination after conclusion of the present campaign would not be surprising.

Self-interest, financial, has kept them together. That would seem the logical procedure for the future because tennis enthusiasm, on a box-office test, does not seem to warant two rival troupes of which Bill Tilden undoubtedly would head one. Ellsworth Vines, Pasadena youth who became national amateur champion, on the other hand, is said to look with favor on independent appearances with Fred Perry, English ace, in event the latter turns pro following his Davis cup matches of this year.

Vines, who went wrong from too much campaigning following his accession to the singles crown, is back on his game again, showing better on the present barnstorming than Tilden, George Lott of Chicago, or Lester Stoeffen, another Californian possibly headed for the top when he forsook amateur standing. Whatever regret Vines felt in leaving the so-called simon-pures was assuaged by his return from last year's trip with a nest egg of $35,000, according to friends.

When Tilden and Lott meet in singles there usually is plenty of byplay. This pair, even when teammates on American Davis cup squads, nurtured no genuine comradeship. There was mutual dislike frequently evidenced. It appears in their troupe appearances to an extent which causes many to be suspicious of showmanship.

In their Los Angeles appearance Lott on his serve went into position so quickly that Tilden frequently held up his hand to arrest service until he was better set. On Tilden's service Lott slowed his pace until Tilden was waiting, the crowd beating time with their feet to his deliberate steps. Once he went to his place in mimicry of Tilden's mincing steps and held up his hand to wait service, as Tilden had done, in sheer mockery. Tilden half smiled, but was annoyed. To the crowd it was a good show.

After the matches The Wake found Tilden and Lott sharing the same dressing room, but indulging in no conversation. "What is this business, George?" we inquired of Lott. "Real or simulated?" "It's real so far as I am concerned," he replied. "If we were not traveling together I'd like to take a punch at the so-and-so."

From the auditorium both Tilden and Lott looked heavier than a few years ago. In their undies, or less, both appeared drawn fine and there was no excess weight about Lott's midsection, as suggested when he wore his sweater on the stage.

The Wake always has been a greater admirer of Big Bill Tilden as the greatest figure of American tennis. At 42 years he has his old time strokes. Perhaps he doesn't make as many "gets" as once, perhaps his stops and starts on the court are not quite as fast, but he still puts up a brilliant game. If any opponent wishes to keep up a back court rally with him that's their misfortune.

The Los Angeles appearance yielded over $4,000 at the boxoffice. The tour as a whole is reported to be drawing 95 per cent of what it did last year, considered remarkably successful because Vines then was a new attraction.

HORSES FINISH IN DEAD HEAT AT SANTA ANITA

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Santa Anita Park saw its first dead heat in fifty-six days of horse racing today when Sweet Man and Len Helker finished whisker for whisker in the last event of the program, a mile and a sixteenth claiming affair with $1,000 added. The judges made their decision after viewing the electric camera picture of the finish.

Len Helker paid $7.60, $8.40, and $6.20, while Sweet Man was worth $3.60, $4.60, and $4.20. Their time was 1:47 flat. Sweet Man was claimed from E. E. Keeler by H. Frazier for $1,000. Len Helker's owner was Paul Kelly.

Joe Flores, winner of the feature event, moved out in front from the gate and held the position throughout to take his third consecutive race, finishing in front of Arson by a nose. Impeach was third. The time for the mile and a sixteenth was 1:44 2-5. The Clyde Phillips gelding paid $4.80, $3.20, and $2.80.

ASSOCIATION TO PUT UP A $20,000 PLAYERS' POOL

American association club owners, optimistic over prospects for a financially successful season, yesterday voted to guarantee $20,000 for the players' bonus fund at a meeting at the Palmer house.

The split-season plan, offered for discussion by George Trautman, president of the Columbus club, failed to stir up enough interest to cause its adoption. The league will play a straight 154 game schedule, as decided at the minor league meeting in Louisville last December.

The bonus fund, built up from proceeds from the all-star game and 2 cents from each paid admission throughout the season, amounted to $16,000 last year. Under the same arrangement it may run higher this season, but the league heads voted to see that the athletes share in at least $20,000. Members of the first four teams in the final standing will share in the pot.

Taffy Gets All Stuck Up Over a Wire

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Feb. 27.—[Special.] — Fake telegrams which placed Clarence [Taffy] Abel, former member of the Chicago Blackhawks in the Sault Pirate lineup in a game with Britt, Ont., last Sunday may have endangered the amateur status of 23 hocky players.

Word was received from Toronto that the Ontario Hocky association did not grant a request of Abel that he be permitted to play with the Pirates. Abel explained today that he had received two telegrams. The first in reply to Abel's request was from W. A. Hewett, Ontario Hocky association secretary, stating that Abel could not play. The following morning, Sunday, Abel said he received a telephone call informing him that there was a telegram addressed to him at a local rink. The telegram which bore the typewritten signature of Hewett gave permission to Abel to play in view of the fact that the game was for charity.

Members of the Pirate team as well as those in charge of the rink disclaimed any knowledge of the telegram. The Western Union today confirmed the first telegram, but denied handling the second.

Abel indignantly declared himself to be totally in the dark. "I would no more think of attempting to play with a bunch of youngsters and endangering their chances as amateurs than I would fly," the hefty defense man said. "I only played under authority of the telegram which I thought authentic. I wanted to help the winter carnival and boost a sport I love. Even after I received the wire I went to both teams and showed it to them, asking them what they thought of it. Both agreed it was perfectly all right for me to play. That is the same way I thought about it."

FRANK L. CASEY TAKES JOB AS SIMPSON COACH

Casey, who has been at the Storm Lake college for the last eight years, will succeed Judd Dean, who resigned to return to his alma mater, Cornell college, as head of the physical education department.

The new coach will assume his duties next fall. A graduate of Lombard college, Casey has had a good record at Buena Vista and was selected for his new position from a large field of candidates. Casey will be coach of all sports at Simpson.

HAWKS FIGHT TO REGAIN LEAD IN HOCKY RACE

Play Red Wings Tonight at Detroit.

The Chicago Blackhawks left yesterday for Detroit where they will play the Red Wings tonight at the Olympia rink. It will be the last meeting of the season in Detroit between the two teams.

The Red Wings have not been able to beat the Hawks in the last four games at Detroit. This includes the first two games in last spring's Stanley cup playoffs and two league contests this season.

May Climb to Top.

Should the Hawks defeat Detroit and Montreal Maroons whip the Rangers at New York tonight, the Chicagoans will climb back into first place in the American division of the National Hocky league.

Despite the acquisition of Scotty Bowman and Syd Howe from St. Louis for a reputed $50,000, the Wings have not been going well. Since they joined the team, the Wings have lost four of six games.

Leave Two Home.

Only thirteen Blackhawks made the trip. Art Wiebe and Donnie McFadyen, who are recovering from shoulder injuries, will be ready to take part in the Montreal Canadiens-Blackhawk game for the Stadium next Sunday night. Wiebe and McFadyen are taking daily workouts at the University of Illinois rink.

AND THE
60-SECOND WORKOUT
For Healthy and Handsome HAIR

50 SECONDS TO MASSAGE . . . Rub Vitalis briskly into your tight, dry scalp. Feel how it tingles and wakes up. Your hair has a chance!

10 SECONDS TO BRUSH . . . Comb and brush your hair. It looks rich, lustrous—but without a trace of that unnatural "patent-leather" look.
YOUR DRUGGIST HAS VITALIS
REMEMBER this about your hair—its health and its good looks go hand in hand. That is why you need the healthy, invigorating double-action benefits of Vitalis and the 60-Second Workout.
Tight, dry scalp is the enemy of your hair—the common cause of thin, dry, sickly hair. Vitalis and massage rouses the scalp, stimulates and quickens the circulation, releases the natural, nourishing oils that mean healthy and handsome hair. Wide-awake and active, your scalp functions naturally—loose dandruff disappears. Your hair looks healthier—is healthier. And it stays perfectly groomed—with never a trace of that unnatural "patent-leather" look.
You'll like Vitalis and its way of keeping your scalp alive, your hair healthy and well-groomed. Buy a bottle from your druggist and give your hair a chance.
ASK YOUR BARBER . . .

HARDING TO TALK STAKE PROGRAM WITH McLENNAN

Washington Pk. Officials Confer This Week.

Stake plans for the summer meeting at Washington Park will begin to take definite form this week when John P. Harding arrives in Miami for a series of conferences with the Homewood course's new racing secretary, Charles McLennan. Harding, who is president of the new Washington Park Jocky club that took over the track a few weeks ago, left by plane for Florida yesterday afternoon.

McLennan, who also serves as racing secretary at Hialeah, has already begun a survey of the horses from the Florida tracks that will be available for the Washington Park meeting.

Inasmuch as Harding expects to remain in Miami for two weeks, their conferences will give McLennan an opportunity to ascertain just what type of horses will be most desirable under the new deal at Washington Park.

None of the Washington Park stakes has been announced with the exception of the American Derby, the mile and a quarter classic that has long served as the outstanding fixture of Washington Park's program. Another stake for 3 year olds, over a shorter distance of ground, is considered a distinct possibility for the initial meeting to be staged by the new group.

That the meeting will be made more attractive than ever for the better members of the handicap division is probable.

RFC OFFERS 8 ROADS LOAN TO BUY M. & ST. L.

Calls for Splitup of Bankrupt Line.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Agreement by the Reconstruction Finance corporation to lend $7,200,000 to eight railroads with which to purchase the 1,600 mile Minneapolis and St. Louis railroad, in receivership since 1923, was announced today by Jesse Jones, RFC chairman.

The deal will involve assumption by the roads of $1,018,000 in equipment trust certificates, dismemberment of the M. & St. L., and abandonment of about 500 miles of track.

The road will be parceled out to the Burlington, North Western, Rock Island, Illinois Central, Great Northern, Great Western, Wabash, and Milwaukee roads, each of which will acquire parts they can use to best advantage.

Studies Roads' Difficulties.

Meanwhile Jones began a study of difficulties confronting the Missouri Pacific, Western Pacific, and Denver & Rio Grande Western railroads which have brought before the RFC plans for reorganization of the D. & R. G. W. and Missouri Pacific. Western Pacific is involved as a half owner of the Rio Grande which recently turned over to the RFC its holdings in the profitable Denver & Salt Lake railroad as security for a loan with which to pay for stock in the company.

The RFC turned down a reorganization plan for Rio Grande because it did not provide for scaling down fixed charges to a figure the corporation regarded as low enough. A cut of 50 per cent was said to have been asked by the federal agency.

Swift Action Sought.

L. W. Baldwin, trustee for the Missouri Pacific, was reported to have discussed a revised plan with RFC officials this afternoon. Swift action is necessary because of a deferred interest payment totaling $800,000 due March 1.

O. P. and M. J. Sweringen, who control the Missouri Pacific, are said to have submitted a reorganization plan which was rejected, but which may be worked out so as to cut fixed charges by 50 per cent and get the road out of the hands of the St. Louis federal court.

Jones said an effort will be made in dismembering the Minneapolis and St. Louis to see that all important communities are given service, but that where this is not possible highway transportation will be provided.

Illinois Central's Position.

Under the plan the Illinois Central will gain direct entrance to Minneapolis over its own rails. While details were not given this indicates the I. C. will take that portion of the road from Albert Lea, Minn., to Minneapolis.

The loan is dependent on approval of the interstate commerce commission, federal courts and other authorities having jurisdiction over any part of the property. The commerce commission must also approve division of the lines among competitors through public hearings.

The railroad, chartered by Minneapolis business leaders in 1870, operates 1,627 miles of main track and employs 3,500 workers who will be absorbed by the eight roads.

The Standard Oil Company of Indiana announced yesterday that Stanolind Oil and Gas company, Tulsa, Okla., its producing subsidiary, is negotiating with an unnamed third party for the purchase of all stock of the Yount-Lee Oil company of Beaumont, Tex.

This third party, according to C. J. Barkdull, executive vice president of Standard Oil, has secured an option from the stockholders of the Yount-Lee company. Stanolind, he said, is checking the properties of the Yount-Lee company in Texas and Louisiana with a view toward acquiring the production, undeveloped acreage, and pipe lines of the company in case the sale is consummated. Negotiations, however, are still far from conclusion, he stated.

Other sources reported that Wright Morrow, Houston attorney, was the third party. Reports were the deal involved $50,000,000.

DEMANDS PROBE, DELAYS ACTION IN HOLC FUND BOOST

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Consideration of a bill to increase the Home Owners Loan corporation's lending power by $1,500,000,000 was temporarily blocked in the house today by Representative Sweeney [Dem., O.], who demanded action first on his resolution to investigate the HOLC.

Chairman Steagall [Dem., Ala.] of the banking committe asked unanimous consent to give the bill a privileged status so it could be brought up early next week.

"Before giving that bill privileged status," interposed Sweeney, "we ought to know who is going to administer this $1,500,000,000 in new funds. Will it be these same men who are now in charge and who are under criticism? I thing that the rules committee should have the courage to vote out the resolution for an investigation."

German Community Bond Interest Reduced to 4½%

BERLIN, Germany, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The German government today cut the interest on community bonds totaling $1,600,000,000 from 6 per cent or more to 4½ per cent, except on loans floated abroad. Bondholders may protest within a period of ten days, but in view of the difficult market for unreduced bonds, the majority of holders is expected to accept.

SEC Charges Porter Firms with Frauds

Agents of the federal securities and exchange commission, in their second Chicago action within a week, late yesterday filed a bill of compaint before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward against Waterman W. Porter and a group of securities companies he controls. An injunction restraining the group from further sales activity and the appointment of a receiver were asked. Judge Woodward set this morning for a hearing.

The complaint sets forth that the defendants used the mails, directly and indirectly, "in the employment of devices and schemes and artifices to defraud, and in obtaining money and property by means of untrue statements of material facts." The companies, all located at 30 West Washington street, are Wall Street Security corporation, Wall Street Bond corporation, Wall Street Trust Company of New York, First Investment Trust of Illinois, and the Tri-State Investors corporation.

Porter Denies Charges.

Porter last night denied the allegations contained in the complaint, but said he had agreed to the appointment of an equity receiver to conduct an orderly liquidation of the companies' business. David S. Horwich, attorney for Porter, asserted that known assets of the group are in excess of $625,000 and known liabilities are $547,000.

The information on which the complaint was based was obtained following a week's investigation by John L. Flynn, attorney for the SEC. He explained that the defendants have since May 27, 1933, been accepting from the general public cash and securities listed on the New York and Chicago stock exchanges and issuing in return receipts accompanied by an oral agreement that the holders of the receipts were to receive all dividends on the securities deposited and interest on the cash or stated value of the securities at the rate of one-half of 1 per cent a month.

Bookkeeping Method Criticized.

Flynn also alleged that books were not kept in such manner as to permit knowledge of the exact extent of current liabilities to customers with respect to cash and securities deposited. The complaint asks a temporary restraining order and a temporary injunction which will prevent the defendants from carrying on their business further and also prevent them from disposing of any assets.

Porter, who has been in business since 1911, said he was given a clean bill of health in an investigation last fall by agents of the federal trade commission. He said he has more than enough assets to pay all creditors in full.

Another hearing on the application of the Chicago Curb exchange for exemption from registration will be held in Washington next Monday morning.

BRITISH SOLONS QUIZ MINISTER ON TIN SCHEME

[Copyright; 1935: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 27.—While the price of tin continued to decline today, Sir Philip Cunliffe Lister, minister of colonies, was forced to answer questions in the house of commons relating to the recent commodity gamble and to the tin restriction scheme.

One questioner demanded to know whether the British representatives on the international tin committee or on the Buffer pool committee were "personally interested" in tin. Another asked whether private pools had sold tin since the meeting of the international committee at The Hague last week. Sir Philip admitted that virtually all the advisers of the international committee were men interested in the tin industry. But he refused to disclose the tin holdings of the interests behind the private pool, explaining that this information had been given in confidence to the international tin committee.

"The Buffer pool has not yet bought or sold any tin; it has merely collected tin from the contributing governments in accordance with the scheme," he said. "There can, therefore, be no question of inquiring into its operation."

TRADE LEADER URGES FIGHT ON HIGH RELIEF PAY

New York, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Henry I. Harriman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, tonight called upon the country "to let congress know of its opposition to the needless extravagance of paying a going wage for relief work."

In coming strongly to the support of President Roosevelt in the controversy over the $4,880,000,000 work relief bill, Harriman emphatically denounced the prevailing wage theory.

"If work relief cannot be given in the way which the President desires," Harriman said, "it should not be given at all, and resort should be had to the dole."

The administration had planned to pay a maximum of about $50 a month to those taken from relief rolls and put to work. The President said the wage should not be high enough to attract workers in private industry. The McCarran amendment would cause the payment of the average wage prevailing in the locality where the work was done.

Consumers Co. Hearing Continued Until Today

Hearing on reorganization of the Consumers' company was again continued yesterday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson until today. Raymond F. Hayes, counsel for a bondholders' committee, explained that two bond committees exist—his own, headed by John C. Fitzgerald, which approves the existing plan with certain modifications, and another whose chairman is Homer Carey of Northwestern university.

POLL OF SENATE SHOWS BANKING BILL WILL PASS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—The New Deal banking act of 1935 will be passed by congress virtually in its present form unless it hits unforeseen snags or gets lost in the legislative rush, a private poll of the senate showed today.

Fifty-seven of the 96 senators, a clear majority, have stated that they will vote for the bill. Fifteen others are definitly opposed to it, and the remaining 24 will not commit themselves. At least equal strength is believed to be mustered behind the drastic banking measure in the house of representatives. It passage in virtually its present form, permitting enormous credit expansion and giving the government control of credit and money, appears assured.

Chance to Postpone Action.

Paramount danger to enactment of the banking act is that it is not as yet, at least, on the list of "must" legislation for this session. It might be passed over and left for a later session of congress if it gets caught in a last minute rush of legislation toward the close of the session.

The bill's strength lies in the fact that it goes along with the prevailing sentiment in congress for a central bank or at least centralized credit control under domination of the government. It suits the tastes of congressmen who are desirous of dethroning private bank control over the reserve system and enthroning government control in its place.

Private bankers, however, are bitterly opposed to the bill. Tom K. Smith, head of the American Bankers' association legislative committee, has as yet been able to muster little backing for the bill, among large New York bankers especially. Mr. Smith himself is reported to favor the bill, but he is not committed definitly.

Bankers Dislike Provisions.

The provision which would allow federal reserve member banks to rediscount with the federal reserve system any "sound" asset and the provision which allows member banks to make 20 year real estate loans up to 60 per cent of their time deposits are receiving particularly heavy attacks from the large bankers.

These provisions, the bankers argue, will encourage "loose" banking, especially by small country banks in the west, the traditional offenders on real estate loans. Believing that they will be able to rediscount all "sound" assets with the reserve banks, these small banks may load up too heavily with real estate paper, the urban bankers feel.

The city banks feel they have a direct stake in such a development because they are tied up with the little banks in the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation. Should the little banks start failing because of an overdose of frozen real estate paper, the big banks, through the FDIC, would be assessed to make up the losses to their depositors.

BUREAU TO HELP INVESTORS WINS BUCKET SHOP WAR

There are no known bucket shops operating in Chicago today, according to the annual report of Investors Protective Bureau, Inc., 10 South La Salle street, released today. This is the result chiefly of the continued activity of the bureau in calling security frauds to the attention of law enforcing officers and its general surveillance of the financial field, according to the bureau.

The bureau last year was active in lodging complaints of violations of the federal securities act with the securities and exchange commission, which resulted not only in action being taken against violators in Illinois, but also in neighboring states.

"As the country emerges further from the depression," he said, "it is probable, in spite of an ever increasing number of laws, that there will be a considerable increase in activities of security swindlers. It will require the utmost vigilance on the part of authorities and the bureau to maintain anything like a status quo."

WARNS AAA PLAN MEANS CONTROL OF MANUFACTURE

James L. Donnelly, executive vice president, yesterday warned members of the Illinois Manufacturers' association that thousands of Illinois concerns engaged in the manufacture or sale of food or other agricultural competing products face rigid licensing and control by amendments to the AAA now under consideration by congress.

He announced a meeting would be held March 7, when members affected by this legislation can discuss it and decide on how objections may most effectively be made.

In a circular sent to all members Donnelly listed the members of the two legislative committees and asked that protests be sent them. He also named 117 different lines of businesses, most of them represented in Chicago, which will be affected by the legislation.

Industrial Board Places Unemployed at 10,142,000

New York, Feb. 27.—The total number of unemployed workers in January was 10,142,000 according to an estimate by the national industrial conference board. This is an increse of 402,000, or 4.1 per cent, over the board's figures covering the preceding month, and a drop of 396,000, or 3.8 per cent, from the estimate of January, 1934.

FOES OF MIDDLE WEST PLAN AIM FIRE AT BANKS

A series of attacks was leveled at the plan, its fairness, and the good faith of its proponents. Occasionally, a stray shot would find a mark. At one point, Judge Wilkerson agreed that the burden of proof rested on those who seek to show the far flung holding company is insolvent. At another point, the court said that it would be forced to take judicial notice of the fact that a receiver for the company was a director of a bank whose interests "might conflict" with those of the company.

Fight Over Insolvency Issue.

Proponents of the plan were challenged by opponents as the former tried to introduce evidence purporting to show that the company was insolvent. The latter claimed the company is worth far more than the value placed upon it under the reorganization plan.

James H. Benjamin, 3720 Sheridan road, described as a corporate analyst, was on the stand when court was adjourned until 10:30 a. m. today.

Benjamin was called by Attorney Thomas V. Sullivan, a newcomer to the case, who stated that he represents small amounts of common stock and debentures. Sullivan's purpose was to show that creditors have placed arbitrary, unreasonable depressed values on properties of Middle West.

He quoted from an analysis of 13 operating companies controled by Middle West to show that they alone have earned sufficient over the last five years to pay dividends of 6.3 per cent on the 103 million dollars invested in them by Middle West.

Urges Accepting Book Values.

Sullivan argued strenuously for consideration of "book values as accepted by state utility commissions for rate making purposes." These, he contended, are much more nearly fair yardsticks than "depressed" valuations "assumed" by banking creditors for purposes of reorganization.

"We have a plan presented by bank creditors who have not proved their claims and have no right to bring this case until they have," was Sullivan's opening statement. Previously, no one had questioned the right of bank creditors to preference, there being no doubt that they had loaned money to Middle West.

Earlier in the day Samuel Ettelson, attorney for 153 common stock holders, quoted the amended bankruptcy as providing for a modification and scaling down of debts and creditor claims so that all parties may share in the reorganized company. He asked that this action be taken.

J. P. Morgan Art Sale Believed Move to Prevent Tax Tangles

New York, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Wall street concluded today that there is no mystery after all in the decision of J. P. Morgan to dispose of a number of his valuable paintings and a substantial part of his extensive property holdings on Long Island. Those close to the International banker infer the sale offer is simply a matter of simplifying the estate in case of death.

J. P. MORGAN.

The mystery is how the vast Morgan holdings will be taxed by state and federal authorities. Experts who have puzzled over an estate of a few millions admit the Morgan property will present a tangle to the greatest of tax officials unless the Morgan properties are arranged in a simplified form for taxation purposes.

Taxes Take About Half.

About half of the taxable portion of an estate of large proportions is taken in state and federal inheritance taxes, the value determined at the moment of death. For example, the total federal and New York state estate tax on $10,000,000 is $4,655,300. Added to that, of course, would be administration expense and other items.

Morgan's latest plan is to offer at auction at Christie's in London his collection of 900 miniatures on ivory extending from the 16th century. Thus, tax men say, Morgan probably is setting an exact value through sale on some portion of his art treasure, a method which would preclude argument.

Then, too, the ready cash derived from a sale could be used to pay death taxes rather than through funds derived from forced liquidation after death, a situation which the experts declare would present further difficulties.

No Estimate of Wealth.

While there is no reliable estimate on the extent of the Morgan wealth, it has been agreed that forced liquidation might bring but a fraction of what could be raised through a sale over a period of years.

Morgan already has sold six paintings this year for $1,500,000, and placed on the market a 31 acre estate at Glen Cove and an 18 acre estate at Locust Valley, both on Long Island.

The miniatures are part of the $60,000,000 art collection assembled by his father, the late J. Pierpont Morgan. The vast collection has been reduced considerably by gifts to museums and private sales since the death of the elder Morgan in 1913.

CHICAGO STOCK EXCHANGE ASKS FIRMS REGISTER

Instructions for permanent registration applications under the securities exchange act of 1934 were mailed yesterday to 298 corporations with securities listed on the Chicago Stock exchange.

Michael J. O'Brien, president of the exchange, asked the concerns to notify the exchange before March 15, when the application will be received and whether required financial statements will be filed with the application or a delay requested.

Steel Output, Scrap Prices Drop Further

Further declines in steel output and scrap prices occurred during the last week, with all important centers except three showing recessions in production, the Iron Age announced yesterday. Exceptions to the general trend were at Chicago and Detroit, where the rates held at 54 and 100 per cent, respectively, and at Birmingham, where rail orders lifted output 4 points to 54 per cent.

Scrap prices throughout the country are weak, the journal says, with declines in heavy melting steel at Pittsburgh and Chicago depressing the magazine's scrap composite from $11.92 to $11.67 a ton.

Scrap Production Mounts.

"Meanwhile the production of industrial scrap has been mounting. At Detroit docks and yards are loaded with old material and the flow of scrap from the west and southwest is swelling.

"It is still a moot question whether consumption of finished steel has suffered a setback. The automotive industry has by no means abandoned its plans for continued heavy production and container manufacturers and farm equipment makers remain active users of mill products."

Automobile companies have been handicapped in a number of cases, the journal says, by lagging deliveries of bodies and other parts. In another instance shipments of running boards and of sheets used to construct them have been held up by a strike.

Auto Expansion Expected.

Despite hindrances February assemblies are estimated at 360,000 units, and this total is expected to be raised to 400,000 in March. Motor car makers, the review says, have placed large orders for delivery of sheets in April and these will be entered on March 1 when second quarter books are opened.

Operating declines during the week included losses of 2 points to 37 per cent at Pittsburgh, 1 point to 35 per cent in the valleys, 4 points to 63 per cent in the Cleveland area, 5 points to 41 per cent at Buffalo, and 5 points to 80 per cent in the Wheeling district.

Structural awards for the week totaled 6,700 tons, compared with 13,500 tons in the preceding week.

ROPER WANTS U. S. OFFICIALS TO LEARN BUSINESS

New York, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Secretary Roper, in an attempt to bring business and the government closer together, would welcome a plan enabling high goverment officials to "exchange services" for brief intervals with business leaders.

Some such interchange, the commerce secretary said today before members of the Bond club, would "afford the government needed up to date business experience and knowledge, and quicken, on the other hand, appreciation among business men of the problems confronting the government."

LONDON'S GOLD PRICE SETS NEW ALL-TIME HIGH

Silver Rises to Peak Since 1929.

New York, Feb. 27.—[Special.]—The London open market price of gold rose today to an all time high record and silver sold at the highest level since 1929, cables to local foreign exchange houses reported.

The London price of gold bullion, which is based upon the sterling equivalent to the Bank of France's buying price for gold, rose 5 pence to 143 shillings, 11½ pence a fine ounce, equivalent to $34.99. At this price bars valued at $1,317,682 were purchased.

Gold Trinkets Sold.

The rise of the precious metals to new highs brought about the resumption of sales of old family gold and silver trinkets and ornaments at London. Dealers there reported a steady rush to turn jewelry and silver plates into ready cash.

Silver also drew attention in another part of the world as China, which is on the silver standard, reported that the Shanghai dollar soared to a new high level at 39 1-16 cents, placing the American dollar at the equivalent of $2.56 in Chinese money, compared with $3 a few months ago.

The American dollar was fairly steady here against leading foreign currencies. French francs closed at 6.63⅞ cents, up ⅛ point, with the dollar worth 99.92 cents at this level of the franc, compared with 99.94 cents yesterday. The gold value of the dollar against the franc was 59.01 cents, compared with 59.03 cents yesterday and par of 59.06 cents.

Pound Is Lower.

The British pound sagged ⅝ cents to close at $4.86⅛. In London trading the pound at one time fell to 73.16 francs, the lowest it has ever been in terms of the present franc, and closed at 73.20 francs, compared with 73.78 francs yesterday.

Belgas gained a point at 23.53 cents. Swiss francs were 3 points higher at 32.59 cents. Italian lire rose 1 point to 8.52 cents. Canadian dollars dropped below par at 99.96⅞ cents.

The British equalization fund was reported to be supporting the pound but was apparently finding the movement too strong to be stopped. The weakness of the pound reflected a substantial movement of short term capital out of London which has been caused by several factors, including the recent financial unsettlement incident to the breakup of the pepper pool, the expectation of political difficulties, and the belief that recovery in England has been checked.

The receipt of $1,678,800 gold from Canada was reported today by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

STOCKS STAGE RALLY DESPITE BEARISH NEWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 27.—Disregarding such signals of pessimism as a number of depressing railroad earnings statements, a further decline in the steel operating rate and a further drop in electric power output, the stock list staged a mild and irregular recovery in the late dealings today. It was not a convincing effort, and observers thought its chief, if not its only basis, was the technical condition of the market brought about by the long decline. The net gains ranged mostly from a fraction to about a point, but as a whole, the market showed a few more declines than advances.

U. S. Smelting finished 2½ points higher, Atchison gained 2 points, Allied Chemical, 1; Consolidated Gas, ⅝, American Telephone, ½; U. S. Steel, ⅝ and Westinghouse a point.

Rail Issues Leaders.

Appropriately enough, the rails which have been such a drag on the market on the reaction, took the van in today's upturn. Their rating on the speculative list was boosted somewhat by a series of assuring and semi-assuring statements by the heads of several roads which have been figuring in receivership rumors going the rounds of the street during the last few days. The presidents of the New York, New Haven and Hartford and of the Southern Railway both of whose shares have been under heavy selling fire, were among those to flout reports of possible or probable "re-organization" of capital structure.

The low priced New Haven common stock regained a full point of its losses on the day's right about in trading sentiment and the shares of Southern Railway did almost as well. Preferred issues moved up with the common in both issues.

Other Improvements.

Other issues of the group to improve their standings were Illinois Central, Lackawanna, Delaware & Hudson, Union Pacific and New York Central which moved up about $1 a share each. Pennsylvania for some reason was unable to cut in on the forward movement and closed fractionally below its previous close. The inactive Central of New Jersey dropped $8 a share.

Among the equipments, both issues of Baldwin Locomotive recovered fractionally from their new all-time lows of yesterday.

Some of the utilities did a little better, but the department as a whole was inconspicuous.

An individual feature to attract attention was the continued activity in Wilson packing shares, the preferreds rising to a new high. In the saddle share division, Johns-Manville was noticeably weak on the "squabble" over federal spending.

N.Y.Exchange Acts to Meet One SEC Recommendation

New York, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock exchange, announced today action had been taken in the exchange's attempt to meet one of the Securities and Exchange commission's recommendations. Amendments to the constitution of the exchange were introduced at a meeting of the governing committee today authorizing an increase in the governing committee by the election of office partners, Whitney said.

UTILITY PROFITS SHOW EFFECT OF INCREASED COSTS

Edison and Public Service Report for January.

Effects of increased costs, heavier taxes and rate reductions are shown in reports for January released yesterday by two leading utility companies. Commonwealth Edison company reported that certain non-recurring items of other income offset substantially higher costs, and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois reported an increase in gross income, but a drop on net income from a year ago.

Net income for the Commonwealth Edison company amounted to $1,163,964 after all charges, compared with net of $1,036,382 after exclusion of the 2 per cent sales tax and other adjustments. Gross revenues amounted to $7,089,048, compared with $6,879,220 in the corresponding month of 1934.

Net Profit Is Smaller.

The Public Service company had a net income of $451,485 for January, against $469,735 a year ago after adjustments. As in the case of the Commonwealth Edison company the income figures do not include accruals of state 2 per cent sales tax. Gross earnings for the month were $3,251,942, compared with $3,192,033 in January, 1934.

Although kilowatt hours of electrical energy consumed by residential and commercial customers of Public Service in January was 8 per cent above a year ago the gross revenue from these customers was 4.1 per cent less, the decrease being due to rate reductions applicable to electric meter readings taken after June 1, 1934, the company stated.

Gas Revenues Increase.

Gas revenues from residential, commercial and industrial customers increased $103,839 over a year ago because of sales to large industrial customers on an interruptible supply basis and increased use of gas through gas space heating.

All present officers of the Public Service company were reëlected at the annual directors' meeting yesterday.

UNION TO TAKE STRIKE VOTE ON FISHER BODY CO.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 27.—(AP)—The United Automobile Workers' union will take a strike vote at the Fisher Body plant here next Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday, John Barskites, secretary of the local, announced tonight.

The company said yesterday that it would not sign an agreement submitted by the union, calling for a 30-hour week, a guaranteed weekly minimum wage, and certain changes in seniority rules. L. R. Scafe, plant manager, said the company would curtail its Cleveland operations unless "continued agitation among an otherwise satisfied group is ended."

Union officials held a long meeting today before announcing the decision to take a strike vote. It was understood they set the start of the vote for Sunday to allow William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, several days for possible conferences with representatives of the automobile manufacturing industry.

FORD STILL FAVORS HIGHER WAGES TO EXPAND CONSUMPTION

New York, Feb. 27.—[Special.]—Henry Ford still favors a policy of higher wages, he announced in a letter made public today by Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor. Woll had asked Ford to comment on the opinions set forth recently "in several influential business quarters" that greater profits might be obtained by reducing wages or by preventing any increase in labor costs.

"I do not believe that production costs are ever really decreased by reducing wages," Ford wrote, "but I have known higher wages usually to bring lower costs. Unless the worker in American industry is enabled to use and enjoy the products of industry the natural balance cannot be maintained. Our only market is our people.

"I believe wages will continue to go higher, not as a result of politics, or from purely humanitarian motives, but as the result of the kind of management that will enable men to earn more. You understand, of course, that inexperienced or shortsighted management does not creat the conditions under which men can earn more.

"Industry cannot pay men what they do not earn, but it can create methods by which men, with the same effort or less, can earn more and so receive more."

Ford expressed the belief that opportunities for skilled employment will increase steadily, and, he continued, "the incentive to skilful work will become ever a larger factor. In these classifications wages will go to higher rates than we have yet seen, with consequent increases for men in the lower classifications."

AM. SAFETY RAZOR VOTES TO PAY 2 BONUS DIVIDENDS

Directors of the American Safety Razor company yesterday declared a special dividend of $1 a share, an extra of 25 cents and the regular quarterly payment of $1 on the capital stock, all payable April 30 to stock of record March 8. It was stated that the special dividend is to be regarded as due to 1934 earnings.

A preliminary report for the year showed net income of $1,062,234 after taxes, depreciation, and other reserves for the year ended Dec. 31, 1934, or equivalent to $6.07 a share on the 175,615 shares of stock outstanding. This compares with net of $736,218, or $4.12 a share on 178,405 shares, in 1933.

The 12½ cent dividend on the new common stock of Wilson & Co., declared on Tuesday, will probably be maintained in succeeding quarters, in view of present earnings, it was announced yesterday by officials of the company.

Wheeling Steel corporation, declared a dividend of 50 cents on the 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock, payable April 1 to stock of record March 12. This is the first dividend ordered on the senior stock since Jan. 2, 1932.

Directors of the United corporation, public utility investment-holding company, took no action on the quarterly dividend of 75 cents on the preferred stock due at this time.

The American Power and Light company declared dividends of 37½ cents a share on the 6 per cent preferred and 31¼ cents a share on the $5 preferred, both payable April 1 to stock of record March 11. Similar amounts were paid in previous quarters.

POWER OUTPUT DIPS, BUT RUNS ABOVE YEAR AGO

Chicago Area Production 3.2% Over 1934.

A more than seasonal decline of 1.8 per cent occurred in electric power output last week, according to national figures released yesterday by Edison Electric institute. The total, however, was 5 per cent above a year ago. In the Chicago area there was a drop of 2.8 per cent from the preceding week but a gain of 3.2 per cent over the corresponding week of 1934.

The total for the country was 1,728,293,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 1,760,562,000 in the preceding week and 1,646,456,000 a year ago. The percentage gain over a year ago declined somewhat as in the preceding week this year the increase was 7.3 per cent.

Figures for Chicago Area.

In the Chicago area the Commonwealth Edison company reported a total of 106,126,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 109,161,000 in the preceding week and 102,830,000 a year ago.

While a seasonal contraction is shown in the figures for the week, the company stated that production of power continued above the 1931 level. The relatively small percentage gain over a year ago, as compared with the preceding week, was attributed to abnormally cold weather a year ago which boosted output at that time.

CHARGES UTILITY CONTROL FIGHT IS MISLEADING

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Chairman Wheeler of the senate commerce committee tonight accused "organized public utility interests" of "flooding congress with misleading propaganda" in opposition to the bill which would abolish utility holding companies after five years.

In addition, he asserted his committee probably would call Henry L. Doherty, president of Cities Service, to account for what he termed an effort to "terrify stockohlders" of that company in writing hundreds of letters objecting to the bill.

Among some Republican members of congress a movement is taking shape directed at substitution of permanent regulation for the section which would put the holding companies out of business after 1940.

Meanwhile, the committee of public utility executives issued an analysis of the pending measure which predicted that its enactment would "seriously impair the nation's electric and gas service" and result in losses to investors into the billions of dollars.

The committee asserted it was "apparent" that the purpose of the measure was "not to regulate, but to destroy." The bill's "real effect," it continued, would be "the nationalization of the electric and natural gas industries."

PACKERS' SALES BEST SINCE JANUARY, 1931, IN DOLLAR VOLUME

Dollar volume of sales by meat packers in the United States to domestic and foreign consumers in January was the largest for any month since January, 1931, despite a decline in sales tonnage from a year ago and from the 1929-'34 seasonal average, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago announced yesterday. Rising prices were responsible for the increased sales value.

Commercial production during the month showed a contra-seasonal decline of 13 per cent from December and was 34 per cent less than a year ago, and 28½ per cent below the 1929-'34 average for the month. Total output, including government tonnage, was 161½, 29, and 23½ per cent, respectively, below the preceding month, a year ago and the average for the month.

Employment in the packing industry declined 11 per cent from December and pay rolls dropped 7 per cent.

Production of creamery butter in the seventh federal reserve district during the month showed a contra-seasonal drop of 3½ per cent from December, and was 7 per cent below a year ago as well as 5 per cent less than the average, the bank reported.

ADVANCE IN PORK SPURS TRADING IN HOG MARKET

Higher pork prices and an early price setback in the hog market stimulated local buying of hogs yesterday, and part of the 10 to 20 cent loss was replaced before the close. The department of agriculture reported top loins selling wholesale up to 21 cents a pound, the highest February levels in five years and 75 per cent above the low spot of about three months ago.

Receipts of hogs slightly exceeded expectations when some of the snowbound supplies came through from the far west. Until yesterday the hog market had advanced for 20 consecutive days, gaining $1.35 to $1.40 in this time.

Top grades were forced back 15 cents yesterday to the $11.60 line, including the processing tax, and the average for the day at $11.40 also showed a loss of 15 cents.

Top steers fell 10 cents short of the $14.00 mark yesterday when receipts overran advance estimates, and the bulk of the day's supply sold at $8.75 to $13.50. Most of the medium to good grades of steers lost 15 to 25 cents.

Increased shipments of lambs caused a sharp swing in prices. Opening unevenly 10 to 25 cents lower, the market reacted and closed 10 to 15 cents above the average of Tuesday. The top was $9.00. Receipts at 16,000 were heaviest of the year for a Wednesday.

ATTORNEY BUYS FARM NORTH OF BARRINGTON, ILL.

Charles Bushnell Fullerton, general attorney for Montgomery Ward & Co., yesterday purchased the 100 acre farm about seven miles north of Barrington, Ill., belonging to the Gruber estate. Robert S. Crane of the Evanston office of Quinlan & Tyson was the only broker in the transaction.

In addition to the farm buildings there is an early American type farmhouse which the new owner intends to remodel extensively and make it a year-round home. Fullerton now lives at 819 Lincoln avenue, Evanston.

GRAINS EMERGE FROM DOLDRUMS IN FINAL SPURT

Wheat and Rye Prices Gain About a Cent.

A last minute spurt on the Chicago Board of Trade lifted grains from the doldrums through which they had drifted much of yesterday's session and prices rushed forward aggressively. Wheat and rye gained about a cent each and corn and oats rose fractionally. Volume mounted appreciably on the rally, particularly during the last fifteen minutes, but activity prior to the reversal in trend was the dullest in many days of quietude.

News was extremely meager. No change was reported in crop conditions; in fact, weather news was scant. This fact was responsible for a fractional rise in wheat prices at the start of trading but heaviness in stocks prompted local professionals to assume the selling side and values reacted. Covering near the close, augmented by speculative buying said to have emanated from the east, brought about the rally.

	Yesterday.	Tuesday.	Wk. ago.
Wheat	$ .98	$ .97¼	$ .97½
Corn	.85	.84½	.86⅝
Oats	.50⅜	.50⅝	.51⅛
Rye	.65¼	.64	.65⅝

Winnipeg wheat was jolted from its recent listlessness and moved forward ½ to ⅝ cent, one of the largest movements for that market in many days. Liverpool gained ¼ to ⅜ cent and Rotterdam lost ½ cent. Buenos Aires was little changed.

Some absorption occurred in May wheat, being credited to millers who removed hedges against sales of flour, while new crop deliveries were accorded most of the speculative buying based on doubtful crop prospects. For this reason their rise was greater than the May future.

Spread in Corn Widens.

The spread between May and July corn widened to 5 cents at one time but narrowed to 4¾ cents, a gain of a quarter cent for the day, compared with a 4 cent spread a few days ago.

Brokers attributed the broadening spread to augmented cash demand for corn. Sales of corn to be shipped from the Chicago market increased to more than 81,000 bushels for the day. The trading basis on cash corn gained ½ cent over futures. Recent firmness in the Argentine corn market, particularly in the future nearest delivery date, has been attracting considerable attention.

INLAND ORDERS NEW BLOOMING MILL EQUIPMENT

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 27.—[Special.]—The MacIntosh-Hemphill company of this city has received an order from the Inland Steel company of Chicago for the construction of new blooming mill equipment for that company's Chicago plant.

This improvement to the Inland's primary production facilities is one more step in the comprehensive system of modernization and development which already has covered a period of years and involved the expenditure of millions of dollars. Inland is one of the major producers of sheet and strip steel, plates, bars, rails, structural shapes, as well as a long list of miscellaneous items.

The MacIntosh-Hemphill company will begin work immediately on the Inland mill, which will be one of the most modern and high producers of its kind in the world.

The Inland's new blooming mill will be the third of its kind erected in the United States since 1928.

Resume Continental Bank Suit Against Peoples Trust

Arguments on a motion to dismiss the suit of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company against stockholders of the Peoples Trust and Savings bank to recover $5,576,041 on double liability were resumed yesterday before Circuit Judge John Prystalski by Edwin Karl Seyfarth, attorney for the defendants. The Continental National loaned the Peoples Trust sufficient to pay off depositors, but the collateral given was insufficient by the amount asked to cover the obligation, the suit charges.

LARD FUTURES GO LOWER ON REACTION IN HOG PRICES

A sharp reaction in hog prices brought in profit taking sales by holders of lard contracts yesterday, but the decline ran into investment buying of July and September deliveries, while cash interests bought May to remove hedges against moderate shipping sales. Closing trades were at net losses of 7½ to 10 cents. Bellies were unchanged to 7½ cents higher. Shipping demand for cash lard showed a slight improvement with cash lard quoted at $13.52 at the close while loose was $13.50, leaf $13.75, and bellies $16.75 per 100 pounds. Prices follow:

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 27.—A complete reversal of sentiment toward the lower grade railroad bonds brought a decided improvement to the market today. Issues of this type gained as much as they had lost in the previous session. The rally was strongest in those issues which had been most depressed.

The about face was ascribed to reassuring statements from several railroad executives and banking houses which scotched rumors that bankruptcy was imminent for several companies.

RFC Plan Is Factor.

Another factor in reversing the downward trend was a report from Washington that the RFC intends to continue making loans to roads that can offer sufficient collateral and can obtain ICC certificates that there is a reasonable prospect of ability to cover fixed charges.

Southern Railway bonds, the object of yesterday's selling attack, led the recovery. The movement took in all except a few of the old favorites, including obligations of Southern Pacific, New York Central, Milwaukee, New Haven, Nickel Plate, Baltimore and Ohio, Chicago and North Western refunding 5s, and Boston and Maine 5s of '67.

St. Louis Southwestern 5s were a notable exception to the trend, breaking sharply to a new low for the year on small sales.

Corporate Loans Easier.

High grade corporate bonds were generally easier on small offerings, but a number of issues of this type improved fractionally. Declines left no impression of real weakness. This was equally true of the treasury list, although most issues were lower.

In the foreign group trading was as dull as it has been for many a day and the trend was irregular. Chilean issues failed to react enthusiastically to the arrival of a Chilean delegation, which has come to this country bent on obtaining a debt agreement.

A Real Estate Bond.

Investors' Guide: Kindly give me information about a defaulted bond issued by Greenebaum's Sheridan-Grace apartments. It has been foreclosed but cannot get any information at title and trust company where deposited.—Miss M. H. K.

Answer: Sheridan-Grace apartments, Chicago, bonds outstanding total $2,150,000. The property securing the bonds, a 94 apartment building at 3800 Sheridan road, Chicago, has been foreclosed, the period of redemption has expired, and title has been deposited with Chicago Title and Trust company, liquidation trustee. It is anticipated that certificates of beneficial interest, representing ownership of the property, will be issued to depositing bondholders shortly.

Operations of the property appear satisfactory. Disregarding special nonrecurring charges, the property appears well able to cover operating expenses and current taxes. For 1934 gross receipts totaled $151,457 and operating expenses were $81,412, leaving an operating income, before taxes, of $70,044. Taxes for 1933 totaled $30,210.

For 1933 gross receipts were $144,483 and operating income was $61,1[illegible] while in 1932 gross was $170,896 and operating income was $94,465.

Tax payments, applicable to current and unpaid back taxes, aggregated $72,790. Nonrecurring expenditures included $169,966 deficiency payment, $21,500 receiver and attorney fees and $7,532 trustee fees. The report from the protective committee does not state whether there are any other accrued charges to be met.

Taxes for 1932 and prior years have been paid in full. The 1933 tax, totaling $30,210, is unpaid, while the 1934 tax, although not yet billed, has accrued as a lien against the property.

Occupancy in January, 1934, was 93.61 per cent, against 97 per cent for June, 1933, and 90 per cent average for the full 1932 year.

Eventually depositing bondholders will be the owners of the property under a liquidation trust, a device enabling the protective committee to continue its control of the property.

No Default Here.

Investors' Guide: Will you please tell me if a United States war savings stamp, payable Jan. 1, 1923, series of 1918, $5, has any value? If so, where can it be redeemed?—R. E.

Answer: United States war savings stamps are obligations of the United States. They are worth face value. They can be cashed in at the United States treasury office. Your local federal reserve bank will, upon presentation, give you a receipt for the stamp and send it to the United States treasury, which will then send you a check for the amount due.

HELP WANTED—MEN.

Miscellaneous.

WE CAN PLACE A FEW GOOD MEN WHO have had building trades or similar experience, and ranging from 25 to 40 years, and who really want to get into something that will pay them in the coinage of success for their earnest, honest efforts. We don't want men who would rather fish out a dole existence than make from $35 to $60 a week and eventually more. We don't want your time—have nothing to sell—but are ready to back up a few good men and teach them this outstanding electrical unit business and show them how the only independence today is to work on an honest commission arrangement rather than be wage-slaved and subject to being laid off or fired.

The men we want live at home. If they drive their cars, that is an advantage. We prefer men always who have the kind of folks at home who will encourage them, and add to the family success. Men right here in these offices have been buying new cars recently—furnishing their homes better—buying good clothes—laying aside money, taking good care of their families and enjoying real prosperity. This company is big, powerful, and fair. If you like hard work, want to learn your old job, and those same brains are good enough to learn this one. It's work you can do, and can't help but be proud of, and mighty proud to be able to take home real money every week of the year—year in and year out, without respect to seasons!

The men who will talk to you in these offices came into this business the way we invite you in, and they are instructed to get you busy right away if you and they get together. First of all, we want you to be there on time—not a minute later than 3 o'clock, Thursday afternoon, Feb. 28. Come to the office most convenient to you—which will be any of these offices—2d floor at 3703 Irving Park-blvd.—Room 201, 2d floor at 1166 Diversey Parkway—or Room 6 State Bank Bldg., Park Ridge.

We want men who will make not less than $175 and up to $300 in March—more in April—still more in May—and who will place themselves on the same income basis as the other men who started the same as you would start, got the same free training, and have been helped along exactly as we shall co-operate with you. Be on time! Be prepared to put in the balance of the afternoon if it appears that you can interest us and we invite you to stay!

Hundreds of our men are making from $50 to as high as $250 a week cash comms. with the invention that has everybody amazed in the specialty field.

Priced to sell today for as low as 15 cents a day, this electrical unit is being accepted by public buildings, stores, homes, theaters; is passed by the U. S. Bureau of Standards, used by government buildings throughout the U. S., in the White House, and comes as near to selling itself as any product you will ever see.

You don't have to be a salesman, because we will discount sales experience in favor of a genuine desire to learn and work hard. A new man just starting can expect to earn from $38 to $70 his first week. We will interview men 11 a. m. Thursday. NO OTHER TIME. Room 1019, 75 E. WACKER-DR.

I want a man living at home in any of these localities, preferably with a car, of good reputation, not over 43 years old and a consistent worker.

Our company leads in its field in electrical equipment, units and service, but past experience in these lines is not required, as we wish you to start our customers right so they expand our good will. The rate of commission payment is unusually good, and our financial ratings is high. You never need worry about your compensation.

I shall make the selection at the Annota Hotel, 2417 S. 52d-av., Cicero, at 11 a. m. TODAY sharp. Ask for T. N. Lind.

A MAN LIVING IN AUSTIN, OAK PARK, River Forest, or near-by who can qualify for this opening will be selected today Thursday, Feb. 28, to handle our special business in this vicinity. Our electrical invention is one of the outstanding units of today and we have men making comm. incomes ranging from a start of $165 the first month up to $300 and more a month. A car will help. Health and courtesy important. Cannot use a man over 45—prefer men in their thirties. We do not risk your money, but this is a steady position for the man selected. Call promptly at 11 this morning. Carlton Hotel, 1111 Pleasant. Oak Park. Ask for Mr. Lester Larsen.

IF YOU NEED WORK

we have made places in our organization for 15 men, and we are particularly anxious to talk to those who have had some connection with the building or allied trades and who can readily grasp the operation of an electrical unit. The immediate opportunity is in the sales and promotional department with a percentage and bonus that will make a very livable income for the right men. Apply ready to give references and go to work today. See Mr. Lee, Room 618, 203 N. WABASH-AV.
